Scented Gardens For The Blind:

Scented Gardens for the Blind Janet Frame, 1992 Beyond the Word Jeanne Delbaere-Garant, Scented Gardens For The Blind Janet Frame, 1964 Scented gardens for the blind ostensibly follows the members of the fractured Glace family suffering from different forms of sensory deprivation the daughter mute the mother blind the father estranged yet each living in a vivid world of their own making While the father looks to the past in his obsessions with genealogy and toy soldiers the modern age hangs over them with the hint of nuclear apocalypse But all is not what it seems Back cover

Scented Gardens for the Blind Janet Frame, 2009 Erlene lives silently inside her mind communicating only with imaginary Uncle Black Beetle Her parents believe that she must be cured of her muteness and that once she is cured she will make a statement crucial to humankind Scented Gardens for the Blind Helen Carkeek, 197? The Subject and the World in Janet Frame's "Scented Gardens for the Blind" Jovita Palmeira, 2001 Scented Gardens for the Blind Janet Frame, 2007

Hailed by one reviewer as likely a work of genius Scented Gardens for the Blind first published in 1963 ostensibly follows the members of the fractured Glace family suffering from different forms of sensory deprivation the daughter mute the mother blind the father estranged yet each living in a vivid world of their own making While the father looks to the past in his obsessions with genealogy and toy soldiers the modern age hangs over them with the hint of nuclear apocalypse But all is not what it seems in this dark and dazzling novel and Janet Frame's narrative virtuosity is expressed in an ending that makes the reader re-interpret all that has gone before Modernisation in the form of electricity and the Overspill from London confronts the inhabitants of the small English village of Little Burgelstatham in the richly textured The Adaptable Man first published in 1965 While some amongst the large cast of characters prefer to live in the past and avoid modern life others adapt and welcome its arrival not least Muriel Baldry who can now hang her Venini chandelier and throw a dinner party to celebrate But does adapting to the twentieth century demand darker deeds C K Stead wrote of this comedy of manners that Frame that most authentic firm and unadaptable lady planted landmines everywhere in those bogus English fields Manifold Utopia Marc Delrez, 2021-10-01 This study of Janet Frame's fiction addresses with unusual directness the Utopian momentum that underpins her concern with fundamental social issues traditionally highlighted in existing criticism of her work The idea behind this book is that Frame's critique of society while it is offered for its own sake on one level should not lead us to neglect the author's more speculative interest in an alternative conception of the human person Her engagement in a species of experimental portraiture proves elusive though owing to an indirectness of approach that usually takes the form of thematic circumscription rather than explicit representation For example the figure of the mute child recurrent in her work may well testify to a concern with the plight of the mentally ill but on another level it also points to an envelope of intractable experience which it is the artist's task to penetrate and explain Such aspiration is inseparable from the search for a new medium of expression felt to be necessary if one is to meet the challenge of apprehending the scope of pioneering knowledge

This close reading of the novels reveals that the alternative dimension of experience to be found in Frame's novels is characterized by an intact capacity for remembering or for imaginatively re-creating eclipsed aspects of the present. Frame's view of Utopia thus turns out to be manifold: it is existential and ontological, linguistic and epistemological, but also historical and political. An unravelling of these intertwined strains then serves to clarify the complex question of Frame's post-colonial sensibility, which cannot be said to rely on a sense of rigid identity, whether national or otherwise.

Lo Specchio Infranto Anna Grazia Mattei, 1985 The Ring of Fire Jeanne Delbaere, 1992 The Unharnessed World Cindy Gabrielle, 2015-06-18

Though New Zealand author Janet Frame (1924-2004) lived at a time of growing dissatisfaction with European cultural models and though her autobiography, fiction, and letters all testify to the fact that a direct encounter between herself and Buddhism occurred, her work has so far never been examined from the vantage point of its indebtedness to Buddhism. It is of the utmost significance, however, that a Buddhist navigation of Frame's texts should shed fresh light on large segments of the Framean corpus which have tended to remain obdurately mysterious. This includes passages centering on such themes as the existence of a non-dual world or a character's sudden embrace of a non-ego-like self. Of equal significance is the conclusion one then draws that this unharnessed world, which human beings are often unable to embrace, has always been right under their nose: for whenever the aspect of the intellect that filters perceptions into mutually excluding categories fails to function, he or she finds a place of subjective arrival in and sees this supposedly unknowable beyond. Thus, possibly against the grain of mainstream criticism, this study argues that Janet Frame constantly seeks ways through which the infinite and the Other can be approached, though not corrupted by the perceiving self, and that she found in the Buddhist epistemology a pathway towards evoking such alterity.

