they teach their students in the classroom At the heart of this new movement there is a simple idea take a close look at how you teach and how your students learn use the same methodology that you would use for formal investigations be it in the humanities or sciences and hold your research to the same standards most notably peer review Optimizing Teaching and Learning will serve as a guide for anyone who is interested in improving their teaching the learning of their students and at the same time contribute to the scholarship of teaching and learning It bridges the gap between the research and practice of SoTL with explicit instructions on how to design conduct analyze and write up pedagogical research including samples of actual questionnaires and other materials e g focus group questions that will jumpstart investigations into teaching and learning It also explores the advantages and disadvantages of various pedagogical practices and present applications of SoTL using case studies from a variety of disciplines This book will serve as an invaluable resource for both seasoned faculty and new faculty who are just beginning to assess their teaching methods and learn how to think beyond the content

Authenticity in and Through Teaching in Higher Education Carolin Kreber, 2013 In developing the notion of the scholarship of teaching as an authentic practice the author draws on several complementary philosophical ideas to explore the nature of this practice why it is imperative for universities to engage in it what meaningful engagement would look like and the conditions under which it might qualify as authentic Core constructs employed include practice virtue communicative action being power critical reflection and transformation The scholarship of teaching is described as a practice sustained through critical reflection and critical self reflection Being a scholar of teaching is viewed as an ongoing transformative learning process a process of becoming authentic the latter ultimately aimed at both helping students to become authentic and creating a better world in which to teach learn and live Exploring More Signature Pedagogies Nancy L. Chick, Aeron Haynie, Regan A. R. Gurung, 2023-07-03 What is distinctive about the ways specific disciplines are traditionally taught and what kinds of learning do they promote Do they inspire the habits of the discipline itself or do they inadvertently contradict or ignore those disciplines By analyzing assumptions about often unexamined teaching practices their history and relevance in contemporary learning contexts this book offers teachers a fresh way to both think about their impact on students and explore more effective ways to engage students in authentic habits and practices This companion volume to Exploring Signature Pedagogies covers disciplines not addressed in the earlier volume and further expands the scope of inquiry by interrogating the teaching methods in interdisciplinary fields and a number of professions critically returning to Lee S Shulman's origins of the concept of signature pedagogies This volume also differs from the first by including authors from across the United States as well as Ireland and Australia The first section examines the signature pedagogies in the humanities and fine arts fields of philosophy foreign language instruction communication art and design and arts entrepreneurship The second section describes signature pedagogies in the social and natural sciences political science economics and chemistry Section three highlights the interdisciplinary fields of Ignatian pedagogy women's studies and disability studies and the book concludes with four chapters on professional pedagogies nursing occupational therapy social work and teacher education that illustrate how these pedagogies change as the social context changes as their knowledge base expands or as online delivery of instruction increases Pathways to the Profession of Educational Development Jeanette McDonald, Denise Stockley, 2010-07-13 The contributors to this volume are academics working directly or indirectly with teaching and learning centers and professional communities serving in the capacity of educational developer researcher or specialist unit manager or director or senior administrator Drawing on survey and interview data individual experience or perspective and familiarity with the educational literature they offer a context to understand and appreciate how the field of educational development developer practice and individual pathways have evolved further highlighting what territory remains to be explored and uncovered Over the last fifty years educational development has evolved from an informal set of instructional improvement activities championed by individuals to a scholarly field of study and practice that aims to advance teaching and learning at the individual institutional and more recently sector levels During this time educational development work has moved from the fringes to the mainstream of the higher education landscape bringing to the community a diverse group of dedicated academic professionals This volume draws on their experience and insight to provide an invaluable guide to future challenges and issues This is the 122nd volume of the Jossey Bass higher education quarterly report series New Directions for Teaching and Learning which offers a comprehensive range of ideas and techniques for improving college teaching based on the experience of seasoned instructors and the latest findings of educational and psychological researchers Changing Governance and Management in Higher Education William Locke, William K.
