Hoerber,Mabel M. Rockwell,1963 Taxation in Communist China, 1950-59 George Norman Ecklund,1961 China's Allocation of Fixed Capital Investment,

1952-1957 Chu-yuan Cheng, 2020-08-06 China's efforts to stimulate industrial development and economic growth through the allocation of investments are analyzed. Cheng concludes with an overall assessment of the distinctive features of the allocation pattern. Includes 41 statistical tables. Economy of the Chinese Mainland Ta-chung Liu, Kung-chia Yeh, 2015-12-08 A picture of a relentless drive for industrialization at the expense of living standards is presented in this authoritative comparison of the economic development of China in the Communist and pre Communist periods. The authors have made a quantitative analysis of the economy of the Chinese mainland from 1952 to 1959 and related it to accounts for 1933. Their interpretation differs dramatically from official Communist statements and their findings cast serious doubt on Communist claims for annual increases in national income. For 1958 for instance the official figure for the rate of increase was 34 per cent but the true rate was probably nearer to 14 per cent. Originally published in 1965. The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press. These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions. The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905. The Chinese Economy Under Maoism Walter Galenson, 2017-07-05 Over sixty years have elapsed since the Communists gained control of the Chinese mainland. The years between 1949 and 1969 were a time of constant change and periodic cataclysm: the initial purges, the Great Leap Forward and the Cultural Revolution, all bound up with the Communist conception of how to move the country into modernity in the shortest possible time. The Chinese Economy under Maoism summarizes and evaluates the economic consequences of the Communist path to development in a concise factual presentation that can be readily comprehended by non-economists. The authors review the major features of the Chinese economy prior to the Communist takeover and discuss the policies, performance and problems of the individual sectors of the Chinese economy during its initial years under Communism. Included in their review are industry, agriculture, foreign trade, resource allocation, population, employment and living standards. A concluding chapter summarizes Chinese economic growth and presents a discussion of future policy alternatives and an optimum economic policy for China. Based on important findings of Western scholars with many original interpretations by the authors, this material is presented from a developmental point of view. Since it was originally published in 1972, sections of the book devoted to comparative studies of progress in India and the former Soviet regime will be of particular interest now. Free of technical language and providing insights into the economy of one of the most important countries in the world, this book will be useful not only to economists but to a broad range of sinologists, political scientists, sociologists and historians interested in the path of revolution. The Chinese Economy Solomon Adler, 2013-09-13 First published in 1957. This volume provides a broad survey of economic progress in China from 1949 to 1952 and covers the historical background, China's economic system, industrialisation and planning the first Five Year Plan in industry agriculture transport commerce and finance education and health and foreign trade The work is supplemented with an extensive bibliography maps and statistical tables Communist China: a Bibliographic Survey Army Library (U.S.),1971 Economic Development of Communist China Choh-Ming Li,2023-11-15

Economic Development of Communist China An Appraisal of the First Five Years of Industrialization analyzes the rapid economic transformation in China between 1952 and 1957 under the First Five Year Plan Drawing from Chinese language sources the study focuses on the development of heavy industries like steel with production rising from 1.35 million tons in 1952 to 5.24 million tons by 1957 Soviet aid played a pivotal role contributing to the construction of 156 industrial projects including those in mining energy and machinery The overarching goal was to establish a socialist society through industrialization with heavy industry being prioritized over consumer welfare The plan set ambitious targets including surpassing the United Kingdom in steel production by 1972 though it acknowledged the secondary importance of consumer goods While the industrial progress was notable the study critiques the uneven development particularly in agriculture Despite the rapid industrial growth agricultural investment remained disproportionately low compared to the focus on industrial sectors The government's approach to socialization including collectivization and price control faced challenges in its execution Although some sectors like industry and trade were effectively socialized by 1956 agriculture and other private sectors remained slower to fully transform The study highlights the complexities of the socialist transition questioning the sustainability of such rapid industrialization and its broader economic implications It underscores the critical role of state control Soviet assistance and planned economic strategies in shaping China's industrial trajectory This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1959 The Economic Development of the Third World Since 1900 Paul Bairoch,2013-11-05 First published in 1967 Professor Bairoch's Diagnostic de L'Evolution Economique du Tiers Monde has gone into four editions and has brought the author an international reputation This English translation is in effect another edition based on the latest French text but incorporating much which is not to be found there The statistical tables have been revised and expanded wherever possible to include figures up to the end of 1972 the bibliography has been specially adapted to include the literature on the subject in the English language and two new chapters have been written Chapter 8 on Urbanization and Chapter 9 on The labour force and employment It has been Professor Bairoch's aim in this book to examine the development of under developed countries including China during the present century and through the use of comparative statistics to formulate a diagnosis of their growth His analysis includes whenever relevant a comparison between the present economic progress of Third World countries and that of the developed countries at the time of their take off Special attention has also been given to China's unique path of development In the course of his research the author has elaborated several new series The production of these new series and their integration with existing data make this book a valuable quantitative economic history of the Third World The Economy of Mainland China, 1949-1963 Nai-Ruenn Chen (économiste.),1963 Nonagricultural Employment in Mainland China, 1949-1958 John Philip Emerson,1965 External Research List ,1958 External Research ,1964
