Japanese Women, Class and the Tea Ceremony Kaeko Chiba, 2010-09-13 This book examines the complex relationship between class and gender dynamics among tea ceremony chad practitioners in Japan Focusing on practitioners in a provincial city Akita the book surveys the rigid hierarchical chad system at grass roots level Making critical use of Bourdieu's idea of cultural capital it explores the various meanings of chad for Akita women and argues that chad has a cultural economic social and symbolic value and is used as a tool to improve gender and class equality Chad practitioners focus on tea procedure and related aspects of chad such as architecture flower arranging gardening and pottery Initially only men were admitted to chad women were admitted in the Meiji period 1868 1912 and now represent the majority of practitioners The author a chad practitioner and descendant of chad teachers provides a thorough honest account of Akita women based on extensive participant observation and interviews Where most literature on Japan focuses on metropolitan centres such as Kitakyushu and Tokyo this book is original in both its subject and scope Also as economic differences between metropolitan and non metropolitan areas have become more pronounced it is timely to explore the specific class and gender issues affecting non metropolitan women This book contributes not only to the ethnographic literature on chad and non metropolitan women in Japan but also to the debates on research methodology and the theoretical discussion of class
