Lost City Of The Jungle:

Serials and Series Buck Rainey, 2015-06-08 While many fans remember The Lone Ranger Ace Drummond and others fewer focus on the facts that serials had their roots in silent film and that many foreign studios also produced serials though few made it to the United States The 471 serials and 100 series continuing productions without the cliffhanger endings from the United States and 136 serials and 37 series from other countries are included in this comprehensive reference work Each entry includes title country of origin year studio number of episodes running time or number of reels episode titles cast production credits and a plot synopsis

Cinema at the Margins Wheeler Winston Dixon, 2013-12-01 More and more just a few canonical classics such as Michael Curtiz's Casablanca 1942 or Victor Fleming's Gone With The Wind 1939 are representing the entire film output of an era to a new generation that knows little of the past and is encouraged by popular media to live only in the eternal present What will happen to the rest of the films that enchanted informed and transported audiences in the 1930s 1940s and even as recently as the 1960s This collection of essays aims to highlight some of the lesser known treasures of the past those titles that have been pushed aside by today's wave of cinema amnesia

To-day, 1894 Col. William N. Selig, the Man Who Invented Hollywood Andrew A. Erish, 2012-03-01
All histories of Hollywood are wrong. Why? Two words: Colonel Selig. This early pioneer laid the foundation for the movie industry that we know today. Active from 1896 to 1938, William N. Selig was responsible for an amazing series of firsts, including the first two-reel narrative film and the first two-hour narrative feature made in America, the first American movie serial with cliffhanger endings, the first westerns filmed in the West with real cowboys and Indians, the creation of the jungle adventure genre, the first horror film in America, the first successful American newsreel made in partnership with William Randolph Hearst, and the first permanent film studio in Los Angeles. Selig was also among the first to cultivate extensive international exhibition of American films, which created a worldwide audience and contributed to American domination of the medium. In this book, Andrew Erish delves into the virtually untouched Selig archive at the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences Library to tell the fascinating story of this unjustly forgotten film pioneer. He traces Selig's career from his early work as a traveling magician in the Midwest to his founding of the first movie studio in Los Angeles in 1909 to his landmark series of innovations that still influence the film industry. As Erish recounts the many accomplishments of the man who first recognized that Southern California is the perfect place for moviemaking, he convincingly demonstrates that while others have been credited with inventing Hollywood, Colonel Selig is actually the one who most deserves that
