PREFACE One of the great social problems of our contemporary world is the large and growing population within prisons The hundreds of thousands of inmates a large percentage of them young men who committed offenses in their teen years create a financial and human burden that has reached staggering proportions In the state of California in the USA prison budgets now exceed the allotment for higher education Those of us who visit and teach in prisons appreciate the willingness of a Buddhist leader such as Ven Thich Nhat Tu to address this issue directly showing tenderness and compassion for a group that are so often treated with indifference He reminds us of how methods and policies affect the welfare of those who have violated concrete prohibitions of communities As a Buddhist teacher he approaches this group with reference to individual conduct and uses the counsel and advice based on precepts of his tradition In the teaching he has used gentle and sensitive instruction aimed at the development of qualities and capacities latent in the individual listeners abilities that can help them face their situation Thus his goal has been to assist the inmates by giving help that will assist them in mastering some of the difficulties that are involved in prison life providing them with new knowledge to use as a part of their mental life It is difficult to fully comprehend the impact of his presence when he visits the facilities For many inmates after a long period of being away from family and friends there are no visitors no letters and no attention from loving and caring people When Ven Thich Nhat Tu enters to talk with them and spend time teaching and listening he is seen as an individual but also in an iconic fashion as the very embodiment of morality and compassion His message gives solace there can be an Inner Freedom even in the face of a daily life that is restricted For many of the inmates the hardest task is to live with the guilt they feel over their actions actions that caused harm and sorrow to others It is at this basic level of experience that the teachings provide the necessary quality for remorse to give the power to receive hold and absorb understanding of reality and the possibility of inner transformation It is a message that can have application to all of us as we face the problems of our past and present life

On Cultural Freedom Jeffrey C. Goldfarb,1982 In this timely study Jeffrey C Goldfarb explores the nature and prospects of cultural freedom by examining the conditions that favor or threaten its development in the political East and West Goldfarb who examines conditions in the Soviet Union the United States and their respective European allies focuses most closely upon Poland and the United States He investigates a wide range of concrete cases including the Polish opposition movement and Solidarity the migration of artists the American television and magazine industries American philanthropy and communist cultural conveyor belts From these cases Goldfarb derives a definitive set of sociological conditions for cultural freedom critical creativity which resists systematic constraints continuity of cultural tradition and a relatively autonomous public realm for the reception of culture Cultural freedom Goldfarb shows is not a static state but a process of achievement Its parameters and content are determined by social practice in cultural institutions and by their relations with other components and the totality of social structure So defined cultural freedom is transformed from an ideological concept into one with real critical and analytical power Through it we can appreciate the invisible nature of constraint in the West and the unapparent but acting supports of cultural freedom existing in socialist countries Most importantly Goldfarb s conclusions provide a framework for understanding more clearly than before the circumstance of cultural freedom in both East and West so that citizens may utilize their full creative abilities as they address the problems of the present day

Freedom for Obedience Donald G. Bloesch,2002-04-15 The Christian ethic is an ethic that cannot be assimilated into the moral consensus of the wider community The way of the cross cannot be reconciled with the way of the world just as the gospel cannot be conjoined with the laws that gave stability to social order The thesis of this book is that human justice can never be a substitute for divine justification but it can be a sign and witness to the justifying grace of God in Jesus Christ Humanitarian works can never reach the heights of deeds of sacrificial love and mercy but they can point to this higher righteousness and awaken a thirst for it We must always be on guard against two perils the Scylla of legalism and rigorism and Charybdis of antinomianism An ethics of the divine commandment by uniting law and grace the imperative and the indicative shows how we can live the authentic Christian life in obedience to the highest which is not a law but a person not an ideal but the reality of the New Being the power of crucified love as we see this in Jesus Christ from Freedom for Obedience
