Searching the Heart Karen Lystra,1992-06-25 In January 1862 Charles Godwin courted Harriet Russell ultimately unsuccessfully with the following lines Like cadences of inexpressibly sweet music your kind words came to me causing every nerve to vibrate as though electrified by some far off strain of heavenly harmony Almost ten years later Albert Janin upon receiving a letter from his beloved Violet Blair responded with I kissed your letter over and over again regardless of the small pox epidemic at New York and gave myself up to a carnival of bliss before breaking the envelope And in October 1883 Dorothea Lummis wrote candidly to her husband Charles I like you to want me dear and if I were only with you I would embrace more than the back of your neck be sure In Karen Lystra s richly provocative book Searching the Heart we hear the voices of Charles Albert Dorothea and nearly one hundred other nineteenth century Americans emerge from their surprisingly open intimate and emotional love letters While historians of nineteenth century America have explored a host of private topics including courtship marriage birth control sexuality and sex roles they have consistently neglected the study of romantic love Lystra fills this gap by describing in vivid detail what it meant to fall in love in Victorian America Based on a vast array of love letters the book reveals the existence of a real openness even playfulness between male and female lovers which challenges and expands more traditional views of middle class private life in Victorian America Lystra refutes the common belief that Victorian men and women held passionlessness as an ideal in their romantic relationships Enabling us to enter the hidden world of Victorian lovers the letters they left behind offer genuine proof of the intensity of their most private interactions feelings behaviors and judgments Lystra discusses how Victorians anthropomorphized love letters treating them as actual visits from their lovers insisting on reading them in seclusion sometimes kissing them as Albert does with Violet s and even taking them to bed She also explores how courtship rituals which included the setting and passing of tests of love succeeded in building unique emotional bonds between lovers and how middle class views of romantic love which encouraged sharing knowledge and intimacy gave women more power in the home Through the medium of love letters Searching the Heart allows us to enter unnoticed the Victorian bedroom and parlor We will leave with a different view of middle class Victorian America

Setran, 2022-06-21 What can the past teach us about what it means to be a good Christian parent today Today's parenting guidance can sometimes feel timeless and inviolable especially when it comes to the spiritual formation of children in Christian households But even in the recent past parenting philosophies have differed widely among Christians in ways that reflect the contexts from which they emerged In this illuminating historical study David Setran catalogs the varying ways American Protestants envisioned the task of childrearing in the seventeenth eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Comparing two main historical time periods the colonial era and the Victorian era Setran uncovers common threads opposing viewpoints and the cultural and religious influences behind the dominant parenting postures of each era The implications of his findings matter for today's big questions about parenting Should children be viewed as basically good in need of protection from corruption or as fundamentally sinful in need of moral correction How should parents address misbehavior Should a parent's primary role be that of teacher disciplinarian or nurturer What importance should be attributed to devotions and prayer church involvement Sabbath keeping home decorating and fun family activities What consideration should be given to gender Should boys and girls be raised differently Do mothers and fathers have essentially different responsibilities As he surveys these historical perspectives Setran reflects on the legacy and future of Christian parenting concluding that the Protestant heritage encourages the importance of intentional devotional practices the development of close parent child bonds and the creation of godly household environments In the end he argues that all of these historical values are critical to the full expression of Christian parental love This is a love that teaches because it wants to help children understand true goodness that admonishes and restrains because it wants to protect children from whatever keeps them from true pleasure and joy that fosters strong relationships so children might experience the lavishness of God's love that models Christlike sacrifice and guides children into the arms of their Creator     The New American History American Historical Association, 1997 Originally released in 1990 The New American History edited for the American Historical Association by Eric Foner has become an indispensable volume for teachers and students In essays that chart the shifts in interpretation within their fields some of our most prominent American historians survey the key works and themes in the scholarship of the last three decades Along with substantially revised essays from the first edition this volume presents three entirely new ones on intellectual history the history of the West and the histories of the family and sexuality The second edition of The New American History reflects in Foner's words the continuing vitality and creativity of the study of the past how traditional fields are being expanded and redefined even as new ones are created Author note Eric Foner is DeWitt
