A LITERARY RECORD
BY E. V. LUCAS

THE author calls this 'a literary record' and by strictly complying with that description eliminates complete autobiographical treatment. It is an account of what books a confirmed man-of-letters now in the sixth half read: what writers he first saw and knew; what his own writing beginnings were, and how he progressed from those to the present time. Many well-known men not seen again, not least, among those no longer living, Conrad, Arnold Bennett, and Maurice Hewlett. To-morrow's authors will be found here, and the book is probably unique in the number and variety of its illustrations, among them being many by Mr. George Morant at his most amusing.

in Postcolonial Literature and Culture Michael R. Griffiths, 2017-05-15 From the Truth and Reconciliation Commission in South Africa to the United Nations Permanent Memorial to the Victims of Slavery and the Transatlantic Slave Trade many worthwhile processes of public memory have been enacted on the national and international levels But how do these extant practices of memory function to precipitate justice and recompense Are there moments when such techniques performances and displays of memory serve to obscure and elide aspects of the history of colonial governmentality This collection addresses these and other questions in essays that take up the varied legacies continuities modes of memorialization and poetics of remaking that attend colonial governmentality in spaces as varied as the Maghreb and the Solomon Islands Highlighting the continued injustices arising from a process whose aftermath is far from settled the contributors examine works by twentieth century authors representing Asia Africa North America Latin America Australia and Europe Imperial practices throughout the world have fomented a veritable culture of memory The essays in this volume show how the legacy of colonialism s attempt to transform the mode of life of colonized peoples has been central to the largely unequal phenomenon of globalization The Reception of Northrop Frye , 2021-08-31 The widespread opinion is that Northrop Frye s influence reached its zenith in the 1960s and 1970s after which point he became obsolete his work buried in obscurity This almost universal opinion is summed up in Terry Eagleton s 1983 rhetorical question Who now reads Frye In The Reception of Northrop Frye Robert D Denham catalogues what has been written about Frye books articles translations dissertations and theses and reviews in order to demonstrate that the attention Frye s work has received from the beginning has progressed at a geomantic rate Denham also explores what we can discover once we have a fairly complete record of Frye s reception in front of us such as Hayden White s theory of emplotments applied to historical writing and Byron Alm n s theory of musical narrative The sheer quantity of what has been written about Frye reveals that the only valid response to Eagleton s rhetorical question is a very large and growing number the growth being not incremental but exponential

Literature and Mnemonic Migration Eneken Laanes, Jessica Ortner, Tea Sindbæk-Andersen, 2025-05-19 This book deals with mnemonic migration understood as the movement of memories across linguistic cultural and mnemonic borders via the medium of literature In contemporary literature there is a growing number of authors with migration experience some of whom write not in native tongue but in their second or third language and who represent their experience of migration as encounter of different historical memories When migrating to a new place people enter not only a new political and cultural structure but also a new framework of memory They need to adjust their historical imaginaries thereby also contesting and expanding the framework they enter The volume explores how contemporary literature addresses specific historical legacies juxtaposes them multidirectionally and disseminates them in original and through translation in different parts of the world and in various social contexts Furthermore this volume traces literature's role in the processes of memory circulation translation and reception from the interdisciplinary perspectives of cultural memory studies translation studies reception studies and the studies of migrant and multilingual literature

Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature: Volume 4, 1900-1950 George Watson, I. R. Willison, 1972-12-07 More than fifty specialists have contributed to this new edition of volume 4 of The Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature. The design of the original work has established itself so firmly as a workable solution to the immense problems of analysis, articulation and coordination that it has been retained in all its essentials for the new edition. The task of the new contributors has been to revise and integrate the lists of 1940 and 1957 to add materials of the following decade to correct and refine the bibliographical details already available and to re shape the whole according to a new series of conventions devised to give greater clarity and consistency to the entries.
