Turning Japanese David Mura, 2007-12-01. The poet David Mura brings an intriguing perspective to the New World quest for enlightenment from this ancient and ascendant culture. The New York Times Award-winning poet David Mura's critically acclaimed memoir Turning Japanese chronicles how a year in Japan transformed his sense of self and pulled into sharp focus his complicated inheritance. Mura is a sansei, a third-generation Japanese American who grew up on baseball and hot dogs in a Chicago suburb where he heard more Yiddish than Japanese. Turning Japanese chronicles his quest for identity with honesty, intelligence, and poetic vision, and it stands as a classic meditation on difference and assimilation and is a valuable window onto a country that has long fascinated our own. Turning Japanese was a New York Times Notable Book and winner of an Oakland PEN Josephine Miles Book Award. This edition includes a new afterword by the author. A dizzying interior voyage of self-discovery and splintered identity. Chicago Tribune: There is brilliant writing in this book, observations of Japanese humanity and culture that are subtly different from and more penetrating than what we usually get from Westerners. The New Yorker: Turning Japanese reads like a fascinating novel; you can't put it down. Mura's story is a universal one, and one that is accessible to everyone, even those whose experience in the U.S. is not that of a person of color. Asian Week: Mura paints a portrait of Japan that is rich and satisfying, a refreshingly kind and tolerant study, a powerful antidote to the venomous anti-Japanese mood that seems distressingly to be seizing some corners of the American mind. Conde Nast Traveler:

Bend with the Wind Susy Eto Bauman, David Frankel, Arthur A. Hansen, Daniel E. Krieger, Nancy Eto Mihara, Lorraine Rath, Marianne B. Sheldon, Grace Eto Shibata, Naomi Shibata, Alice Eto Sumida, Rosalyn Tonai, Patricia Miye Wakida, Mike Woodburn, 2014-11-01. Bend with the Wind tells the story of an extraordinary woman, Grace Eto Shibata, and her family in 20th-century California. It is the story of one family's belief in the American dream and offers a window into the history of a generation of Japanese Americans growing up in the 1930s and 1940s. As seen through the eyes of the youngest of eight children, Grace's account spans 100 years of her family history, beginning with her parents' immigration to the California Central Coast in the early twentieth century. The story follows a generation of pioneers whose resilience and determination built strong families and strong communities. It shares the values that bound Grace's tightly knit family and supported Grace throughout her life: a life shaped by World War II, an arranged marriage, a family business, and motherhood. The book presents the story of a gracious and determined individual who learned to reach beyond her comfort zone to attain her own personal goals and dreams. Bend with the Wind celebrates Grace's life as a wife, mother, businesswoman, activist, author, and seventy-four-year-old college graduate. Meticulously researched and beautifully illustrated with documents and photographs of Grace, her family, and the communities in which they lived, this biographical memoir provides the reader with an emotionally satisfying and inspiring life story Volcano Garrett Kaoru Hongo,1995 Garrett Hongo grew up with a profound sense of estrangement from his past Family secrets evasions and my own ignorance fed an anger and a desire to know that would not abate Born in Hawai i raised in Los Angeles after the age of six a fourth generation Japanese American inheritor of a recent past more comfortably forgotten than kept alive for Hongo the knowing he so desired would come only when he returned to Volcano the tiny town where he was born This beautifully rendered memoir is an account of that journey finally undertaken when he was in his early thirties a journey toward the knowledge about himself and his history that would give him at last a way to belong and a place to belong to Arriving in Volcano with his wife and infant son Hongo settled in a cottage in the rain forest amidst the relentlessly spectacular landscape below the summit of the Kilauea volcano There near the general store once owned by his grandfather among people who quickly recognized the family resemblance in his face he began to forge a connection to the human culture that though he was pulled from it at an early age helped to shape him and to the living earth that helped to shape that culture In this way Hongo both native son and prodigal son found his own path into a world where nothing was without its meaning or its memories In a powerful narrative interwoven with natural history and laced with luminous descriptions of the volcano and its rain forest surroundings the author combines childhood recollections with the richness of feeling image and information that this journey provided to him about his own family about the experience of the Japanese American community at large in this century and about the relationship of both the inner and outer landscapes to the human imagination The result is a remarkable deeply moving book of origins a revelation of the ways in which cultural identity personal history and love of place are created lost and regained BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Jan Ken Po Dennis M.
