Scanning Electrochemical Microscopy, Second Edition Allen J. Bard, Michael V. Mirkin, 2012-04-16 Because of its simplicity of use and quantitative results Scanning Electrochemical Microscopy SECM has become an indispensable tool for the study of surface reactivity The fast expansion of the SECM field during the last several years has been fueled by the introduction of new probes commercially available instrumentation and new practical applications Scanning Electrochemical Microscopy Second Edition offers essential background and in depth overviews of specific applications in self contained chapters Recent methodological advances have greatly increased the capacity of SECM to characterize interfaces at the nanoscale and to obtain molecular level chemical information This thoroughly updated edition retains original chapters describing the principles of SECM measurements instrumentation preparation of SECM probes imaging methodologies and theory and offers New chapters on studies of single biological cells corrosion electrocatalysis and hybrid techniques Descriptions of recent advances of SECM in several areas of current interest biotechnological applications nanofabrication and surface patterning and molecular transport across films and membranes Discussion of the ongoing shift from micrometer scale experiments to the nanoscale Useful for a broad range of interdisciplinary research from biological systems to probing reactions at the liquid liquid interface this book is invaluable to all interested in learning and applying SECM

microelectrodes for addressing relevant analytical questions Finally the developed amalgam microelectrodes were applied for SECM studies of iron reducing proteins separated from Shewanella microbes in native polyacrylamide gels After calibration of Pt Hg microelectrodes in bulk solution for the targeted analytes iron and sulfur species SECM approach curves recorded above the native gel enabled positioning of the amalgam electrode in close proximity above protein bands with suspected iron reducing activity This technique enabled the semi quantitative determination of the anaerobic respiratory activity associated with microbial proteins protein complexes responsible for the reductive dissolution of manganese and iron oxides above microbial protein bands separated in a native gel matrix