Imagination and the Creative Impulse in the New Literatures in English, 2021-11-01

Imagination and the Creative Impulse in the New Literatures in English brings together the proceedings of a symposium organised by the editors at the University of Trento in 1990. At a time when the study of the post-colonial literatures is gaining more widespread recognition, scholars based mainly at universities in Italy and Germany were invited to address the manner in which writers are giving literary expression to the complexity of contemporary post-colonial and multicultural societies and to consider from their differing perspectives on the new literatures' central questions of formal experimentation, linguistic innovation, social and political commitment, textual theory, and cross-culturality. Focusing on such major writers such as Achebe, Soyinka, and Walcott, as well as on lesser-known figures such as Jack Davis, Witi Ihimaera, Rohinton Mistry, and Manohar Malgonkar, the contributors take up many themes characteristic of the new literatures: the challenge posed to traditional authority; the expression of national identity; the role of literature in the liberation struggle; modes of literary practice in multicultural societies; the relationship of the new literatures in English to that of the former metropolitan centre; and the complex intertextuality characterizing much of the literary production of post-colonial societies.

Janet Frame Claire Bazin, 2011

Claire Bazin explores the extraordinary life of Janet Frame and highlights the author's significant contribution to postcolonial and gender studies Janet Frame Matthew Paul Pierre, 2011-05-12 In Janet Frame Semiotics and Biosemiotics in Her Early Fiction Paul Matthew St Pierre exploits the linguistic discipline of semiotics and the neurobiological discipline of biosemiotics to propose an original and dynamic reading of the first four works of fiction by New Zealand writer Janet Frame 1924 2004 The Lagoon Stories 1951 Owls Do Cry 1957 Faces in the Water 1961 and The Edge of the Alphabet 1962 Opposing the prevailing reading of Frame's early fiction as autobiographical deriving from her medical history he argues her books are singular evocations of her astonishing imagination His purpose is to fix this historical record and provide an alternative model for interpreting one of the 20th century's most stylistically demanding and rewarding writers Semiotics and biosemiotics are his means for unlocking the early fiction and her later works to a polemical analysis focusing on language sign transmissions writing the body and the biosemiotic self In The Lagoon Owls Do Cry Faces in the Water and The Edge of the Alphabet Frame produced what St Pierre interprets as an original semiotic and biosemiotic modeling system that she applied throughout her oeuvre of twenty books comprising eight story collections seven novels a book of poetry a children's novel and three volumes of autobiography Using this modeling system she designed her fiction as a visual verbal field consisting of still and moving images generated in the imagination located in the brains and central nervous systems of her narrators characters and readers and primarily of the author herself The author discusses the significations of 1 Frame's image signs in water glass photographs film membranes skin and clothing 2 her primary sign repertoire of objects language and human persons in the figures of blood skin and sun 3 her body signs including those generated in the circulatory and neurological systems of all human organisms as biosemiotic living's Frameworks, 2009-01-01 Janet Frame's work is notorious for the demands it makes on reader and critic This collection of nine new essays by international Frame specialists draws on a range of critical frameworks to explore fresh ways of looking at Frame's fiction poetry and autobiography At the same time the essays plug into the energy of Frame's work to challenge our thinking within and beyond these frameworks Frameworks offers a unique perspective on Frame studies today showcasing its major concerns as well as heralding new Frame narratives for the decade ahead Mindful of preceding Frame criticism these essays use their contemporary vantage point to recast seminal questions about the relationship between Janet Frame's work and its critical contexts Each of the essays makes a case for framing her work in a particular way but all are characterized by self-reflexivity regarding their own critical practice and the relationship they assume between exegetical framework and Frame's work Underlying this practice and contained within the pun of the title are the elementary sounding yet fundamental questions of Frame studies How does Frame's work work And how do we work with her work Telling Stories, 2021-11-15 The present volume is a highly comprehensive assessment of the postcolonial short story since the thirty-six contributions cover most geographical areas concerned Another important feature is that it deals not only with exclusive practitioners of the genre Mansfield Munro but also with well-known novelists Achebe Armah

