Issues in News and Reporting CQ Researcher, 2017-12-29 Can News Outlets Regain the Public's Confidence Can Governments Control the Press in the Internet Age Should Americans Have a Right To Be Forgotten Written by award winning CQ Researcher journalists this collection of non partisan reports focuses on 12 hot button issues facing journalists and news organizations With reports ranging from perceptions of media bias and threats to free speech Issues in News and Reporting promotes in depth discussion facilitates further research and helps readers formulate their own positions on crucial issues And because it's CQ Researcher the reports are expertly researched and written presenting readers with all sides of an issue Key Features Chapters follow a consistent organization beginning with a summary of the issue then exploring a number of key questions around the issue next offering background to put the issue into current context and concluding with a look ahead A pro con debate box in every chapter offer readers the opportunity to critically analyze and discuss the issues by exploring a debate between two experts in the field All issues include a chronology a bibliography photos charts and figures to offer readers a more complete picture of the issue at hand Gendered News Elizabeth Goodyear-Grant, 2013-09-06 In the last fifty years many of the institutional and societal barriers that kept Canadian women from public office have disappeared Today women are well educated and well connected and enjoy generally equal treatment from political parties and voters Why then do they hold only a quarter of the seats in the House of Commons a proportion that rose by just seven percentage points between 1993 and 2011 In this illuminating study Elizabeth Goodyear Grant examines a significant obstacle still facing women in political life gendered media coverage News stories are more likely to investigate the personal lives of female politicians or question their aptitude for public life implicitly suggesting that women in politics are marginal or even unwelcome Based on interviews with MPs and party leaders and an analysis of print and television media in the 2000 and 2006 federal elections Gendered News reveals an unsettling climate that affects the success of women in office and could deter them from running at all Preformulating the News Geert Jacobs, 1999-05-15 Preformulating the News is a study of press releases and of how they anticipate the requirements of journalistic writing Drawing from a large corpus Dutch and English it is argued that the genre's peculiar audience directedness can be related to a number of metapragmatic textual features and that this sheds light on the asymmetries of what can be termed the newsmaking and news management processes In the first chapter the study of press releases is put in the context of institutional discourse and the details of a linguistic pragmatic research method are proposed Chapter 2 looks at the complex receiver roles in press releases which are characterized as indirectly targeted i.e. projected discourse In chapters 3 to 6 a data analysis of the metapragmatics of press releases is presented in particular it is shown that self reference pseudo quotation and explicit semi performative play a preformulating role in press releases Chapter 7 offers a case study of the press releases that the American multinational Exxon issued in the wake of the 1989 Alaska oil spill In the eighth and final chapter it is suggested that the study's findings support a hegemonic view of the media. In analysing the much neglected genre of press releases the book aims to contribute to the study of the language of the news. At the same time it explores more general issues of participation and footing as well as reflexive language including deixis, reported speech and performativity.

Asylum Seekers in Australian News Media Ashleigh Haw, 2023-01-01. This book sheds light on how the public engage with, make sense of and discursively evaluate news media constructions of people from asylum seeking backgrounds. As a case study the author discusses her recent research combining Critical Discourse Analysis with a cultural studies Audience Reception framework to examine the perspectives of 24 Western Australians who took part in semi structured interviews. During their interviews participants were asked open ended questions about their general views on people seeking asylum including Australia's policy responses, their media engagement habits and preferences and their views concerning how the Australian media represents people seeking asylum. The author compares and contrasts this research with broader interdisciplinary discussion and the book will therefore appeal to students and scholars of migration, political communication, sociology, audience reception, critical media studies and sociolinguistics.

Newsrooms in Conflict Sallie Hughes, 2010-11-23. Newsrooms in Conflict examines the dramatic changes within Mexican society, politics and journalism that transformed an authoritarian media institution into many conflicting styles of journalism with very different implications for deepening democracy in the country. Using extensive interviews with journalists and content analysis spanning more than two decades, Sallie Hughes identifies the patterns of newsroom transformation that explain how Mexican journalism was changed from a passive and even collusive institution into conflicting clusters of news organizations exhibiting citizen oriented, market driven and adaptive authoritarian tendencies. Hughes explores the factors that brought about this transformation including not only the democratic upheaval within Mexico and the role of the market but also the diffusion of ideas, the transformation of professional identities and most significantly the profound changes made within the newsrooms themselves. From the Zapatista rebellion to the political bribery scandals that rocked the nation, Hughes's investigation presents a groundbreaking model of the sociopolitical transformation of a media institution within a new democracy and the rise and subsequent stagnation of citizen focused journalism after that democracy was established.

