Realism And Revolution Balzac Stendhal Zola And The Performances Of History:

Realism and Revolution Sandy Petrey, 1988 Sandy Petrey here looks at the emergence of nineteenth century French realism in the light of the concept of speech acts as defined by J L Austin and as exemplified by the history of the French Revolution Through analysis of the techniques of representation in works by Balzac Stendhal and Zola Petrey suggests that the expression of a truth depends on the same collective forces necessary to change a regime According to Petrey political legitimacy in the Revolution the Empire and the Restoration was established by means of a series of demonstrations that what words say cannot be interpreted without reference to the community to which they speak Petrey first discusses the creation of France's National Assembly in 1789 as a foundational example of how speech acts can bring about historical transformation He then challenges the most powerful twentieth century assault on realist aesthetics Roland Barthes's S Z and also considers the views of such contemporary critics as Jacques Derrida Barbara Johnson and Stanley Fish During the Revolution Petrey says statements of truth were not descriptions of what was but rather exhortations to produce what was not Nineteenth century French fiction represents in literary form a similar collectively authorized linguistic performance the real in realism comes from representing facts not as they are in themselves but as they are produced and rejected in society In the course of illuminating readings of three central realist works Balzac's Pere Goriot Stendhal's The Red and the Black and Zola's Germinal Petrey takes the position that the dilemmas of representation far from being one of realism's blind spots figure among its major narrative subjects

Kingston, 2012-10-19 Between 1789 and 1848 clerks modified their occupational practices responding to political scrutiny and state administration reforms Ralph Kingston examines the lives and influence of bureaucrats inside and outside the office as they helped define nineteenth century bourgeois social capital ideals of emulation honour and masculinity The Historical Novel in Nineteenth-Century Europe Brian Hamnett, 2011-11-24 Even at the height of its popularity in the early nineteenth century the historical novel faced criticism at many levels After its predominance in the 1810s and 1820s writers and historians shunned it as a travesty of their respective disciplines Even so the historical novel has frequently attracted a wide ranging public right up to the present day Brian Hamnett examines key novels by authors including Scott Balzac Manzoni Dickens Eliot Flaubert Fontane Gald's and Tolstoy revealing the contradictions inherent in this form of fiction and exposing the challenges writers faced in attempting to represent a reality that linked past and present He argues that the historical novel in the nineteenth century was a common European phenomenon with considerable interconnection of themes and periods Accordingly the book ranges from the British Isles and France through the Germanic territories Italy and Spain to the Russian Empire identifying the different objectives and phases of the historical novel Although historical novels did appear in the two previous centuries the form came to maturity in the nineteenth century a consequence of the developing nature of history as a discipline distinct from literature and philosophy and the increasing primacy of the novel for writers and the reading public Yet the frontiers between history and literature remained blurred and the two disciplines continued to influence one another as each sought a faithful representation of human experience

Postcolonial Realism and the Concept of the Political Eli Park

Sorensen,2021-04-28 As the scholarly world attunes itself once again to the specifically political this book rethinks the political significance of literary realism within a postcolonial context Generally postcolonial studies has either ignored realism or criticized it as being na ve anachronistic deceptive or complicit with colonial discourse in other words incongruous with the postcolonial This book argues that postcolonial realism is intimately connected to the specifically political in the sense that realist form is premised on the idea of a collective reality Discussing a range of literary and theoretical works Dr Sorensen exemplifies that many postcolonial writers were often faced with the realities of an unstable state a divided community inhabiting a contested social space the challenges of constructing a notion of the people often out of a myriad of local communities with different traditions and languages brought together arbitrarily through colonization The book demonstrates that the political context of realism is the sphere or possibility of civil war divided societies and unstable communities Postcolonial realism is prompted by disturbing political circumstances and it gestures toward a commonly imagined world precisely because such a notion is under pressure or absent

Stendhal's Parallel Lives Francesco

Manzini,2004 This book deals with the important and hitherto neglected relationship between the works of Stendhal and Plutarch s Parallel Lives Stendhal s readings of Plutarch are shown to inform his literary representations of Revolution and Empire Restoration and Orleanism as well as his theorizations of Romanticism In particular the Plutarchan concept of Parallel Lives is used to analyse one of the major themes of Stendhal s writing the self construction of individual identity whether auto biographical or fictional by means of the emulation as distinct from the imitation of heroic exemplars As a consequence the balance between irony and idealism often identified by critics in Stendhal s work is shown rather to be an imbalance weighted in favour of an idealism derived from Plutarchan conceptions of heroism particularly as they are represented in the Lives of Julius Caesar and Marcus Brutus

