Rising from the Ruins Bruce C. Swaffield, 2009-10-02 The neoclassic tendency to write about the ruins of Rome was both an attempt to recapture the grandeur of the golden age of man and a lament for the passing of a great civilization John Dyer who wrote The Ruins of Rome in 1740 was largely responsible for the eighteenth century revival of a unique subgenre of landscape poetry dealing with ruins of the ancient world Few poems about the ruins had been written since Antiquit s de Rome in 1558 by Joachim Du Bellay Dyer was one of first neoclassic poets to return to the decaying stones of a past society as a source of poetic inspiration and imagination He views the relics as monuments of grandeur and greatness but also of impending death and destruction While following most of the rules and standards of neoclassicism that of imitating nature and giving pleasure to a reader Dyer also includes his personal reactions and emotions in The Ruins of Rome The work is composed from the position of a poet who serves as interpreter and translator of the subject a primary characteristic of prospect poetry in the eighteenth century Numerous other writers quickly followed Dyer s example including George Keate William Whitehead and William Parsons The tendency by these poets to write about the ruins of Rome from a subjective point of view was one of the strongest themes in what Northrop Frye has called the Age of Sensibility Although the renewed interest in Roman ruins lasted well into the nineteenth century influencing Romantic poets from Lord Byron to William Wordsworth the evolution of this type of verse was a gradual process it originated with Du Bellay s poem continued through seventeenth century paintings by Claude Lorrain and Salvator Rosa along with the later art of Piranesi and Pannini and reached maturity with the poetic interest in the imagination in the eighteenth century All of these factors especially the tendency of poets to record their subjective feelings and insights concerning the ruins are elements that proved to be instrumental in the eventual development of Romanticism

Under the Red Banner Elvira Grözinger, Magdalena Ruta, 2008 The majority of European Yiddish speaking Jews was murdered by Hitler s National Socialists their cultural realm was destroyed After the war the Communist regimes suppressed Jewish culture but despite emigration of Jewish survivors small Jewish communities continued to exist and made efforts to revive their culture in most of the Communist countries Jewish organizations clubs cultural societies and theatres were founded and a great number of Yiddish books newspapers and periodicals were printed despite political pressure hostility and persecution The cultural activity which developed under the red banner cannot of course be compared to the immense impact the Yiddish culture experienced before the Second World War but it was an important phenomenon in Jewish history which remained uninvestigated for a long time and has not been described in a proper way until today This volume of seventeen essays is a collection of papers delivered by scholars from the USA Sweden Israel Germany and Poland at the conference on Yiddish Culture in the Communists Countries in the Postwar Era which was organized at the Jagiellonian University Cracow in cooperation with the University of Potsdam in November 2006

Overlooking Damage Jonah Siegel,2022-07-12 What does it mean to look How does looking relate to damage These are the fundamental questions addressed in Overlooking Damage From the Roman triumph to the iconoclasm of ISIS and the Taliban to the aerial views of looted landscapes and destroyed temples visible on Google the relationship between beauty and violence is far more intimate than we sometimes acknowledge Jonah Siegel makes the daring argument that a thoughtful reaction to images of damage need not stop at melancholy but can lead us to a new reckoning Would the objects we admire be more beautiful if they were not injured or displaced if they did not remind us of unbearable violence Siegel takes up writers from the time of the French Revolution to today who have reacted to the depredations of revolutionary iconoclasm imperial looting and industrial capitalism and proposes that in these authors we may find resources with which to navigate our contemporary situation Deftly bringing the methods of literary studies to bear on important debates in the study of heritage archaeology and visual culture Overlooking Damage reflects on the ways in which concepts of beauty intersect with periods of epochal violence in an attempt to resist the separation of broken things from the worlds in which they have come to be embedded Two Summers Work in Pueblo Ruins Jesse Walter Fewkes,1904 The Ancient Ruins of Rhodesia Richard Nicklin Hall,W. in Berlin including photographs Studies in Intelligence For almost half a century the hottest front in the Cold War ran through Berlin From summer 1945 until 1990 the secret services of NATO and the Warsaw Pact fought an ongoing duel in the dark Throughout the Cold War espionage was part of everyday life in both East and West Berlin with German spies playing a crucial part of operations on both sides Erich Mielke s Stasi and Reinhard Gehlen s Federal Intelligence Service for example The construction of the wall in 1961 changed the political situation and the environment for espionage the invisible front was now concreted and unmistakable But the fundamentals had not changed Berlin was and would remain the capital of spies until the fall of the Berlin Wall a fact that makes it all the more surprising that there are hardly any books about the work of the secret services in Berlin during the Cold War Now in this compelling volume journalist Sven Felix Kellerhoff and historian Bernd von Kostka describe the spectacular successes and failures of the various secret services based in the city Engaging and useful Journal of Military History Sessional Papers Great Britain.
