Why Jephthah's Daughter Weeps Margaret Murray Talbot, 2022-02-28 Why does Jephthah's daughter weep Readers have creatively imagined the causes of her tears as she weeps upon her betulim usually translated virginity or maidenhood But her menstrual cycle's relation to these terms is rarely mentioned A child oriented theoretical and methodological foundation and research with post menarcheal girls provide new answers to oft raised questions about Bat Yiphtach's weeping and her agency Through an in depth philological review and a focus on the excluded middle of the child/adult binary this translation and interpretation of the story contribute to the field of childhood studies and shows that menarche and menstruation play a larger role in the narrative than readers have realized

Children and Young People's Relationships Samantha Punch, Kay Tisdall, 2016-04-08 This book challenges the current state of childhood studies by exploring children and young people's agency and relationships. It considers how recent theorisations of relationships and relational processes can move childhood studies forward particularly in relation to rethinking claims of children and young people's agency and uncritical assertions around children and young people's participation and voice. It does this by bringing together case studies of children's inter-generational and intra-generational relationships from both the Majority and Minority Worlds. The main themes include negotiated power, agency across contexts and negotiations of identity. The chapters show both the heritage of childhood studies particularly within the UK and where it may be going. One of the key aims of the book is to add to the limited but growing cross-world dialogue that encourages cross-cultural learning from research and practice in both Majority and Minority World contexts leading towards a more integrated global approach to childhood studies. This book was published as a special issue of Children's Geographies. Researching the Lifecourse Nancy Worth, Irene Hardill, 2016-06-01 The lifecourse perspective continues to be an important subject in the social sciences. Researching the Lifecourse offers a distinctive approach in that it truly covers the lifecourse: childhood, adulthood and older age, focusing on innovative methods and case study examples from a variety of European and North American contexts. This original approach connects theory and practice from across the social sciences by situating methodology and research design within relevant conceptual frameworks. This diverse collection features methods that are linked to questions of time, space and mobilities while providing practitioners with practical detail in each chapter.

Communication Skills for Children's Nurses Veronica Lambert, Tony Long, Deirdre Kelleher, 2012-10-16 This excellent text will help nurses develop an awareness of a range of communication frameworks and how they might be utilised in contemporary child health nursing to communicate with children, their families, fellow healthcare professionals and each other in their day-to-day working lives. It should be on every student's reading list. Dr Edward Alan Glasper, Professor of Children's and Young People's Nursing, The University of Southampton, UK. This is an important and much-needed book. Logical and well-presented, it has episodes of reflection which can be implemented and activities that provide exemplars about communication that will enhance learning. I particularly found useful the chapters on the legal and ethical aspects of research and communicating with children using technology. Linda Shields, Professor of Nursing, Tropical Health, James Cook University and Townsville Health Service District, Australia. This guide will help children's nurses to communicate with confidence, sensitivity and effectiveness to meet the individual needs of children and their families. The book explores different aspects of communicating in this challenging environment using vignettes, examples, practice insights and tips. The book emphasises the importance of listening to and respecting children's views and rights in addition to respecting parent responsibility, rights and duty to act in the child's best interests. The authors show how a balance between protective exclusion and facilitated inclusion is core to communicating with children and families. Key topics covered include

Communicating during challenging and sensitive times The importance of being culturally sensitive and self aware Meeting the needs of vulnerable and disadvantaged children Engaging with children who experience difficulty in communicating Ethical and legal dimensions of communicating with families Appreciating the nature of voice in research with children Contributors Stacey Atkinson Frances Binns Debbie Fallon Noir n Hayes Paula Hicks Philomena Keogh Ursula Kilkelly Philip Larkin Joan Livesley Emer Murphy Colman Noctor Eileen Savage Joanna Smith Vicky Stewart and Janet Wray