Atwood Carey Rushdie so that stimulating comparisons are suggested between shorter and longer works by the same authors In addition the volume is of interest for the study of aspects of orality dialect dance rhythms circularity and trickster figure for instance and of the more or less conflictual relationships between the individual character or implied author and the community Furthermore the marginalized status of women emerges as another major theme both as regards the past for white women settlers or the present for urbanized characters primarily in Africa and India The reader will also have the rare pleasure of discovering Janice Kulik Keefer s Fox her version of what she calls in her commentary displaced autobiography or creative non fiction Lastly an extensive bibliography on the postcolonial short story opens up further possibilities for research

The Uses Of Autobiography Julia Swindells Homerton College, Cambridge.,2014-03-18 First Published in 1995

Autobiography is commonly understood in terms of giving readers insight into the private lives of unique individuals but in recent years the autobiographical project has absorbed a wide variety of social concerns The contributors to this book explore a range of the uses of autobiography from the nineteenth century to the present day and from Africa USA the Middle East France New Zealand and the United Kingdom The chapters draw on a number of approaches including historical and literary methods to represent the autobiography s purpose of establishing communities of interest and social change Life Writing and Schizophrenia Mary Elene Wood,2013-09-05 How do you write your life story when readers expect you not to make sense How do you write a case history that makes sense when face to face with schizophrenia your ability to tell a diagnostic story begins to fall apart This book examines work in several genres of life writing autobiography memoir case history autobiographical fiction focused either on what it means to live with schizophrenia or what it means to understand and treat people who have received that diagnosis Challenging the romanticized connection between literature and madness Life Writing and Schizophrenia explores how writers who hear voices and experience delusions write their identities into narrative despite popular and medical representations of schizophrenia as chaos violence and incoherence The study juxtaposes these narratives to case histories by clinicians writing their encounters with those diagnosed with schizophrenia encounters that call their own narrative authority and coherence into question Mary Wood is the author of The Writing on the Wall Women s Autobiography and the Asylum University of Illinois Press 1994 and has published articles on autobiography case history literature and psychiatry and narrative ethics in Narrative British Journal of Medical Ethics Journal of Trauma and Dissociation and American Literary Realism She teaches in the English Department at the University of Oregon Wrestling with the Angel Michael King,2002-03-07 Janet Frame born in 1924 is New Zealand s most celebrated and least public author Her early life in small South Island towns seemed at times engulfed in a tide of doom one brother still born another epileptic two sisters dead of heart failure while swimming Frame herself committed to mental hospitals for the best part of a decade Later her surviving sister was temporarily felled in adulthood by a stroke an uncle cut his throat and a cousin shot his lover his lover s parents and then himself This then is an inspiring biography of a woman who climbed out of an abyss of unhappiness to take control of her life and become one of the great writers of her time And to enable her biographer to write this book scrupulously and honestly Janet Frame spoke for the first time about her whole life She also made available her personal papers and directed her family and friends to be equally communicative The result is a biography of astonishing intimacy and frankness written by multi award winning author Dr Michael King Chasing the Dragon Jeff Apter,2023-02-01 He had it all the heroin chic thing before it was chic the scars the swagger an incredible stage presence After bursting on to the Australian music scene in 1975 Dragon fast developed a reputation for both hard rocking and hard living As the highly visible and charismatic lead singer Marc Hunter was the voice behind such timeless hits as April Sun in Cuba Are You Old Enough and Rain Yet Hunter was also a maverick whose destructive genius and serious heroin addiction led to a turbulent relationship with his bandmates including older brother Todd And it contributed to his early death at just 44 Originally published in 2011 this intimate portrait was written with full co operation from Marc s mother Voi and his brother and former bandmate Todd as well as contributions from many high profile Australian music personalities such as James Reyne John Paul Young Kate Fitzpatrick Richard Clapton Don Walker Kevin Borich Tommy Emmanuel and Robert Forster
