Nation Building Propaganda And Literature In Fra:

Black France Dominic Thomas, 2007 Without a doubt one of the most important studies so far completed on literature in French grounded in the experiences of migrants of sub Saharan African origin Alec Hargreaves Florida State University France has always hosted a rich and vibrant black presence within its borders But recent violent events have raised questions about France's treatment of ethnic minorities Challenging the identity politics that have set immigrants against the mainstream Black France explores how black expressive culture has been reformulated as global culture in the multicultural and multinational spaces of France Thomas brings forward questions such as Why is France a privileged site of civilization Who is French Who is an immigrant Who controls the networks of production Black France poses an urgently needed reassessment of the French colonial legacy

Francophone Afropean Literatures Nicki Hitchcott, Dominic Thomas, 2014-04-10 This volume explores the concept and possibility of a black European community by analysing the ways in which contemporary Francophone African writers articulate and interrogate their complex relationships with European society culture and history

Transnational French Studies Alec G. Hargreaves, Charles Forsdick, David Murphy, 2012-01-01 The 2007 manifesto in favour of a Litterature monde en francais has generated new debates in both francophone and postcolonial studies Praised by some for breaking down the hierarchical division between French and Francophone literatures the manifesto has been criticized by others for recreating that division through an exoticizing vision that continues to privilege the publishing industry of the former colonial metropole Does the manifesto signal the advent of a new critical paradigm destined to render obsolescent those of francophone and or postcolonial studies Or is it simply a passing fad a glitzy but ephemeral publicity stunt generated and promoted by writers and publishing executives vis a vis whom scholars and critics should maintain a skeptical distance Does it offer an all embracing transnational vista leading beyond the confines of postcolonialism or reintroduce an incipient form of neocolonialism even while proclaiming the end of the centre periphery divide In addressing these questions leading scholars of French Francophone and postcolonial studies from around the globe help to assess the wider question of the evolving status of French Studies as a transnational field of study amid the challenges of globalization

New Spaces for French and Francophone Cinema James F. Austin, 2009-01-01 On the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the French Nouvelle Vague this volume of Yale French studies aims to take the pulse of French and Francophone cinema today by exploring the national transnational and post colonial spaces of twenty first century France From publisher description

Relations V. Y. Mudimbe Pierre-Philippe Fraiture, 2013-08-30 VY Mudimbe Undisciplined Africanism is the first English language monograph dedicated to the work of Valentin Yves Mudimbe. This book charts the intellectual history of the seminal Congolese philosopher, epistemologist and philologist from the late 1960s to the present day, exploring his major essays and novels. Pierre-Philippe Fraiture highlights Mudimbe's trajectory through major debates on African nationalism, Panafricanism, neo-colonialism, negritude, pedagogy, Christianisation, decolonisation, anthropology, postcolonial representations and a variety of other subjects, using these as contexts for close readings of many of Mudimbe's texts, both influential and lesser known. The book demonstrates that Mudimbe's intellectual career has been informed by a series of decisive dialogues with some of the key exponents of Africanism: Herodotus, E. W. Blyden, Placide Tempels, continental and postcolonial thought, Jean-Paul Sartre, Frantz Fanon, Michel Foucault and Claude Lévi-Strauss, and African thought and philosophy from Africa and the diaspora. L. S. Senghor, Patrice Nganang and Achille Mbembe. Performing (for) Survival Patrick Duggan, Lisa Peschel, 2016-01-05 This volume gathers contributions from a range of international scholars and geopolitical contexts to explore why people organise themselves into performance communities in sites of crisis and how performance, social and aesthetically sanctioned and underground, is employed as a mechanism for survival. The chapters treat a wide range of what can be considered survival, ranging from sheer physical survival to the survival of a social group with its own unique culture and values to the survival of the very possibility of agency and dissent. Performance as a form of political resistance and protest plays a large part in many of the essays, but performance does more than that: it enables societies in crisis to continue to define themselves. By maintaining identities that are based on their own chosen affiliations and not defined solely in opposition to their oppressors, individuals and groups prepare themselves for a post-crisis future by keeping alive their own notions of who they are and who they hope to be. French Global Christie McDonald, Susan Rubin Suleiman, 2010 Introduction: the national and the global. provides a comprehensive overview of the lives of the men and women who shaped Africa's history. Unprecedented in scale, DAB covers the whole continent from Tunisia to South Africa, from Sierra Leone to Somalia. It also encompasses the full scope of history from Queen Hatsheput of Egypt (1490-1468 BC) and Hannibal the military commander and strategist of Carthage (243-183 BC) to Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana (1909-1972), Miriam Makeba and Nelson Mandela of South Africa (1918).