NGOs as Newsmakers Matthew Powers, 2018-05-15. As traditional news outlets' international coverage has waned, several prominent nongovernmental organizations have taken on a growing number of seemingly journalistic functions. Groups such as Amnesty International, Human Rights Watch and Médecins Sans Frontières send reporters to gather information and provide analysis and assign photographers and videographers to boost the visibility of their work. Digital technologies and social media have increased the potential for NGOs to communicate directly with the public, bypassing traditional gatekeepers. But have these efforts changed and expanded traditional news practices and coverage and are there consequences to blurring the lines between reporting and advocacy? In NGOs as Newsmakers

Matthew Powers analyzes the growing role NGOs play in shaping and sometimes directly producing international news. Drawing on interviews, observations, and content analysis, he charts the dramatic growth in NGO news-making efforts, examines whether these efforts increase the organizations' chances of garnering news coverage, and analyzes the effects of digital technologies on publicity strategies. Although the contemporary media environment offers NGOs greater opportunities to shape the news, Powers finds it also subjects them to news media norms. While advocacy groups can and do provide coverage of otherwise ignored places and topics, they are still dependent on traditional media and political elites and influenced by the expectations of donors, officials, journalists, and NGOs themselves. Through an unprecedented glimpse into NGOs' newsmaking efforts, Powers portrays the possibilities and limits of NGOs as newsmakers amid the transformations of international news, with important implications for the intersections of journalism and advocacy.

Current Issues in Political Marketing Jennifer Lees-Marshment, Walter W. Wymer, Jr., 2006-05-12 Explore the increased need for marketing within the political arena. Current Issues in Political Marketing presents up-to-date theory and research findings from academics working in political science, advertising, and management, and guidance from successful practitioners who know what it takes to make a nonprofit organization stand out.

Global News Access Carla B. Johnston, 1998-07-28 Fascination with satellite television and Internet technology has become an obsession. People throughout the world watch television and believe what they see and hear without realizing that pictures are selected and stories are sometimes distorted. Concurrently, the world's elite are drawn to the increasing availability of news on the Internet, effectively widening the gap between those who have and do not have access to the new technologies. This analysis of the worldwide impact of new communications technologies shows how ordinary citizens can protect themselves from media brainwashing. Interviews from across the globe shed light on this dynamic and on the roles of viewers as victims or victors in different situations. This is a book for the media professional, students and scholars in the fields of journalism, communications, political science, international relations, and business, as well as for government officials and concerned citizens who do not want to be controlled by the media.

Making Laws and Making News Timothy Cook, 2010-12-01 The news media, especially television, have become a fixture on Capitol Hill in the past twenty years. Making Laws and Making News describes the interactive relationship between the press and Congress that strongly affects the news, the legislative process, and the types of laws enacted. Instead of focusing on how reporters decide who and what to cover and how news is resented, Cook examines the other side of the equation: the relationship between the media strategies of House members' press offices and the legislative strategies of the members themselves. The book won the 1990 Benjamin Franklin Award for Excellence in Independent Publishing.