Realism: Aesthetics, Experiments, Politics Jens

Elze,2022-04-07 Realism seems to be everywhere both as a trending critical term and as a revitalized aesthetic practice This volume brings together for the first time three aspects that are pertinent for a proper understanding of realism its 19th century aesthetics committed to making reality into an object of serious art the experiments with and against realism by 20th century modernist postmodernist or magical realist writing and the politics of realism especially its ambitions to map the complex realities produced by global capitalism and climate catastrophe This juxtaposition of aesthetics experiments and politics unsettles the entrenched opposition between realism and experimental literature that tends to ignore the fact that realism by virtue of its commitment to a changing material and social world cannot be but continuously experimenting The innovative chapters of this book address some of the pressing questions of literary and cultural studies today like the complex relation between historical materialism and new materialisms between science and art or the different aesthetic and political affordances of making systemic analyses against depicting the specificity of the local Some of the chapters deal with classically realist authors such as George Eliot mile Zola and Joseph Conrad to gauge the aesthetic radicalism of their diverse realist projects Others investigate the experimental engagements with realism by authors such as B S Johnson J M Coetzee or Rachel Cusk Yet others analyze the politics of realism found in contemporary anglophone novels by writers like Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie David Mitchell or Rohinton Mistry The readings assembled here are a testament to the diversity of literary realism s from the 19th 20th and 21st centuries and to the ongoing controversies surrounding definitions and deployments of realism

Art in Literature, Literature in Art in 19th Century France Emilie Sitzia,2011-12-08 The traditional relationship between painting and literature underwent a profound change in nineteenth century France Painting progressively asserted its independence from literature as it liberated itself from narrative obligations whilst interrogating the concept of subject matter itself Simultaneously the influence of art on the writing styles of authors increased and the character of the artist established itself as a recurring motif in French literature This book offers a panoramic review of the relationship between art and literature in nineteenth century France By means of a series of case studies chosen from key moments throughout the nineteenth century the aim of this study is to provide a focused analysis of specific examples of this relationship revealing both its multifaceted nature as well as offering a panorama of the development of this on going and increasingly complex cultural relationship From Jacques Louis David s irreverence for classical texts to Victor Hugo s graphic works from Edouard Manet s illustrations to Vincent Van Gogh s paintings of books from Honor de Balzac s Unknown Masterpiece to Joris Karl Huysmans s A Rebours this interdisciplinary investigation of the links between literature and art in France throws new light on both fields of creative endeavour during a critical phase of France s cultural history

Mourning Glory Marie-Hélène Huet,2015-07-27 Mourning Glory sheds light on troubled times as it shows how passion and prejudice grief and denial all contributed to the continuing creation of a revolutionary legacy that still affects our understanding of the nature of language and history

Formative Fictions Tobias Boes,2012-10-05 The Bildungsroman or novel of formation has long led a paradoxical life within literary studies having been construed both as a peculiarly German genre a marker of that country s cultural difference from Western Europe and as a universal expression of modernity In Formative Fictions Tobias Boes argues that the dual status of the Bildungsroman renders this novelistic form an elegant way to negotiate the diverging critical discourses surrounding national and world literature Since the late eighteenth century authors have employed the story of a protagonist s journey into maturity as a powerful tool with which to facilitate the creation of national communities among their readers Such attempts always stumble over what Boes calls cosmopolitan remainders identity claims that resist nationalism s aim for closure in the normative regime of the nation state These cosmopolitan remainders are responsible for the curiously hesitant endings of so many novels of formation In Formative Fictions Boes presents readings of a number of novels Goethe s Wilhelm Meister s

Apprenticeship Karl Leberecht Immermann's The Epigones Gustav Freytag's Debit and Credit Alfred Döblin's Berlin Alexanderplatz and Thomas Mann's Doctor Faustus among them that have always been felt to be particularly German and compares them with novels by such authors as George Eliot and James Joyce to show that what seem to be markers of national particularity can productively be read as topics of world literature

The Realist Author and Sympathetic Imagination Sotirios Paraschas, 2017-12-02 The nineteenth century realist author was a contradictory figure He was the focus of literary criticism but obscured his creative role by insisting on presenting his works as copies of reality He was a celebrity who found himself subservient to publishers and the public in a newly industrialised literary marketplace He was the owner of his work who was divested of his property by imperfect copyright laws playwrights who adapted his novels for the stage and sequel writers This combination of a conspicuous yet precarious status with a self effacing attitude was expressed by an image of the author as a plural Protean subject possessing the faculty of sympathetic imagination which the realists incorporated in their works in the form of a series of fictional characters who functioned as doubles of the author Paraschas focuses on two realists Honore de Balzac and George Eliot and traces this authorial scenario from its origins in the late eighteenth century to its demise in the early twentieth century examining its presence in the works of E T A Hoffmann Friedrich Schlegel Charles Baudelaire and Andre Gide
