Wrongs, Harms, and Compensation Adam Slavny, 2023-08-04 Non instrumentalist private law theory has been dominated by an interpretivist methodology that seeks to understand the concepts doctrines and structures of the law in principled terms This has resulted in the neglect of purely normative analysis and a failure to engage systematically with the methodologies of moral and political philosophy Wrongs Harms and Compensation Paying for our Mistakes departs from this approach arguing instead that the justification of tort law is dependent on our underlying moral corrective duties In this book Adam Slavny develops a pluralistic account of these duties which encompasses both wrongful and non wrongful conduct complicating the view that torts should be regarded as a coherent set of wrongs He also places the practice of enforcing corrective duties in a broader context arguing that it should not be isolated or immune to critiques based on distributive justice and that our duties are in fact consistent with institutional arrangements other than tort law including various types of compensation schemes What emerges is neither a wholesale defence of or attack on tort law but an insistence that its normative foundations are much more complex diverse and malleable than a focus on current legal practices would suggest

Right, Wrong and Science Evandro Agazzi, 2004. Solving the problem of the negative impact of science and technology on society and the environment is indeed the greatest challenge of our time. To date, this challenge has been taken up by few professional philosophers of science, making this volume a welcome contribution to the general debate. Agazzi's treatment involves viewing modern science and technology as each constituting systems. Against the background of this approach, he provides a penetrating analysis of science, technology and ethics and their interrelations. Agazzi sees the solution to the problem as lying in the moral sphere and including a multilateral assumption of responsibility on the part of decision makers both within and outside of science.
