Linda Symcox,2002 In the 1990s the debate over what history and more importantly whose history should be taught in American schools resonated through the halls of Congress the national press and the nation's schools. Politicians such as Lynne Cheney, Newt Gingrich and Senator Slade Gorton and pundits such as Rush Limbaugh, John Leo and Charles Krauthammer fiercely denounced the findings of the National Standards for History which subsequently became a major battleground in the nation's ongoing struggle to define its historical identity. To help us understand what happened, Linda Symcox traces the genealogy of the National History Standards Project from its origins as a neo-conservative reform movement to the drafting of the Standards through the 18 months of controversy and the debate that ensued and the aftermath. Broad in scope, this case study includes debates on social history, world history, multiculturalism, established canons, national identity, cultural history and liberal education. Symcox brilliantly illuminates the larger issue of how educational policy is made and contested in the United States, revealing how a debate about our children's education actually became a struggle between competing political forces.

Inhuman Conditions Pheng Cheah, 2009-07-01 Through an examination of debates about cosmopolitanism and human rights, Cheah questions key ideas about what it means to be human and reveals the flaws in claims about the imminent decline of the nation-state and the obsolescence of popular nationalism.

The Ashgate Research Companion to Cosmopolitanism Maria Rovisco, Magdalena Nowicka, 2016-04-01 The study of Cosmopolitanism has been transformed in the last 20 years and the subject itself has become highly discussed across the social sciences and the humanities. The Ashgate Research Companion to Cosmopolitanism pursues distinct theoretical orientations and empirical analyses, bringing together mainstream discussions with the newest thinking and developments on the main themes, debates and controversies surrounding the subject. The contributions are grouped into three parts, each reflecting a different analytical focus within a variety of intellectual disciplines and methodological approaches.

Part I: Cultural Cosmopolitanism is primarily concerned with the empirically grounded aspects of cosmopolitanism which are apparent in mundane practices and lifestyle options on the micro-scale of daily interactions. It focuses on the outlooks and lived experience of ordinary individuals and groups in concrete situational contexts and social structures.

Part II: Political Cosmopolitanism sets out the main topics and issues dealt with by scholars writing within the tradition of political cosmopolitanism. Addressing timely issues such as human rights, global justice and global democracy, it focuses on Cosmopolitanism as an ethico-political ideal and a political project to devise new forms of supranational and transnational governance.

Part III: Debates reflects the major debates and controversies on the subject and deliberately eschews any bland consensus to instead foreground the key arguments and lively intellectual discussions in play across disciplinary divisions. Featuring contributions from key thinkers in the field including Ulrich Beck, David Held, and Martha Nussbaum, this comprehensive volume will be a valuable resource for all academics and students working within this area of study.
