Ritual And Religion In The Making Of Humanity:

Ritual and Religion in the Making of Humanity Roy A. Rappaport, 1999-03-25 Roy Rappaport argues that religion is central to the continuing evolution of life although it has been displaced from its original position of intellectual authority by the rise of modern science His book which could be construed as in some degree religious as well as about religion insists that religion can and must be reconciled with science Combining adaptive and cognitive approaches to the study of humankind he mounts a comprehensive analysis of religion s evolutionary significance seeing it as co extensive with the invention of language and hence of culture as we know it At the same time he assembles the fullest study yet of religion s main component ritual which constructs the conceptions which we take to be religious and has been central in the making of humanity s adaptation The text amounts to a manual for effective ritual illustrated by examples drawn from anthropology history philosophy comparative religion and elsewhere

Ritual and Religion in the Making of Humanity Roy A. Rappaport, 1999 Ritual and Religion in the Making of Humanity ,2001 Ritual and Religion in the Xunzi T. C. Kline III, Justin Tiwald, 2014-06-12 Xunzi a founding figure in the Confucian tradition is one of the world s great philosophers and theorists of religion For much of the last century his work has been seen largely as critical of religion particularly the popular beliefs and invocations of supernatural forces that underpin so many religious rituals Contributors to this volume challenge this view and offer a more sophisticated picture of Xunzi He emerges not as critic but rather as an adherent of religion who seeks to give religious practices meaning even though many religious beliefs are mistaken or self serving Each essay offers a powerful illustration of Xunzi as both a religious devotee and as a philosopher of religion drawing on a wide array of disciplines and methodologies Whenever They Prayed Rodney A. Werline, 2021-10-11 In Whenever They Prayed

Dimensions of New Testament Prayer Rodney A Werline shifts the scholarly approach to New Testament prayer from source and genre analyses to seeing prayer as a cultural practice bringing new dimensions of the prayers to light Assisted by ritual theorists such as Catherine Bell Pierre Bourdieu Talal Assad and Roy Rappaport Werline illuminates the genius of the New Testament authors and the members of their communities Through years of embodied practice these authors and members acquired an aptitude that humans uniquely possess the ability through ritual practice to navigate and maintain their relationships with one another and together with their God Werline especially focuses on how their actions brought cultural memory to life assisted in receiving revelations protected them from demonic powers and established and fulfilled their obligations to one another and to that God The full import of these observations however is not possible without placing the prayers within their Second Temple Jewish context Jewish prayers outside the New Testament should not function as mere background but as evidence of a grand cultural enterprise taking place in which members of the early church actively participated

Defining the Sacred Nicola Laneri,2015-05-08 Religion is a phenomenon that is inseparable from human society It brings about a set of emotional ideological and practical elements that are pervasive in the social fabric of any society and characterizable by a number of features These include the establishment of intermediaries in the relationship between humans and the divine the construction of ceremonial places for worshipping the gods and practicing ritual performances and the creation ritual paraphernalia Investigating the religious dimensions of ancient societies encounters problems in defining such elements especially with regard to societies that lack textual evidences and has tended to lead towards the identification of differentiation between the mental dimension related to religious beliefs and the material one associated with religious practices resulting in a separation between scholars able to investigate and possibly reconstruct ritual practices i e archaeologists and those interested in defining the realm of ancient beliefs i e philologists and religious historians The aim of this collection of papers is to attempt to bridge these two dimensions by breaking down existing boundaries in order to form a more comprehensive vision of religion among ancient Near Eastern societies This approach requires that a higher consideration be given to those elements either artificial buildings objects texts etc or natural landscapes animals trees etc that are created through a materialization of religious beliefs and practices enacted by members of communities These issues are addressed in a series of specific case studies covering a broad chronological framework that from the Pre pottery Neolithic to the Iron Age Cover illustration German Archaeological Institute photo N
