Introduction to Critical Reading

When you write assignments at University, it is necessary to provide your reader with a convincing argument. You are trying to present an argument that your answer is the correct one, you need to convince the reader of this. One way of convincing or persuading your reader is to present them with good evidence to back up your argument.

Critical reading is an essential part of the information gathering process that is required to create an academically sound assignment. At its most basic level, critical reading involves not taking for granted anything you read. Whenever you read a journal article, or other piece of text, you need to be convinced by the author's argument.

An argument can be defined as a 'series of statements intended to establish a definite proposition' (Monty Python, 1972). The series of statements that an author delivers in their text forms the basis of the article. Each of these statements should be accompanied by relevant evidence to back it up. You need to decide whether or not the evidence is sufficient to convince you of the point the author is making.

Where to Begin

A good place to start is to try and identify why the article was written. The author of an article will have a reason for writing it. This may be to present research findings, or to give an opinion on someone else's research, it may be to inform and audience about some topic they feel is important or interesting, it may be to try and sell something, it may be in order to raise awareness or debate.

Having identified why the article was written, you need to consider whether or not there is an element of bias in the article. Some element of bias is almost inevitable, whenever anyone writes anything they tend to write from their point of view, and that point of view could be seen as an element of bias. If there is a strong element of bias, you may wish to consider finding an alternate point of view to balance out the arguments.

Look at the Evidence

Next try looking at the author's conclusions. Read the article with these conclusions in mind and see if you think the author has offered enough evidence to support them. The author will give evidence to support their conclusions. This evidence may be data from research, or supporting evidence from other authors' research, or a mix of both. Part of reading critically is to look at the argument and the evidence and decide if one does indeed justify the other.

Reading Poems; an Introduction to Critical Study; By Wright Thomas and Stuart Gerry Brown Charles Wright Thomas (Ed), Stuart Gerry Brown, 1941 The Complete Works of W. H. Auden: Poems, Volume I W. H. Auden, 2022-06-14 The first of two volumes of the eagerly anticipated first complete edition of Auden's poems including some that have never been published before W H Auden 1907 1973 is one of the greatest poets of the twentieth century and his reputation has only grown since his death Published on the hundredth anniversary of the year in which he began to write poetry this is the first of two volumes of the first complete edition of Auden's poems Edited introduced and annotated by renowned Auden scholar Edward Mendelson this definitive edition includes all the poems Auden wrote for publication in their original texts and all his later revised versions as well as poems and songs he never published some of them printed here for the first time This volume traces the development of Auden's early career and contains all the poems including juvenilia that he published or submitted for publication from his first printed work in 1927 at age twenty through the poems he wrote during his first months in America in 1939 when he was thirty two The book also includes poems that Auden wrote during his adult career with the expectation that he might publish them but which he never did song lyrics that he wrote to be set to music by Benjamin Britten but which he never put into print and verses that he wrote for magazines at schools where he was teaching The main text presents the poems in their original published versions The notes include the extensive revisions that he made to his poems over the course of his career and provide explanations of obscure references The second volume of this edition Poems Volume 2 1940 1973 is also available American and British Poetry Harriet Semmes Alexander, 1984 The Difficulties of Modernism Leonard Diepeveen, 2013-10-18 In The Difficulties of Modernism Leonard Diepeveen examines how difficulty became central to our encounters with modern literature and culture Literary modernism's first readers often complained that difficulty was running rampant in literature that art had become a plague of unintelligibility Diepeveen argues that the simultaneous appearance of modernism and discussion about difficulty was not coincidental difficulty allowed modernism to rise to the status of high art and it was fundamental to how modernism shaped the canon not only of twentieth century literature but of the literature that preceded it He argues that modernism can be best understood as the moment when knowing how to maneuver through difficult art became the central sign of one's ability to participate in high culture
