Nursing Education In A Changing Society:

Nursing Education in a Changing Society Mary Q. Innis, 1970-12-15 Rapid social change and the advances made in the field of health care have greatly changed the role and function of the nurse in the last fifty years Nursing is now almost a full fledged profession This book celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of the School of Nursing of the University of Toronto The field it covers is wide and varied from care of the sick by the nuns of early Quebec to the development of pre paid nursing plans from concepts of bedside nursing to delivery health services There are long looks into the future of nursing education and health care which include descriptions of health science centres diagnosis by computer and treatment centres in outer space The book sketches the history of this pioneer school of nursing surveys nursing legislation and examines the rise of the public health nurse and the nursing assistant Essays contributed by leading Canadian authorities show a wide range of opinion one writer wants to see the scope of nursing education enlarged another thinks it is too broad already At a time when nursing education is becoming an increasingly controversial subject this book will be of interest and value to all those in the health field

Higher Education in a Sustainable Society Hans Chr. Garmann Johnsen, Stina Torjesen, Richard Ennals, 2015-03-28 This book addresses the following question What is a sustainable society and how can higher education help us to develop toward it The core argument put forward is that the concept of sustainability reaches much farther than just the direct aspects of environmental threats and carbon emissions Using higher education as a point of departure the book shows that sustainability involves a broad range of disciplines from nursing and nutrition to technology and management It argues that a sustainable society entails a distinct perspective on society that influences our social thinking in terms of ethics democracy and knowledge development The book also discusses if and if so how higher education can and should contribute to such a development based on the principles of the freedom of science in a liberal democratic society The book presents Mutual Competence Building as a concept higher education can adapt in order to contribute to a sustainable Society

Curriculum Design in a Changing Society Richard W. Burns, Gary D. Brooks, 1970 A History of Higher Education in Canada 1663-1960 Robin S. Harris, 1976-12-15 This book traces the development of higher education in Canada through a detailed description and analysis of what was being taught and of the research opportunities available to professors in the years from 1860 to 1960 Background is provided in the opening chapters of Part I which outline the origins of post secondary education in both French and English Canada from 1635 to 1860 and in the parallel chapters of Parts II to V which describe the establishment of new and the growth of existing institutions during the period 1861 90 1891 1920 1921 40 and 1941 60 The remaining chapters of each of the book's main divisions present an examination of the curricula in arts and science professional education and graduate studies in 1860 1890 1920 1940 and 1960 as well as the conditions pertaining to scholarship and research in these years The concluding chapter identifies the characteristics which differentiate Canadian higher education from that of other countries The book includes a full bibliography an extensive index and statistical appendices providing data on enrolment and degrees granted A History of Higher Education in Canada 1663 1960 will be the definitive work in its field valuable both for the wealth of information and the historical insights it contains

Can Education Change Society? Michael W. Apple, 2013 Despite the vast differences between the Right and the Left over the role of education in the production of inequality one common element both sides share is a sense that education can and should do something about society to either restore what is being lost or radically alter what is there now The question was perhaps put most succinctly by the radical educator George Counts in 1932 when he asked Dare the School Build a New Social Order challenging entire generations of educators to participate in actually to lead the reconstruction of society Over 70 years later celebrated educator author and activist Michael Apple revisits Counts now iconic works compares them to the equally powerful voices of minoritized people and again asks the seemingly simply question of whether education truly has the power to change society In this groundbreaking work Apple pushes educators toward a more substantial understanding of what schools do and what we can do to challenge the relations of dominance and subordination in the larger society This touchstone volume is both provocative and honest about the ideological and economic conditions that groups in society are facing and is certain to become another classic in the canon of Apple's work and the literature on education more generally
