Sue Taft is a paddler as anyone who knows her from Geneva, Ohio, to Columbia, Maryland, and on rivers from the Yough in the East to the Missinaibi in Canada to the Middle Fork of the Salmon in the West can tell you. Introduced to paddling at eight years old, Sue has remained enamored with boats, paddles, and whitewater throughout her life. By her early twenties, Sue was an active member of Cleveland's Keel-Haulers Club and an avid whitewater veteran. Her interest in the sport has driven an infatuation and a passion for exploring and tracking the history of whitewater, culminating in the publication of The River Chasers. Although professionally a chemist, a scientist, an IT consultant, and a writer, Sue's real life is lived on water, in a boat, with a Backlund paddle in hand.

Strength of Stones Greg Bear,2014-04-01 Artificially intelligent cities rise up against humanity in this excellent novel It came on me as a surprise and it knocked me out Harlan Ellison In a theocratic world far into the future cities control their own movements and organization Constantly moving growing and decaying taking care of every need their inhabitants might think of the cities have decided that humans are no longer a necessary part of their architecture casting them out to wander in the wilderness and eke out a meager subsistence To the exiled humans the cities represent a paradisiacal Eden a reminder of all they cannot attain due to their sinful and unworthy natures But things are beginning to change People are no longer willing to allow the cities to keep them out choosing instead to force an entry and plunder at will The cities are starting to crumble and die because they have no purpose or reason to continue living without citizens One woman called mad by some and wise by others is the only human allowed to inhabit a city From her lonely and precarious position at the heart of one of the greatest cities ever she must decide the fate of the relationship between human society and the ancient strongholds of knowledge while making one last desperate attempt to save the living cities Extreme God Chasers Tommy Tenney,2000

God chasers often start young If there s a driving passion in your life for more of God chances are you know a teen who hungers in the same way This edition of the bestseller The God Chasers will inspire a whole new generation of believers to seek God with all their hearts It s in your face whether you are alternative conservative or extreme Free Innovation Eric Von Hippel,2024-04-30 A leading innovation scholar explains the growing phenomenon and impact of free innovation in which innovations developed by consumers and given away for free In this book Eric von Hippel author of the influential Democratizing Innovation integrates new theory and research findings into the framework of a free innovation paradigm Free innovation as he defines it involves innovations developed by consumers who are self rewarded for their efforts and who give their designs away for free It is an inherently simple grassroots innovation process unencumbered by compensated transactions and intellectual property rights Free innovation is already widespread in national economies and is steadily increasing in both scale and scope Today tens of millions of consumers are collectively spending tens of billions of dollars annually on innovation development However because free innovations are developed during consumers unpaid discretionary time and are given away rather than sold their collective impact and value have until very recently been hidden from view This has caused researchers governments and firms to focus too much on the Schumpeterian idea of innovation as a producer dominated activity Free innovation has both advantages and drawbacks Because free innovators are self rewarded by such factors as personal utility learning and fun they often pioneer new areas before producers see commercial potential At the same time because they give away their innovations free innovators generally have very little incentive to invest in diffusing what they create which reduces the social value of their efforts The best solution von Hippel and his colleagues argue is a division of labor between free innovators and producers enabling each to do what they do best The result will be both increased producer profits and increased social welfare a gain for all
