Statistical Models for Optimizing Mineral Exploration J.G. De Geoffroy, T.K. Wignall, 2012-12-06 After the spectacular successes of the 1960's and 1970's the mineral exploration business is at a crossroads facing uncertain times in the decades ahead This situation requires a re thinking of the philosophy guiding mineral exploration if it is to emulate its recent performance The main argument of a previous volume titled Designing Optimal Strategies for Mineral Exploration published in 1985 by Plenum Publishing Corporation of New York is that a possible answer to the challenge facing mineral explorationists lies in the philosophy of optimization This new approach should help exploration staff make the best achievable use of the sophisticated and costly technology which is presently available for the detection of ore deposits The main emphasis of the present volume is placed on the mathematical and computational aspects of the optimization of mineral exploration The seven chapters making up the main body of the book are devoted to the description and application of various types of computerized geomathematical models which underpin the optimization of the mineral exploration sequence The topics covered include a the optimal selection of ore deposit types and regions of search as well as prospecting areas within the regions Chapters 2 3 4 6 b the designing of airborne and ground field programs for the optimal coverage of prospecting areas Chapters 2 3 4 c delineation and evaluation of exploration targets within prospecting areas by means of optimized models Chapter 5
