Chris Hassel, Jr., 2011-05-01 An enduring debate among scholars has focused on the degree to which Shakespeare's plays are indebted to the Christian culture in which they were created and the manner of demonstrating that indebtedness R. Chris Hassel Jr points out informed allusions to familiar Pauline and Erasmian Christian passages and themes present in Love's Labor's Lost A Midsummer Night's Dream Much Ado about Nothing As You Like It Twelfth Night and The Merchant of Venice He argues that not only did Shakespeare's audience understand these allusions but also that these allusions led the audience to recognize their pertinence to the playwright's uniquely Christian comic vision Furthermore Hassel feels this understanding of the relationship between Shakespeare's comic artistry and Christianity leads to a greater appreciation of the plays

Touponce,2013-10-10 In his classic study Supernatural Horror in Literature H P Lovecraft discusses the emergence of what he called spectral literature literature that involves the gothic themes of the supernatural found in the past but also considers modern society and humanity Beyond indicating how authors of such works derived pleasure from a sense of cosmic atmosphere Lovecraft did not elaborate on what he meant by the term spectral as a form of haunted literature concerned with modernity In Lord Dunsany H P Lovecraft and Ray Bradbury Spectral Journeys William F Touponce examines what these three masters of weird fiction reveal about modernity and the condition of being modern in their tales In this study Touponce confirms that these three authors viewed storytelling as a kind of journey into the spectral Furthermore he explains how each identifies modernity with capitalism in various ways and shows a concern with surpassing the limits of realism which they see as tied to the representation of bourgeois society The collected writings of Lord Dunsany
