Domestic Ceramic Production and Spatial Organization Philip J. Arnold, Philip J. Arnold III, 2003-12-04 This ethnoarchaeological study looks at contemporary household scale ceramic production in several Mexican communities Many archaeologists have investigated ceramic production in the archaeological record but their identifying criteria are often vague and impressionistic Philip Arnold pinpoints some of the weaknesses of their interpretations and uses ethnographic research to suggest how archaeologists might consistently recognise ceramic manufacturing Evolution of Production Organization in a Maya Community Dean E. Arnold, 2014-08-15 In The Evolution of Production Organization in a Maya Community Dean E Arnold continues his unique approach to ceramic ethnoarchaeology tracing the history of potters in Ticul Yucatán and their production space over a period of more than four decades This follow up to his 2008 work Social Change and the Evolution of Ceramic Production and Distribution uses narrative to trace the changes in production personnel and their spatial organization through the changes in production organization in Ticul Although several kinds of production units developed households were the most persistent units of production in spite of massive social change and the reorientation of pottery production to the tourist market Entrepreneurial workshops government sponsored workshops and workshops attached to tourist hotels developed more recently but were short lived whereas pottery making households extended deep into the nineteenth century Through this continuity and change intermittent crafting multi crafting and potters increased management of economic risk also factored into the development of the production organization in Ticul Illustrated with more than 100 images of production units The Evolution of Production Organization in a Maya Community is an important contribution to the understanding of ceramic production Scholars with interests in craft specialization craft production and demography as well as specialists in Mesoamerican archaeology anthropology history and economy will find this volume especially useful Village Potters of the Troodos Mountains Gloria London, 2024-03-01 Village Potters of the Troodos Mountains Ceramic Production in Agios Demetrios Cyprus 1891-2002 by Gloria London is a study of four generations of female potters working in a remote Cypriot mountain village Their coil built jars jugs cookware beehives ovens and decorative pots are the subject of the author's ethnoarchaeological research including her quantitative data on pot sizes production rates firing times and rate of loss This data will serve archaeologists worldwide who are concerned with craft specialization and standardization learning frameworks markings on pots and identifying production locations The Pottery of Acatlan Louana M. Lackey, 1991 The Folk Art of Latin America Marion Oettinger (Jr.), 1992 The result of extensive fieldwork throughout Mexico Central and South America and Spanish and French speaking islands in the Caribbean this beautiful and informative book concentrates on folk art made by Latin Americans for Latin Americans it does not concern itself with folk art made for export The objects illustrated are not only aesthetically pleasing but have also been carefully selected because they play central roles in Latin American society and culture In this study Chapter 1 discusses the nature of folk art and explores the subject through time in Latin America with special attention paid to the composite character of contemporary folk art in Latin America Chapter 2 deals with contemporary folk artists and their conception of the contribution they make to local society and traditions Chapter 3 presents the rich variety of folk forms in Latin America today and considers them in four categories ceremonial utilitarian recreational and decorative Finally chapter 4 examines the ever changing nature of folk art and what such changes mean to the quickly evolving societies served by folk art BOOK
