Machines of the Mind Katharine Breen, 2021-05-11 In Machines of the Mind Katharine Breen proposes that medieval personifications should be understood neither as failed novelistic characters nor as instruments of heavy handed didacticism She argues that personifications are instead powerful tools for thought that help us to remember and manipulate complex ideas testing them against existing moral and political paradigms Specifically different types of medieval personification should be seen as corresponding to positions in the rich and nuanced medieval debate over universals Breen identifies three different types of personification Platonic Aristotelian and Prudentian that gave medieval writers a surprisingly varied spectrum with which to paint their characters Through a series of new readings of major authors and works from Plato to Piers Plowman Breen illuminates how medieval personifications embody the full range of positions between philosophical realism and nominalism varying according to the convictions of individual authors and the purposes of individual works Recalling Gregory the Great's reference to machinae mentis machines of the mind Breen demonstrates that medieval writers applied personification with utility and subtlety employing methods of personification as tools that serve different functions Machines of the Mind offers insight for medievalists working at the crossroads of religion philosophy and literature as well as for scholars interested in literary character building and gendered relationships among characters readers and texts beyond the Middle Ages

A Companion to Medieval Poetry Corinne Saunders, 2010-04-12 MEDIEVAL POETRY In a series of original essays from leading literary scholars this Companion offers a chronological sweep of medieval poetry from Old English to the great genres of romance narrative and alliterative poetry of the 15th century. Beginning in the Anglo Saxon period the volume explores the Old English language and its alliterative tradition before moving on to examine the genres of heroic devotional wisdom and epic poetry culminating in a discussion of arguably the founding text of the English literary canon the great epic Beowulf. In part two the Companion moves on to discuss the linguistic and social changes brought about as a result of the Norman Conquest exploring how this influenced the development of literary genres. Essays probe the shifts and continuities in genres such as lyric chronicle and dream vision and the emergence of new genres such as popular and courtly romance and drama. A particular focus is the continuation of the alliterative tradition from the Anglo Saxon period to the fifteenth century. A series of chapters on major authors including Chaucer Gower and Langland provide fresh approaches to reading and studying key texts such as The Canterbury Tales Piers Plowman and Sir Gawain and the Green Knight. Finally the collection examines cultural change at the close of the medieval period and the variety of literature produced in the long fifteenth century including writing by and for women Scots poetry clerical and courtly works and secular and sacred drama.