Governing With the News, Second Edition Timothy E. Cook, 2012-08-06 The ideal of a neutral, objective press has proven in recent years to be just that: an ideal. In Governing with the News, Timothy E. Cook goes far beyond the single claim that the press is not impartial to argue that the news media are in fact a political institution integral to the day-to-day operations of our government. This updated edition includes a new afterword by the author which pays close attention to two key developments in the twenty first century the accelerating fragmentation of the mass media and the continuing decline of Americans confidence in the press Provocative and often wise Cook who has a complex understanding of the relationship between governing and the news provides a fascinating account of the origins of this complicity James Bennet Washington Monthly Governing with the News addresses central issues of media impact and power in fresh illuminating ways Cook mines a wealth of historical and organizational literature to assert that the news media are a distinct political institution in our democratic system Robert Schmuhl Commonweal Federal Communications Commission Reports United States. Federal Communications Commission,1979 Muhammad Ali and Laila Ali Tim Ungs,2004-12-15 Looks at the dynamics of the Ali family discussing the relationship between Laila Ali and her father Muhammad Ali and how she is following in her father s footsteps in the career of boxing China, Media, and International Conflicts Shixin Ivy Zhang,Altman Yuzhu Peng,2023-03-30 This book focuses on China s media diplomacy and its interplay with a range of international conflicts It assesses the representation and framing of China as well as the perception and reception of China s media communication in relation to various crises and conflicts Including detailed analyses of many cases it highlights the complex fluid and dynamic relationship between media and conflict and discusses how this both exemplifies and also affects China s relations with the outside world In addition in contrast to most existing studies of mediatized conflict in the digital age it provides a very valuable non Western perspective News As Discourse Teun A. van Dijk,2013-10-28 First Published in 1990 This book presents a new interdisciplinary theory of news in the press Against the background of developments in discourse analysis it is argued that news should be studied primarily as a form of public discourse Whereas in much mass communication research the economic social or cultural dimensions of news and news media are addressed the present study emphasizes the importance of an explicit structural analysis of news reports Such an analysis should provide a qualitative alternative to traditional methods of content analysis Also attention is paid to processes of news production by journalists and news comprehension by readers in terms of the social cognitions of news participants In this way news structures can also be explicitly linked to social practices and ideologies of news making and indirectly to the institutional and macro sociological contexts of the news media Comparing Political Communication Frank Esser,Barbara Pfetsch,2004-09-06 This volume assesses comparative political communication research and considers potential ways in which it could and should develop Twenty experts from Europe and the United States offer a unique and comprehensive discussion of the theories cases and challenges of comparative research in political communication The first part discusses the fundamental themes concepts and methods essential to analyze the effects of modernization and globalization of political communication The second part offers a broad range of case studies that illustrate the enormous potential of cross national approaches in many relevant fields of political communication The third part paves the way for future research by describing the most promising concepts and pressing challenges of comparative political communication This book is intended to introduce new students to a crucial dynamic field as well as deepening advanced students knowledge of its principles and perspectives Journalism Jo A. Cates, 2004-05-30 Journalism A Guide to the Reference Literature is a critically annotated bibliographic guide to print and electronic sources in print and broadcast journalism The first edition was published in 1990 the second in 1997 It has been described as one of the critical reference sources in journalism today and it is a key bibliographic guide to the literature Choice magazine called it a benchmark publication for which there are no comparable sources The format is similar to the second edition What makes this edition significantly different is the separation of Commercial Databases and Internet Resources Commercial Databases includes standard fee based resources The new chapter on Internet sources features Web based resources not included in the commercial databases chapter as well as portals other online files listservs newsgroups and Web logs blogs All chapters have been revised and there are significant revisions in Directories Yearbooks and Collections Miscellaneous Sources Core Periodicals Societies and Associations and Research Centers and Archives The second edition has 789 entries The third edition contains almost 1 000 entries James Carey of Columbia University who provided the foreword for the first two editions has updated his foreword for this edition Soviet Social Problems Walter Connor, David E Powell, Anthony Jones, 2019-09-05 This book analyzes the Soviet Union's social problems focusing on those it shares with Western industrial societies It assesses the social concerns confronting Gorbachev including poverty prostitution health education and family issues and the difficulty of adapting to technological change Making Human Rights News John Pollock, Morton Winston, 2018-10-18 Making Human Rights News Balancing Participation and Professionalism explores the impact of new digital technology and activism on the production of human rights messages It is the first collection of studies to combine multidisciplinary approaches citizen witness challenges to journalism ethics and expert assessments of the liberating role of the Internet addressing the following questions 1 What can scholars from a wide range of disciplines including communication studies journalism sociology political science and international relations studies add to traditional legal and political human rights discussions exploring the impact of innovative digital information technologies on the gathering and dissemination of human rights news 2 What questions about journalism ethics and professionalism arise as growing numbers of untrained citizen witnesses use modern mobile technology to document claims of human rights abuses 3 What are the limits of the liberating role of the Internet in challenging traditional sources of authority and credibility such as professional journalists and human rights professionals 4 How do greater Internet access and human rights activism interact with variations in press freedom and government censorship worldwide to promote respect for different categories of human rights such as women's rights and rights to health This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Human Rights News Analysis Teun A. van Dijk, 2013-08-21 First Published in 1987 This book presents a series of case studies that illustrate the structures of national and international news in the press It first summarizes our discourse analytical theory of the processes and structures of news reports as it has been developed in the last five years
