Science and Enlightenment Nicholas Maxwell,2019-02-25 This book argues that two great problems of learning confront humanity learning about the nature of the universe and about ourselves and other living things as a part of it and learning how to become civilized The author proposes that with the creation of modern science in the 17th century the first problem was essentially solved But the second problem has still not been solved today and that combination of solving the first problem but failing to solve the second one puts us in a situation of unprecedented danger All our current global problems are the result The 18th century Enlightenment tried to solve the second great problem of achieving world enlightenment by learning from the solution to the first problem but in implementing this idea they made three serious blunders These ancient blunders are still built into academia today Correct the three blunders we have inherited from the Enlightenment and we would have what we sourgently need institutions of learning universities and schools rationally designed and devoted to helping us resolve our conflicts and global problems and thus make progress towards a good genuinely civilized world Science and Enlightenment Two Great Problems of Learning will interest a broad audience ranging from academics university students and teachers journalists politicians and general readers concerned about global problems and the fate of the world Becoming an African Diaspora in Australia F. Ndhlovu,2014-07-08 Becoming an African Diaspora in Australia extends debates on identities cultures and notions of race and racism into new directions as it analyses the forms of interactional identities of African migrants in Australia It de naturalises the commonplace assumptions and imaginations about the cultures and identities of African diaspora communities and probes the relevance and usefulness of identity markers such as country of origin nationality ethnicity ethnic heritage language and mother tongue Current cultural frames of identity representation have so far failed to capture the complexities of everyday lived experiences of transnational individuals and groups Therefore by drawing on fresh concepts and recent empirical evidence this book invites the reader to revisit and rethink the vocabularies that we use to look at identity categories such as race culture language ethnicity nationality and citizenship and introduces a new language nesting model of diaspora identity This book will be of great interest to all students of migration diaspora African and Australian studies

Auguste Comte and Positivism Gertrud Lenzer, 2017-09-08 Although Auguste Comte is conventionally acknowledged as one of the founders of sociology and as a key representative of positivism few new editions of his writings have been published in the English language in this century He has become virtually dissociated from the history of modern positivism and the most recent debates about it Gertrud Lenzer maintains that the work of Comte is for better or for worse essential to an understanding of the modern period of positivism This collection provides new access to the work of Comte and gives practitioners of various disciplines the possibility of reassessing concepts that were first introduced in Comte's writings Today much of the ordinary business of academic disciplines is conducted under the assumption that the realm of science is essentially separate from the realms of politics and science A close reading of Comte will reveal how deeply such current ideas and theories were originally embedded in a particular political context One of his central methodological principles was that the theory of society had to be removed from the arena of political practice precisely in order to control that practice by means of these same sciences It is in Comte's work that the reader will be able to observe how the forces of social and political reaction began to be powerfully organized to combat the critical forces in its own and later eras Auguste Comte and Positivism will be of importance to the work of philosophers sociologists political theorists and historians
