Readings in Organization Theory: Open-system Approaches John G. Maurer, 1971      Readings in Organization Theory: Open-system Approaches John G. Maurer, 1971      Open Standards and the Digital Age Andrew L. Russell, 2014-04-28 How did openness become a foundational value for the networks of the twenty first century Open Standards and the Digital Age answers this question through an interdisciplinary history of information networks that pays close attention to the politics of standardization For much of the twentieth century information networks such as the monopoly Bell System and the American military s Arpanet were closed systems subject to centralized control In the 1970s and 1980s however engineers in the United States and Europe experimented with design strategies to create new digital networks In the process they embraced discourses of openness to describe their ideological commitments to entrepreneurship technological innovation and participatory democracy The rhetoric of openness has flourished for example in movements for open government open source software and open access publishing but such rhetoric also obscures the ways the Internet and other open systems still depend heavily on hierarchical forms of control      Handbook for Professional Development in Human Services William L. Mermis, Joann Chenault, 1979      Professionals and Urban Form Judith R. Blau, Mark E. La Gory, John S. Pipkin, 1984-06-30 Professionals and Urban Form departs from the usual way of studying the city to examine the chief professions responsible for designing urban places planning and architecture Not often treated together they are here combined to highlight common problems and lines of convergence between the two The architects planners and social scientists who contributed to this book concern themselves with the interconnection between knowledge and practice in planning and architecture paying particular attention to the issues of whether design knowledge and theory can or should be distinct from social science knowledge and the effects of professionalization and institutionalization on the structuring of inquiry and theory The main sections of the book deal with the history of the design professions epistemological foundations professions and practice and controversies in practice Many issues of contemporary interest to planners are dealt with including the debates over normative advocacy and communicative planning Marxist perspectives supply and demand in the job market for architects and the overarching epistemological question of the relationship between social science research and design practice      Lawyers in Corporate Decision-Making Robert Eli Rosen, 2010-11-18 The recognized social policy study of the disparate roles corporate lawyers play in representing and advising their institutional clients Long passed around and cited by scholars and lawyers as an unpublished manuscript the book explores the choices lawyers and executives make about how they are involved in corporate decisions It is accessible to a wide audience and includes inside interviews      International Encyclopedia of Organization Studies Stewart Clegg, James R. Bailey, 2008 Describing the field spanning individual organisation societal and cultural perspectives in a cross disciplinary manner this is the premier reference tool for students lecturers academics and practitioners to gather knowledge about a range of important topics from the perspective of organisation studies      Communication Yearbook 30 Christina S. Beck, 2006-05-25 This is an annual review of current research in communication which provides readers with the latest research in the field of communication studies Topics covered include journalism and broadcasting practice and intercultural negotiation      Plantation Politics and Campus Rebellions Bianca C. Williams, Dian D. Squire, Frank A. Tuitt, 2021-03-01 Plantation Politics and Campus Rebellions provides a multidisciplinary exploration of the contemporary university's entanglement with the history of slavery and settler colonialism in the United States Inspired by more than a hundred student led protests during the Movement for Black Lives contributors examine how campus rebellions and university responses to them expose the racialized inequities at the core of higher education Plantation politics are embedded in the everyday workings of universities in not only the physical structures and spaces of academic institutions but in its recruitment and attainment strategies hiring practices curriculum and notions of sociality safety and community The book is comprised of three sections that highlight how white supremacy shapes campus communities and classrooms how current diversity and inclusion initiatives perpetuate inequality and how students staff and faculty practice resistance in the face of institutional and legislative repression Each chapter interrogates a connection between the academy and the plantation exploring how Black people and their labor are viewed as simultaneously essential and disruptive to university cultures and economies The volume is an indispensable read for students faculty student affairs professionals and administrators invested in learning more about how power operates within education and imagining emancipatory futures      Determinants of Level of Sustainability Report Clement Lamboi Arthur, PhD, 2018-01-26 This book examines the determinants of the level of sustainability reports of mining companies in Ghana in the absence of regulatory and statutory requirements It adopted the use of content analysis by probing the question of whether there is an effect of factors such as size growth rate profitability efficiency gearing ratio working capital ratio age and complexity of the mining companies on the level of disclosure in sustainability report The book also reviewed some of the traditional theories used in the accounting literature to examine sustainability reporting practices The book also provides insights into the various sustainability reporting initiatives      South African Business in China Kelly Meng, 2021-12-26 Sino African relations have evoked a great deal of geo strategic interest in recent years Most attention has focused on China's assistance to and growing involvement in the economic development of several African nations Far less emphasis has been placed on Africans in China and on African actors involvement in the Chinese economy despite the importance of both to genuinely bilateral economic relations This is one of the first studies to focus on South African foreign direct investment FDI in Mainland China The research aims to identify and specify the key institutional factors that have contributed to the effectiveness or otherwise of South African firms entering and operating within the Chinese market The research also investigates the characteristics and processes that have effectively shaped South African firms business strategies to negotiate the current Chinese institutional environment The study's primary empirical contribution is ten real life case studies drawn from a cross section of South African business actors who have sought to penetrate the Chinese market These case studies are interrogated conceptually by means of a three dimensional institutional model which explores the role of formal and informal business processes and practices in influencing business success and failure in the Sino South African context It will be of value to researchers academics policymakers Sino African business practitioners and advanced students in the fields of international business political economy strategy and Asian and African studies The Learning
