Borderlines in a Globalized World G. Preyer, Mathias Bös, 2013-11-11 Scholars of different schools have extensively analyzed world systems as networks of communication under the fashionable heading globalization Our collected new research pushes the argument one step further Globalization is not a homogenization of all social life on earth It is a heterogeneous process that connects the global and the local on different levels To understand these contemporary developments this book employs innovative concepts strategies of research and explanations Globalization is a metaphor for different borderstructures new borderlines and conditions of membership which emerge in a global world system As a world system expands it incorporates new territories and new peoples The process of incorporation creates frontiers or boundaries of the world system These frontiers or boundary zones are the locus of resistance to incorporation ethnogenesis ethnic transformation and ethnocide

Germany's Social Market Economy Alan T. Peacock, Hans Willgerodt, 1989-08-21 The essays in this volume have been translated from the German to bring to the notice of a wider public the contemporary views of a group of prominent German economists and lawyers who have all participated in the development of post war economic policy in the Federal Republic of Germany

Convergence or Divergence? Simon Langlois, Theodore Caplow, 1994-11-16 Trends in fertility decline intergenerational relations religion and secularization ecological movements employment and labour market changes personal authority and social conflict are examined This analysis shows an unmistakable convergence of social trends except in the domain of religion But when the interconnection of these trends within each national society is examined unexpected divergences are revealed There are parallel trends in demography organization of production national institutions social practices and life style and divergent trends in social inequality social movements and local institutions Barriers between social classes have eroded and something that might be called multidimensional stratification has emerged the diminution of violence in social conflicts implies an increasing volume of negotiation and all forms of personal authority have been weakened The transformation of the family structure is no doubt one of the most important changes in western civilization The cross national analyses of recent social trends help us to assess both convergence and divergence and to identify emergent singularities Does convergence of trends mean these societies face a common destiny With respect to trends so strong that they act as exogenous variables the answer is yes However with respect to the responses those trends elicit in the context of a particular society the answer is no Massive convergence of trends does not mean that societies face a uniform future

One Hundred Years of Socialism Donald Sassoon, 2010-07-30 On 14 July 1889 the centenary of the French Revolution socialist parties from all corners of Europe met in Paris On the same day in the same city the Exposition Universelle was launched to mark the achievements of capitalist production The two events symbolized the beginning of the epic struggle between socialism and capitalism in Europe In this comprehensive study of a century of socialism the author traces the fortunes of the political parties of the Left in Western Europe From the rise of the Bolsheviks to the fall of the Berlin wall from the Second International through two world wars to the Cold War and the birth of the welfare state from the working class militancy and student uprisings of the 1960s through the revival of feminism and the arrival of green politics to the reluctant embrace of market economics en route to the millennium Donald Sassoon charts the course of socialism across 14 countries He shows that throughout their history the fortunes of socialism and capitalism have been inextricably linked They have grown up side by side each one challenging and seeking to destroy yet nourishing and shaping the other
