Modern Chinese Theologies Chloë Starr, 2023 Chinese Theologies introduces the vibrant development of Chinese theology in its many forms across the twentieth and twenty first centuries It also challenges prevalent narratives regarding the lack of Chinese theologies and engages questions of the construction of theology in their own traditions nations

Origins of Moral-political Philosophy in Early China Tao Jiang, 2021 This book rewrites the story of classical Chinese philosophy which has always been considered the single most creative and vibrant chapter in the history of Chinese philosophy Works attributed to Confucius Mozi Mencius Laozi Zhuangzi Xunzi Han Feizi and many others represent the very origins of moral and political thinking in China As testimony to their enduring stature in recent decades many Chinese intellectuals and even leading politicians have turned to those classics especially Confucian texts for alternative or complementary sources of moral authority and political legitimacy. Therefore philosophical inquiries into core normative values embedded in those classical texts are crucial to the ongoing scholarly discussion about China as China turns more culturally inward. It can also contribute to the spirited contemporary debate about the nature of philosophical reasoning especially in the non-Western traditions. This book offers a new narrative and interpretative framework about the origins of moral political philosophy that tracks how the three normative values—humaneness, justice, and personal freedom—were formulated, reformulated, and contested by early Chinese philosophers in their effort to negotiate the relationship among three distinct domains: the personal, the familial, and the political. Such efforts took place as those thinkers were reimagining a new moral political order, debating its guiding norms, and exploring possible sources within the context of an evolving understanding of Heaven and its relationship with the humans. Tao Jiang argues that the competing visions in that debate can be characterized as a contestation between partialist humaneness and impartialist justice as the guiding norm for the newly imagined moral political order. With the Confucians, the Mohists, the Laoists, and the so-called fajia thinkers being the major participants constituting the mainstream philosophical project during this period, thinkers lined up differently along the justice-humaneness spectrum, with earlier ones maintaining some continuity between the two normative values or at least trying to accommodate both to some extent, while later ones leaning more toward their exclusivity in the political public domain. Zhuangzi and the Zhuangists were the outliers of the mainstream moral political debate who rejected the very parameter of humaneness versus justice in that discourse. They were a lone voice advocating personal freedom, but the Zhuangist expressions of freedom were self-restricted to the margins of the political world and the interiority of one's heart/mind. Such a take can shed new light on how the Zhuangist approach to personal freedom would profoundly impact the development of this idea in pre-modern Chinese political and intellectual history.

Modern Chinese Grammar - a Clause-Pivot Approach Fuyi Xing, 2016-11-10. Modern Chinese Grammar provides a comprehensive coverage of Chinese grammar through the clause pivot theory and the double triangle approach first proposed by Fuyi Xing in 1996. Translated into English for the first time, the book is widely regarded by linguists as a seminal text and ground-breaking in linguistics research. The book contains discussion of the topics which are essential to Chinese grammar, from words and phrases to complex sentences and sentence groups. It addresses such controversial issues as word class identification, the distinction between words and phrases and between clauses and complex sentences. The book also shows, through a wealth of examples, how the clause pivot theory and the double triangle approach can be applied productively in grammatical studies. Modern Chinese Grammar: A Clause Pivot Theoretical Approach is an essential purchase for researchers and graduate students of Chinese grammar and syntax.

Modern Chinese Parts of Speech Guo Rui, 2019-03-04

What is the essence of a part of speech Why is it difficult to classify parts of speech What are the bases and criteria for classifying them How should they be classified In doing so how should a conversational word be dealt with How should nominalization be treated These are just some of the questions answered in this book The classification of parts of speech in Chinese is a tough job due to the language's lack of morphological differences Based on the analysis of nearly 40 000 Chinese characters this book proposes that essentially a part of speech is not of distributional type and that its intrinsic basis is an expressional function and the semantic type Essentially large categories such as substantive words predicate words and modification words are classes of words classified according to their expressional functions Basic categories such as nouns verbs and adjectives are classes that combine semantic types with syntactical functions In classifying parts of speech the book pays attention not to identifying a single distributive characteristic that is internally universal and externally exclusive but to clustering the grammatical functions that have the same classification value through the reflection representation relationship among distribution expressional function and semantic type distribution reflects expressional function and semantic type which are in turn represented as distribution thereby identifying the classification criteria It uses distributional compatibility and the correlation principle to analyze which distributional differences represent differences in parts of speech and which do not In this way grammatical functions that have equal classification values are collected into one equivalent function cluster each of which represents one part of speech The book uses four strategies to classify parts of speech namely the homogeneity strategy the homomorphical strategy the priority homomorphical strategy and the consolidation strategy It will be a valuable reference for Chinese linguistic researchers and students as well as Chinese learners

The Early Modern Travels of Manchu Mårten Söderblom Saarela, 2020-06-19 A linguistic and historical study of the Manchu script in the early modern world Manchu was a language first written down as part of the Qing state building project in Northeast Asia in the early seventeenth century After the Qing invasion of China in 1644 and for the next two and a half centuries Manchu was the language of state in one of the early modern world's great powers Its prominence and novelty attracted the interest of not only Chinese literati but also foreign scholars Yet scholars in Europe and Japan and occasionally even within China itself were compelled to study the language without access to a native speaker Jesuit missionaries in Beijing sent Chinese books on Manchu to Europe where scholars struggled to represent it in an alphabet compatible with Western pedagogy and printing technology In southern China meanwhile an isolated phonologist with access to Jesuit books relied on expositions of the Roman alphabet to make sense of the Manchu script When Chinese textbooks and dictionaries of Manchu eventually reached Japan scholars there used their knowledge of Dutch to understand Manchu In The Early Modern Travels of Manchu Mårten Söderblom Saarela focuses on outsiders both within and beyond the Qing empire who had little interaction with Manchu speakers but took an interest in the strange new language of a rising world power He shows how through observation inference and reference to received ideas on language and writing intellectuals in southern China Russia France Chosŏn Korea and Tokugawa Japan deciphered the Manchu script and explores the uses to which it was put for recording sounds and arranging words
