Charlotte Barnes

Scenes Of Reading:

Scenes of Reading Nancy Cervetti, 1998 The book's focus is how these novels revise the romance plot abandoning this ancient and very political story line and creating in its place a much larger imaginary field in which female heroines as well as their readers can consider and experiment with other possibilities

Eye Guidance in Reading and Scene Perception G. Underwood, 1998-07-16 The distinguished contributors to this volume have been set the problem of describing how we know where to move our eyes There is a great deal of current interest in the use of eye movement recordings to investigate various mental processes The common theme is that variations in eye movements indicate variations in the processing of what is being perceived whether in reading driving or scene perception However a number of problems of interpretation are now emerging and this edited volume sets out to address these problems The book investigates controversies concerning the variations in eye movements associated with reading ability concerning the extent to which text is used by the guidance mechanism while reading concerning the relationship between eye movements and the control of other body movements the relationship between what is inspected and what is perceived and concerning the role of visual control attention in the acquisition of complex perceptual motor skills in addition to the nature of the guidance mechanism itself The origins of the volume are in discussions held at a meeting of the European Society for Cognitive Psychology ESCOP that was held in Wurzburg in September 1996 The discussions concerned the landing effect in reading an effect that if substantiated would provide evidence of the use of parafoveal information in eye guidance and these discussions were explored in more detail at a small meeting in Chamonix in February 1997 Many of the contributors to this volume were present at the meeting but the arguments were not resolved in Chamonix either Other leaders in the field were invited to contribute to the discussion and this volume is the product The argument remains unresolved but the problem is certainly clearer

Reading in Proust's A la recherche Adam Watt, 2009-06-18 Through close textual analysis of the scenes of reading in Proust's A la recherche du temps perdu Adam Watt offers an invigorating new study of the novel and previously unacknowledged paths through it After considering key childhood Primal Scenes which mark the act of reading as revelatory and potentially traumatic the book then identifies and examines the interwoven strands of the novel's narrative of reading showing that scenes where the narrator reads and where others provide lessons in reading are intricately connected within the narrator's ever unfolding considerations of intelligence sense experience knowledge and desire These acts of reading often bewildering the narrator with their mix of illuminations wrong turns and over determinations lead us to interrogate our own understanding of the act we accomplish as we read A la recherche This book emphasizes the complexities and contradictions with which reading always inescapably an engagement of both mind and body is riven and which connect it repeatedly to the experience of involuntary memory Reading is shown to be frequently fraught with heady instability and lire of a highly revealing sort from which narrator and readers alike have much to learn The book's final chapter shows how the narrator's critical energies turned contemplatively inwards in the Guermentes library are subsequently turned outwards for a final interpretive effort the reading of his now aged acquaintances at the Bal de t tes in a shift that provides the narrator not only the confidence to begin his work of art but also the humility to face undeterred the approach of death The Supplement of Reading Questions, Reading and Interpretation Peter Mack, 2017-08-20 This book aims to help readers interpret and reflect on their reading more effectively It presents doctrines of ancient and renaissance rhetoric an education in how to write well as questions or categories for interpreting one's reading The first chapter presents the questions Later chapters use rhetorical theory to bring out the implications of and suggest possible answers to the questions about occasion and audience chapter 2 structure and disposition 3 narrative 4 argument 5 further elements of content such as descriptions comparisons proverbs and moral axioms dialogue and examples 6 and style 7 Chapter eight describes ways of gathering material formulating arguments and writing about the texts one reads The conclusion considers the wider implications of taking a rhetorical approach to reading The investigation of rhetoric's questions is interspersed with analyses of texts by Chaucer Sidney Shakespeare Fielding and Rushdie using the questions The text is intended for university students of literature especially English literature and rhetoric and their teachers Reading Coetzee. Elizabeth MacFarlane, 2013-07-01 Just as J M Coetzee's post 2003 books present essays and narrative alongside one another this book engages with its ideas through both critical and creative writing Reading Coetzee interleaves critical essays on Coetzee's works with an autobiographical narrative detailing MacFarlane's more personal response to her reading and writing The presentation of elements of the creative with the critical and the critical within the creative aims to challenge the traditional boundary between the two This kind of methodology derives from the idea and practice of embodiment that an idea or philosophy does not float free but is tied to the idiosyncrasies divergences and subjective travel of its speaker or writer Coetzee's Elizabeth Costello Slow Man and Diary of a Bad Year explicitly address themes which abide more surreptitiously throughout his oeuvre the divisions and paradoxes which occur the moment pen gains page the value of literature and the ethics of embodiment In revealing the dialogue between writer self and reader self and between author and character these recent novels invite a rereading of Coetzee's previous literature Reading Coetzee explores Coetzee's preoccupation with the act of writing using his recent books as a lens through which to view his eight previous novels as well as his memoirs and essays

Teaching Reading and Literature with Classroom Talk Dawan Coombs, 2024-12-26 This book presents a framework for conceptualizing and enacting dialogic approaches to teaching literature and reading in your classroom Dialogical approaches have often been used in secondary classrooms for teaching writing by incorporating students' lives and experiences into the English Language Arts/ELA curriculum But what might it look like to create reading moments that bring texts to life by allowing students to use their own identities and experiences as the foundation for their interpretation The most current research in reading motivation culturally responsive teaching and even neuroscience points to the power of dialogical approaches to not only engage students in reading texts but when used consistently and repeatedly help increase students' reading growth and achievement Dialogical approaches can be particularly helpful for struggling readers English language learners (ELLs) and neurodivergent students This book explores dialogical approaches to teaching reading and literature in secondary ELA classrooms with descriptions of hands-on activities models of dialogical strategies and real-time examples from ELA and reading classes Each chapter includes motivating accessible and research-based methods and tools that help students connect content to their lives and explore a diversity of perspectives With resources such as assignment sheets and rubrics this is an essential book for middle and high school ELA teachers reading coaches and interventionists teachers working with ELLs and pre-service teachers who are looking to better understand and utilize dialogical approaches to support their students in transforming their reader identities

Literary Reading David S. Miall, 2006 This is the first major book in English on literary reading to be based on empirical methods Moving the focus away from interpretation to the experience of literary texts these studies demonstrate the role played by feeling in readers' responses showing how feeling performs important functions during reading that cannot be accounted for by cognitive understanding These studies not only reinvigorate the concept of literariness they are also thoroughly interdisciplinary offering a coherent approach to literary reading that draws on literary theory psychology neuropsychology and evolutionary psychology Several chapters help to introduce the empirical approach for students
