

First-Wave Feminism: The Legacy

- 1950s – With war over and men needing to return to their jobs (and thus their “proper” gender roles), the focus returns to the nuclear family, which requires women back in the home.

These images were advertisements designed to encourage women to buy household items that could then be used to signify what good mothers and wives they were, as evidenced by their clean houses and shiny new appliances. Redirecting women's attention to what they could buy was supposed to make the idea of returning to the domestic sphere a more appealing idea.

The Oxford Handbook of Modern British Political History, 1800-2000 David Brown, Robert Crowcroft, Gordon Pentland, 2018-03-29 The two centuries after 1800 witnessed a series of sweeping changes in the way in which Britain was governed the duties of the state and its role in the wider world Powerful processes from the development of democracy the changing nature of the social contract war and economic dislocation have challenged and at times threatened to overwhelm both governors and governed Such shifts have also presented challenges to the historians who have researched and written about Britain s past politics This Handbook shows the ways in which political historians have responded to these challenges providing a snapshot of a field which has long been at the forefront of conceptual and methodological innovation within historical studies It comprises thirty three thematic essays by leading and emerging scholars in the field Collectively these essays assess and rethink the nature of modern British political history itself and suggest avenues and questions for future research The Oxford Handbook of Modern British Political History thus provides a unique resource for those who wish to understand Britain s political past and a thought provoking long view for those interested in current political challenges Geschlechterverhältnisse im

historischen Wandel Hanna Schissler,1993 Different Wavelengths Jo Reger,2014-01-27 The original essays in this collection ground the shifting terrain of feminism in the 21st century The contributors define and examine the complexity of the Third Wave by answering questions like how appropriate is a third wave label for contemporary feminism are the agendas of contemporary feminism and the second wave really all that different does the wave metaphor accurately describe the difference between contemporary feminists and their predecessors how do women of color fit into this notion of contemporary feminism and what are the future directions of the feminist movement Whitaker's Books in Print ,1998

American Studies International ,2001 A woman's place? Ciara Meehan,2023-02-28 This book explores representations of the domestic in Irish women s magazines Published in 1960s Ireland during a period of transformation they served as modern manuals for navigating everyday life Traditional themes dating marriage and motherhood dominated But editors also introduced conflicting voices to complicate the narrative Readers were prompted to reimagine their home life and traditional values were carefully subverted The domestic was shown to be a negotiable concept in the coverage of such issues as the body and reproductive rights working wives and equal pay Dominant societal perceptions of women were also challenged through the inclusion of those who were on the margins widows unmarried mothers and never married women This book considers the motivations of editors the role of readers and the influence of advertisers in shaping complex debates about women in society in 1960s Ireland Whitaker's Cumulative Book List ,1984 The Prairie West as Promised Land R. Douglas Francis,Chris Kitzan,2007 Millions of immigrants were attracted to the Canadian West by promotional literature from the government in the late 19th century to the First World War bringing with them visions of opportunity to create a Utopian society or a chance to take control of their own destinies
