◀ ACCOUNTING AND ITS ENVIRONMENT

INTRODUCTION

Accounting develops new concepts and techniques to meet the needs for society and for financial information just like in medicine and law.

It is the system that measures business transactions and processes information into reports that help decision-makers come up with their decision.

Called the "language of business"

Accountants are called "scorekeepers of business"

DEFINITION OF ACCOUNTING

Accounting is a service activity and it provides quantitative information.

Measures, processes, and communicates financial information about an economic entity.

EVOLUTION OF ACCOUNTING

"study of the evolution in accounting thought, practices and institutions in response to changes in the environment and societal needs. It also considers the effect that this evolution has worked on the environment."

◀ Primitive Accounting

Keeping accounts has been traced as far as back 8500 BC.

Considered this stage of record keeping the beginning of the art of writing. (tokens were sealed in clay balls "bullae" as the first bills of lading)

1st Dynasty of Babylonia 92286-2242 BC) - law was based on the "Code of Hammurabi" – merchants trade goods by giving buyers sealed memorandum (agreed price before it could be enforceable). It is recorded by SCRIBE on a clay with their signatures on it.

3600 BC Babylonia- used clay tablets to record payment of wages. Like the case of Pharaohs in Egypt.
