Lost Time Cafe:

The Novel and Europe Andrew Hammond, 2016-10-05 This book examines the ways in which fiction has addressed the continent since the Second World War Drawing on novelists from Europe and elsewhere the volume analyzes the literary response to seven dominant concerns ideas of Europe conflict borders empire unification migration and marginalization offering a ground breaking study of how modern and contemporary writers have participated in the European debate The sixteen essays view the chosen writers not as representatives of national literatures but as participants in transcontinental discussion that has occurred across borders cultures and languages In doing so the contributors raise questions about the forms of power operating across and radiating from Europe challenging both the institutionalized divisions of the Cold War and the triumphalist narrative of continental unity currently being written in Brussels Friday Haynes, Matthew, 2015-03-31 On an unassuming Friday the lives of five people converge and explode in a small American town A sister returns home to reclaim herself a brother is pushed to the edge when confronted by a violent memory a father rekindles a secret high school crush an aunt questions her marriage as her husband's libido dwindles and the ghost of a local priest haunts them all Told with a unique literary voice Friday examines the languor and melancholy of the day to day life and the exaltation when a choice is finally made Amirosian Nights D.
