Lumsden,2004-07-08 Inez Milholland was the most glamorous suffragist of the 1910s and a fearless crusader for women's rights Moving in radical circles she agitated for social change in the prewar years and she epitomized the independent New Woman of the time Her death at age 30 while stumping for suffrage in California in 1916 made her the sole martyr of the American suffrage movement Her death helped inspire two years of militant protests by the National Woman's Party including the picketing of the White House which led in 1920 to ratification of the 19th Amendment granting women the right to vote Lumsden's study of this colorful and influential figure restores to history an important link between the homebound women of the 19th century and the iconoclastic feminists of the 1970s World War I and American Art Robert Cozzolino,Anne Classen Knutson,David M. Lubin,2016-11 World War I and American Art provides an unprecedented look at the ways in which American artists reacted to the war Artists took a leading role in chronicling the war crafting images that influenced public opinion supported mobilization efforts and helped to shape how the war's appalling human toll was memorialized The book brings together paintings drawings prints photographs posters and ephemera spanning the diverse visual culture of the period to tell the story of a crucial turning point in the history of American art Hotbed Joanna Scutts,2022-06-07 The dazzling story of the Greenwich Village feminists who blazed the trail for the movement's most radical ideas On a Saturday in New York City in 1912 around the wooden tables of a popular Greenwich Village restaurant a group of women gathered all of them convinced that they were going to change the world It was the first meeting of Heterodoxy a secret social club Its members were passionate advocates of free love equal marriage and easier divorce They were socialites and socialists reformers and revolutionaries artists writers and scientists Their club at the heart of America's bohemia was a springboard for parties performances and radical politics But it was the women's extraordinary friendships

The United States and Latin America Fredrick B. Pike, 2010-07-05 The lazy greaser asleep under a sombrero and the avaricious gringo with money stuffed pockets are only two of the negative stereotypes that North Americans and Latin Americans have cherished during several centuries of mutual misunderstanding This unique study probes the origins of these stereotypes and myths and explores how they have shaped North American impressions of Latin America from the time of the Pilgrims up to the end of the twentieth century Fredrick Pike s central thesis is that North Americans have identified themselves with civilization in all its manifestations while viewing Latin Americans as hopelessly trapped in primitivism the victims of nature rather than its masters He shows how this civilization nature duality arose from the first European settlers perception that nature and everything identified with it including American Indians African slaves all women and all children was something to be conquered and dominated This myth eventually came to color the North American establishment view of both immigrants to the United States and all our neighbors to the south
