Newcastle Upon Tyne Its Growth And Achievement:

Life on the Tyne Peter D. Wright, 2016-05-06 Whilst the early modern period has long been recognized as witnessing a growth in trade and consumerism the majority of studies to date have tended to focus upon London and southern England In order to provide a more balanced understanding of the dynamics at work on a national level this book explores the local economy and waterborne trades of Newcastle and the River Tyne in North East England Drawing upon a variety of primary sources including parish records probate inventories Newcastle Exchequer port books and the previously unpublished diary of an apprentice hostman none of which have been examined previously in this context the study adds significantly to our understanding of the growing community in North East England In particular it underlines the expansion of a thriving middling class with an associated culture of consumption driving a rapid increase in the import and often re export of a wide range of luxury items of food clothing and soft furnishings As the coal trade and a flourishing general trade with London and other home and overseas ports grew the book highlights the major impact upon the size and variety of work in the port and the subsequent increasing size and complexity of the water trades community and its associated business networks

"Papists" and Prejudice Jonathan Bush, 2014-07-24 The North East of England was regarded as a major Catholic stronghold in the nineteenth century This was in no small part due to the large numbers of Irish Catholic immigrants who contributed greatly towards the region's unprecedented expansion with the Catholic population in Newcastle and County Durham increasing from 23 250 in 1847 to 86 397 in 1874 How far were the Catholic Church and its incoming Irish adherents accepted by the Protestant population of North East England This book will provide a timely reassessment of the hitherto accepted view that local cultural factors reduced the anti Catholic and anti Irish feeling in the North East that seemed deep seated in other areas This book demonstrates the way in which north eastern anti Catholicism was far from homogenous and monolithic cutting across the political and religious divide It highlights the proactive role of the Catholic communities in sectarian controversy whose assertiveness contributed ironically towards the development of local anti Catholic feeling Finally it will show how large scale Irish immigration ensured that the North East experienced regular outbreaks of sectarian violence whether English Irish or intra Irish which were influenced by local conditions and circumstances This book is the first comprehensive regional study of Victorian anti Catholicism By examining areas of enquiry not previously considered in broader studies its findings have wider implications for understanding the prevalent and all encompassing nature of anti Catholicism generally It also contributes towards the wider debate on North East regional identity by questioning the continued credibility of a paradigm which views the region as exceptionally tolerant

Labour and the Poor in England and Wales - The letters to The Morning Chronicle from the Correspondants in the Manufacturing and Mining Districts, the Towns of Liverpool and Birmingham, and the Rural Districts J. Ginswick, 2016-09-13 The Morning Chronicle presented the state of the working classes of Britain before the public with clarity insight and honesty Consisting mainly of verbatim statements from the people themselves it was a medium through which the previously inarticulate masses were able to speak with one firm voice First published in 1983 this book collates the letters from correspondents based in Lancashire Cheshire and Yorkshire The letters improve our knowledge of working class life in nineteenth century England and Wales and provide a unique insight into the impact of industrialization This book will be of interest to those studying the history of the working class labour and poverty

