Marketing Modernisms Kevin J. H. Dettmar,Stephen Myers Watt,2025-10-01 Rarely have genres of literary expression been looked upon or read as commodities within a market system we tend to think of our literature as pure untainted by any interaction with the world of commerce Critical accounts of modernism are frequently theorized across the divide between the project itself and the larger marketplace the world of consumption Marketing Modernisms calls into question this curious separation and examines the material intellectual and ideological practices that comprise the notion of marketing Marketing Modernisms is concerned with Anglo American modernists and their potential readers in both the popular audience and the academy Examining the forms of promotion employed by book publishing houses in the editorial offices of literary magazines and in the minds of modern writers the essays bring to the fore little known connections between writers such as Ezra Pound T S Eliot James Joyce Virginia Woolf and Langston Hughes and the commercial marketplace they engaged The book s provocative themes include the strategies that modernists and their publishers employed to market their work to fashion themselves as artists or celebrities and to bridge the gap between an avant garde elite and the popular reader Other essays explore the difficulties confronted by women African American and gay and lesbian writers in gaining literary acceptance and achieving commercial representation while maintaining the gendered racial and sexual aspects of their lives Dreams of a Totalitarian Utopia Leon Surette, 2011-07-25 While these authors political inclinations are well known and much discussed previous studies have failed to adequately analyse the surrounding political circumstances that informed the specific utopian aspirations in each writer s works Balancing a thorough knowledge of their works with an understanding of the political climate of the early twentieth century Leon Surette provides new insights into the motivations and development of each writer s respective political postures Dreams of a Totalitarian Utopia examines their political commentary and their correspondence with each other from 1910s to the 1950s Contextualizing their political thought in a world troubled by two world wars the Great Depression and the Bolshevik Revolution Surette traces their shared concerns and the divergent responses of each of these figures in the historical moment to the risk they perceived of democracies becoming the pawns of commercial and industrial elites leading to war and mindless consumerism They all leaned toward autocratic solutions though Pound and Lewis eventually admitted their error The Making of James Agee Hugh Davis, 2008 Wildly productive during his short life James Agee 1909 1955 is today perhaps best remembered as a novelist his posthumously published A Death in the Family won a Pulitzer Prize in 1958 but he was also a poet screenwriter journalist essayist book reviewer and movie critic In The Making of James Agee Hugh Davis takes a comprehensive look at Agee s career showing the interrelatedness of his concerns as a writer A full view of Agee s oeuvre Davis argues illuminates its deeply political nature as well as a debt to various sources particularly European surrealism that have been little noted by previous Agee scholars Davis challenges the view of Agee that has persisted since his death that he is best understood primarily as a romantic individualist at odds with convention and the literary mainstream and argues that this myth was largely constructed by friends and associates who were so immersed in the tenets of modernism that they distorted Agee s work and aesthetic intent in an attempt to purify it in modernist terms In revealing a writer of far greater complexity than the Agee myth allows Davis explores for example the leftist poetry that Agee wrote in the 1930s which was almost completely suppressed by his editors He also throws a fresh light on Agee s collaboration with photographer Walker Evans on Let Us Now Praise Famous Men and reevaluates A Death in the Family in light of recent scholarship that has produced an almost entirely new version of the novel one much closer to Agee s original intentions A much needed corrective to the many misconceptions about Agee Davis s study is a provocative and lucidly written work that is certain to spark new dialogues about one of the most fascinating figures in twentieth century American literature Henry Miller Lawrence J. Shifreen, 1979 No descriptive material is available for this title

Framing Pieces John Whittier-Ferguson, 1996-05-02 In Framing Pieces Whittier Ferguson recovers and explores drafts notes glosses essays and guides that high modernists such as James Joyce Virginia Woolf T S Eliot and Ezra Pound generated in order to interpret their own work These archival materials reveal a complex picture of how texts like Finnegan s Wake A Room of One s Own Three Guineas and ABC s of Reading were annotated and framed by their authors and how the authors illuminated and obscured various aspects of the annotations Whittier Ferguson also examines the first editions and periodicals in which these works appeared to show how modernist writers gauged the extent of their audience and tried to control their readers encounters with their writing Paperbound Book Guide for Colleges ,1971 Bulletin of Bibliography and Magazine Subject-index ,1919 Winter Love Jacob Korg,2003 Ezra Pound and Hilda Doolittle who used the pseudonym H D are among the most important American modernist poets In this comparative study Jacob Korg examines their intertwined lives from an early romantic relationship when both writers were in their early twenties through the ongoing friendship and artistic dialogue that helped shape their work Drawing on unpublished letters and manuscripts as well as published works Korg offers a fresh view of two American artists and a wholly unexpected portrait of Pound examined here for the first time through the context of a female modernist American Literature and the Destruction of Knowledge Ronald E. Martin,1991 This challenging study of a number of American writers belongs in the tradition of the history of ideas approach to literary history It offers an analysis of American literary developments and the relationship between writers and the philosophical and social thought of their times Martin examines the works of Emerson Whitman Dickinson Crane Frost Pound Hemingway Dos Passos Stevens Williams and several others with a sharp eye for the artistic consequences of changing epistemological assumptions and for the connection of ideas and form ISBN 0 8223 1125 9 29 95 A Clown in a Grave Michael Skau,1999 Skau covers the complete works of Corso one of the four major Beat Generation writers with Jack Kerouac Allen Ginsberg and William S Burroughs who attempted to provide an alternative to what they saw as the academic forms of literature dominating American writing through the 1940s and 1950s BOOK JACKET