Globalizing the Postcolony Claire H. Griffiths, 2010-12-18. Globalizing the Postcolony: Contesting Discourses of Gender and Development in Francophone Africa is a study of development in the former French colonies of West Africa. It takes as its starting point the international community's reporting on human and social development and gender in the developing areas which began systematically in 1990 and which has provided a framework for policy making in this field. International reports suggest that the francophone African countries have been experiencing low levels of social development throughout the past two decades. These levels fall dramatically when the factor of gender is introduced to the point where statistically speaking francophone African women have had less access to social development than any other population in the world. This study analyzes current thinking on the challenges facing gender and development in Africa before moving on to examine the historical factors marking the gender and development profile of the francophone West African region. Through an analysis of gender politics in the region from pre-colonial to postcolonial times, the book examines the gradual incursion of exogenous gender policies into the region throughout the 20th century. The discussion concludes by arguing that despite the tendency of the international community and their colonial administrative forebears to pursue one-size-fits-all solutions to what they identified as the main development challenges of the day, the impact of standardized solutions remains subject to the unique historical and cultural context in which they are implemented. Adapting formula-driven policies to unique cultural contexts constitutes a major challenge for gender and development politics in the second decade of the new century. Meanwhile, the book coincides with the introduction of a new international development agenda in Africa articulated around issues of security and globalization. While civil unrest continues to destabilize vast regions of the continent, making the prospe

Black France / France Noire Trica Danielle Keaton, 2012-06-26. In Black France: France Noire, scholars, activists, and novelists address the paradox of race in France: the state does not acknowledge race as a meaningful category, but experiences of antiblack racism belie claims of color blindness. Contemporary Francophone African Writers and the Burden of Commitment Odile Cazenave, Patricia-Pia Célérier, 2011-02-02. By looking at engaged literature from the recent past when the francophone African writer was implicitly seen as imparted with a mission to the present when such authors usually aspire to be acknowledged primarily for their work as writers, Contemporary Francophone African Writers and the Burden of Commitment addresses the current processes of canonization in contemporary francophone African literature. Odile Cazenave and Patricia Célérier argue that aesthetic as well as political issues are now at the forefront of debates about the African literary canon as writers and critics increasingly acknowledge the ideology of form. Working across genres but focusing on the novel the authors take up the question of renewed forms of commitment in this literature Their selected writers range from Mongo Beti Ousmane Semb ne and Aminata Sow Fall to Boubacar Boris Diop V ronique Tadj Alai Mabanckou and L onora Miano among others New Francophone African and Caribbean Theatres John Conteh-Morgan,2010-08-03 John Conteh Morgan explores the multiple ways in which African and Caribbean theatres have combined aesthetic ceremonial experimental and avant garde practices in order to achieve sharp critiques of the nationalist and postnationalist state and to elucidate the concerns of the francophone world More recent changes have introduced a transnational dimension replacing concerns with national and ethnic solidarity in favor of irony and self reflexivity New Francophone African and Caribbean Theatres places these theatres at the heart of contemporary debates on global cultural and political practices and offers a more finely tuned understanding of performance in diverse diasporic networks Life and a Half Sony Labou Tansi,2011 This crisp translation by Alison Dundy maintains the fast paced action and biting satiric tone of the original Infinite Repertoire Adrienne J. Cohen,2021-07-23 In Guinea s capital city of Conakry dance is everywhere Most neighborhoods boast at least one dance troupe and members of those troupes animate the city s major rites of passage and social events In Infinite Repertoire Adrienne Cohen shows how dance became such a prominent even infrastructural feature of city life in Guinea and tells a surprising story of the rise of creative practice under a political regime known for its authoritarianism and violent excesses Guinea s socialist state which was in power from 1958 to 1984 used staged African dance or ballet strategically as a political tool in part by tapping into indigenous conceptualizations of artisans as powerful figures capable of transforming the social fabric through their manipulation of vital energy Far from dying with the socialist revolution Guinean ballet continued to thrive in Conakry after economic liberalization in the 1980s with its connection to transformative power retrofitted for a market economy and a rapidly expanding city Infinite Repertoire follows young dancers and percussionists in Conakry as they invest in the present using their bodies to build a creative urban environment and to perform and redefine social norms and political subjectivities passed down from the socialist generation before them Cohen s inventive ethnography weaves the political with the aesthetic placing dance at the center of a story about dramatic political change and youthful resourcefulness in one of the least studied cities on the African continent
