Vikner, 2013-03-09 o COMPARATIVE GERMANIC SYNTAX This volume contains 13 papers that were prepared for the Seventh Workshop on Comparative Germanic Syntax at the University of Stuttgart in November 1991 In defining the theme both of the workshop and of this volume we have taken comparative in comparative Germanic syntax to mean that at least two languages should be analyzed and Germanic to mean that at least one of these languages should be Germanic There was no requirement as such that the research presented should be situated within the framework known as Principles and Parameters Theory previously known as Government and Binding Theory though it probably is no accident that this nevertheless turned out to be the case. Within this theory it is seen as highly desirable to be able to account for several differences on the surface by deriving them from fewer underlying differences. The reason is that in order to explain the ease with which children acquire language it is assumed that not all knowledge of any given language is the result of learning but that instead children already possess part of this knowledge at birth: the innate part of linguistic knowledge will obviously be the same for all human beings and thus this theory also provides an explanation of language universals. Theoretical Issues in Reading Comprehension Rand J. Spiro, Bertram C. Bruce, William F. Brewer, 2017-11-03

Research in cognitive psychology, linguistics and artificial intelligence: the three disciplines that have the most direct application to an understanding of the mental processes in reading is presented in this multilevel work originally published in 1980 that attempts to provide a systematic and scientific basis for understanding and building a comprehensive theory of reading comprehension. The major focus is on understanding the processes involved in the comprehension of written text. Underlying most of the contributions is the assumption that skilled reading comprehension requires a coordination of text with context in a way that goes far beyond simply chaining together the meanings of a string of decoded words. The topics discussed are divided into five general areas: Global Issues, Text Structure, Language Knowledge of the World and Inference, Effects of Prior Language Experience and Comprehension Strategies and Facilitators, and represent a broad base of methodology and data that should be of interest not only to those concerned with the reading process but also to basic science researchers in psychology, linguistics, artificial intelligence and related disciplines.
