International Handbook of Educational Leadership and Administration Kenneth A. Leithwood,Judith Chapman,P. Corson,P. Hallinger,Ann Hart,2012-12-06 EDITORS This introduction to the International Handbook of Educational Leadership and Administration describes some of the motivation for developing the book and several assumptions on which is based much of the work represented in its 31 chapters A synopsis of the contents of those chapters is also provided SOME KEY ASSUMPTIONS It is sometimes suggested that the search for an adequate understanding of leadership is doomed to fail After all there is little evidence of agreement about the concept in spite of prodigious efforts dating back hundreds if not thousands of years Such a view is captured for example in Bennis observation that Of all the hazy and confounding areas in social psychology leadership theory undoubtedly contends for top nomination Probably more has been written and less is known about leadership than any other topic in the behavioural sciences 1959 page 259 We do not find this state of affairs discouraging nor entirely accurate and of course it did not prevent Bennis from proceeding either One reason for our desire to continue in the face of such discouraging words is that a great deal of leadership research aspires to develop a general theory a theory which applies to all or most domains of organized human activity This aspiration inevitably produces decontextualized and therefore abstract categories of practice Howard Gardner s 1995 depiction of leadership as story telling is a case in point Staff, Parents and Politics in Head Start Peggy A. Sissel,2020-08-11 This book takes the reader inside the workings of Head Start drawing attention to the inequalities in power knowledge and material resources that exist in the United States It traces the dialectical relationship between the thoughts and actions of staff members and parents

Struggling for Inclusion James Ryan, 2012-03-01 This book describes the struggles in which inclusive minded administrators find themselves when they promote equity initiatives Administrators routinely struggle when they attempt to include all members of their school communities teachers students and parents in the various aspects of schooling Given the presence of a host of obstacles setting right the injustices associated with racism classism sexism ableism homophobia and other exclusive practices is not an easy thing to do Resistance from colleagues who fail to recognize exclusive practices when they see them and from others who do recognize them but see no harm too few resources exclusive policies personal uncertainties or insecurities and conflicted priorities are just a few of the phenomena that get in the way of these efforts This book explores these struggles It looks at the contexts within which these encounters occur the various challenges that inclusive minded administrators encounter and the strategies that they employ to meet these tests Employing the results of original empirical studies surveys of current research recent theoretical literature and personal experiences this book seeks to provide school leaders with a sense of what it is like to promote inclusion and equity in the contemporary neoliberal context Among other things it looks to provide educators of an understanding of the obstacles that stand in the way of inclusion the nature of the struggles that await them and ideas for what they might do Among other things the book concludes that in relation to the pursuit of inclusion 1 exclusion continues to be part of contemporary schools and communities 2 struggles for inclusion transcend individual educators students and parents 3 administrators are sometimes part of the problem of exclusion 4 administrators struggle with issues of difference 5 administrators struggle with circumstances they inherit people with whom they work and with themselves and 6 administrators have resources to employ in their struggles for inclusion

Interest Groups and Education Reform Veronica Donahue DiConti, 1996-10-10

During the 1980s the education policy agenda proceeded from a consensus reached by politicians the business community and educators to restructure the nation's public schools as a way to improve student achievement This book begins with a critical examination of the impact of interest groups on American education since the inception of the first school system Two restructuring proposals became extremely popular in the reform debate but stemmed from different premises about the best way to restructure the schools The first Public School Choice centers on the idea that students should have the right to exit their assigned schools and attend a school of their choice Schools would then be forced to improve because they would have to compete in the marketplace of students The second proposal School Based Management looks at the merits of strengthening the mechanism of voice for parents students and teachers in the management of their neighborhood school

Those involved in the education process assess the needs resources and development of local schools Through two case studies Minnesota and Baltimore City the efforts and intentions of reformers demonstrate the ability of interest groups to capture and define the purpose of a public institution at the state and local level Planning & Changing ,1991

Foundations for the Future in Mathematics Education Richard A. Lesh, Eric Hamilton, James J. Kaput, 2020-10-07
The central question addressed in Foundations for the Future in Mathematics Education is this What kind of understandings and abilities should be emphasized to decrease mismatches between the narrow band of mathematical understandings and abilities that are emphasized in mathematics classrooms and tests and those that are needed for success beyond school in the 21st century This is an urgent question In fields ranging from aeronautical engineering to agriculture and from biotechnologies to business administration outside advisors to future oriented university programs increasingly emphasize the fact that beyond school the nature of problem solving activities has changed dramatically during the past twenty years as powerful tools for computation conceptualization and communication have led to fundamental changes in the levels and types of mathematical understandings and abilities that are needed for success in such fields For K 12 students and teachers questions about the changing nature of mathematics and mathematical thinking beyond school might be rephrased to ask If the goal is to create a mathematics curriculum that will be adequate to prepare students for informed citizenship as well as preparing them for career opportunities in learning organizations in knowledge economies in an age of increasing globalization how should traditional conceptions of the 3Rs be extended or reconceived Overall this book suggests that it is not enough to simply make incremental changes in the existing curriculum whose traditions developed out of the needs of industrial societies The authors beyond simply stating conclusions from their research use results from it to describe promising directions for a research agenda related to this question The volume is organized in three sections Part I focuses on naturalistic observations aimed at clarifying what kind of mathematical thinking people really do when they are engaged in real life problem solving or decision making situations beyond school Part II shifts attention toward changes that have occurred in kinds of elementary but powerful mathematical concepts topics and tools that have evolved recently and that could replace past notions of basics by providing new foundations for the future This section also initiates discussions about what it means to understand the preceding ideas and abilities Part III extends these discussions about meaning and understanding and emphasizes teaching experiments aimed at investigating how instructional activities can be designed to facilitate the development of the preceding ideas and abilities Foundations for the Future in Mathematics Education is an essential reference for researchers curriculum developers assessment experts and teacher educators across the fields of mathematics and science education Journal of School Leadership ,1992 Ecosystem leadership Neil Barker, 2022-12-01 The role of a school principal is an extremely challenging one Principals are required to be educators business managers strategic planners counsellors and most importantly leaders While there are professional development opportunities and short courses available for aspiring principals many principals work their way up to the role without receiving any formal training in the specific skills required to successfully lead a school and its community Neil Barker argues in Ecosystem leadership an approach for schools that in order to improve school leadership and subsequent student outcomes principals and leadership teams need to better understand how to lead together to be intentional about the school's leadership and to methodically and deliberately develop a collective leadership approach Based on the organic and interconnected ecosystems found throughout the natural world Ecosystem leadership provides practical hands on activities and templates to assist school leaders in developing collective leadership skills and practices The book sets out 5 key leadership elements for school leaders to address context vision processes focuses and impact Ecosystem leadership provides a collaborative self improving approach to leadership that is systematic integrated and comprehensive It describes a system of leadership that is fit for purpose based on a school's unique context and always with improving student outcomes at the forefront High School Principals and School Capacity Shelby A. Cosner, 2005