England and the Baltic in the

Elizabethan Era Henryk Zins,1972 The Eighteenth-Century Town Peter Borsay,2014-01-14 The eighteenth century represents a critical period in the transition of the English urban history as the town of the early modern era involved into that of the industrial revolution and since Britain was the first industrial nation this transformation is of more than national significance for all those interested in the history of towns This book gathers together in one volume some of the most interesting and important articles that have appeared in research journals to provide a rich variety of perspectives on urban development in the period The Early Public Lunatic Institutions of England Part I Robert J. Wycherley,2017-12-20 In the published literature of madness and its institutional management the earliest English institutions for the mad have tended to be treated as part of a bad old days from which progress has been painfully made to modern knowledge and humanitarian treatment of mental illness This book takes issue with this simplistic account and re examines these early institutions using their own records It suggests that the institutional governors while somewhat distanced from day to day institutional management were relatively well intentioned and that the institutions were far more complex in their organisation and functioning than has previously been reported English Counties and Public Building, 1650-1830 Christopher W. Chalklin,1998-01-01 Before the modern growth of centralised government the most important unit of administration was the county Counties were run by Justices of the Peace sitting together at Quarter Sessions where as well as trying criminal cases they dealt with all county business In the years between 1650 and 1830 a increasing proportion of their time and resources was taken up in erecting public buildings Building by counties taken together represents a substantial and previously little noticed programme of public works Unlike most other building works in this period where the details of planning building execution and cost are lost county building is well documented allowing us to follow clearly the stages of erection The county building programme reflected changes in society and in the economy apart from being itself an indication of the growing wealth of the period A sizeable part of county budgets was spent on bridges A series of increasingly elaborate bridewells and gaols reflected concerns over employment and crime also reflected in the erection of judges lodgings and court houses the latter being often incorporated in shire halls Rising humanitarian alarm about mental illness led to the building of pauper lunatic asylums after 1800 English Counties and Public Building 1650 1830 is an original and important contribution to both administrative and architectural history Before the modern growth of centralised government the most important unit of administration was the county Counties were run by Justices of the Peace sitting together at Quarter Sessions where as well as trying criminal cases they dealt with all county business In the years between 1650 and 1830 a increasing proportion of their time and resources was taken up in erecting public buildings Building by counties taken together represents a substantial and previously little noticed programme of public works Unlike most other building works in this period where the details of planning building execution and cost are lost county building is well documented allowing us to follow clearly the stages of erection The county building programme reflected changes in society and in the economy apart from being itself an indication of the growing wealth of the period A sizeable part of county budgets was spent on bridges A series of increasingly elaborate bridewells and gaols reflected concerns over employment and crime also reflected in the erection of judges lodgings and court houses the latter being often incorporated in shire halls Rising humanitarian alarm about mental illness led to the building of pauper lunatic asylums after 1800 English Counties and Public Building 1650 1830 is an original and important contribution to both administrative and architectural history The Longue Durée and World-Systems Analysis Richard E. Lee, 2012-05-21 In his pathbreaking article History and the Social Sciences The Longue Dur e Fernand Braudel raised a call for the social sciences to overcome their disciplinary isolation from one another Commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the article s publication the contributors to this volume do not just acknowledge their debt to the past they also bear witness to how the crisis Braudel recognized a half century ago is no less of a crisis today The contributions included here from scholars in history sociology and geography reflect the spirit and practice of the intellectual agenda espoused by Braudel coming together around the concept of the longue dur e Indeed they are evidence of how the groundbreaking research originally championed by Braudel has been carried forward in world systems analysis for a more socially relevant understanding of the planet and its future possibilities The book concludes with a new translation of Braudel s original article by famed sociologist Immanuel Wallerstein Studies of Field Systems in the British Isles Alan R. H. Baker, 1973-07-19 An enormous amount of research into British field systems has been undertaken by historical geographers economic historians and others since H L Gray s classic work on English Field Systems was published This book both synthesizes and advances our knowledge of field systems in the British Isles The Labour Aristocracy Revisited Takao Matsumura, 1983 Admiral Collingwood: Nelson's Own Hero Max Adams, 2015-03-12 Admiral Lord Collingwood the eldest son of a Newcastle merchant went to sea in 1761 at the age of thirteen In his nearly fifty years in the Navy he rose to become a fine seaman a master of gunnery a battle commander the equal of his friend and rival in love Nelson He was also an accomplished writer and wit a doting father inveterate gossip and consummate diplomat and strategist Collingwood s service took him to Boston where he lived and fought during the American War of Independence to Antigua where he and Nelson both fell in love with Mary Moutray to Corsica Sicily and Menorca where he began as a young midshipman and ended his career as the effective viceroy of the Mediterranean ADMIRAL COLLINGWOOD is an intimate portrait of a forgotten British naval hero and a thrilling portrait of the glory years of the age of sail Regions and Industries Pat Hudson, 1989-10-26 In this book a team of distinguished historians contend that industrialization in Britain and elsewhere occurred first and foremost within regions rather than in the nation as a whole The Writing of Urban Histories in Eighteenth-century England Rosemary Sweet, 1997 This text provides an analysis of 18th century urban culture and local historical scholarship The author shows how a sense of the past was crucial not only in instilling civic pride and shaping a sense of community but also in informing contests for power and influence in the local community
