Moved by Love Mary D. Sheriff,2008-10-30 In eighteenth century France the ability to lose oneself in a character or scene marked both great artists and ideal spectators Yet it was thought this same passionate enthusiasm if taken to unreasonable extremes could also lead to sexual deviance mental illness even death Women and artists were seen as especially susceptible to these negative consequences of creative enthusiasm and women artists doubly so Mary D Sheriff uses these very different visions of enthusiasm to explore the complex interrelationships among creativity sexuality the body and the mind in eighteenth century France Drawing on evidence from the visual arts literature philosophy and medicine she portrays the deviance ascribed to both inspired men and women But while various mythologies worked to normalize deviance in male artists women had no justification for their deviance For instance the mythical sculptor Pygmalion was cured of an abnormal love for his statue through the making of art He became a model for creative artists living happily with his statue come to life No happy endings though were imagined for such inspired women writers as Sappho and Heloise who burned with erotomania their art could not quench Even so Sheriff demonstrates the perceived connections among sexuality creativity and disease also opened artistic opportunities for creative women took full advantage of them Brilliantly reassessing the links between sexuality and creativity artistic genius and madness passion and reason Moved by Love will profoundly reshape our view of eighteenth century French culture

The Cambridge History of Chinese Literature: From 1375 Kang-i Sun Chang, Stephen Owen, 2010. Stephen Owen is James Bryant Conant Professor of Chinese at Harvard University. Book Jacket The Georgia Review, 1989. Abandoned Women and Boudoir Resentment Qiulei Hu, 2023-05-25. This book studies the formation of the male constructed conventional voice of women in Chinese literature from the 3rd to 6th century. It highlights specific moments during which the feminine voice became recognized, accepted and stabilized, including the shift of focus from the performative to the textual in female representations, the formation of a male literary community, the popularity of romanticized historical narratives and the emerging sense of literary history. This study emphasizes the historicity of the feminine voice and strives to question and challenge established notions about textual stability, authorship, the literary canon and literary history.

One Who Knows Me Anna Shields, 2020-10-26. The friendships of writers of the mid Tang era (780s-820s) between literary giants like Bai Juyi and Yuan Zhen, Han Yu and Meng Jiao, Liu Zongyuan and Liu Yuxi became famous through the many texts they wrote to and about one another. What inspired mid Tang literati to write about their friendships with such zeal? And how did these writings influence Tang literary culture more broadly? In One Who Knows Me, the first book to delve into friendship in medieval China, Anna M. Shields explores the literature of the mid Tang to reveal the complex value its writers discovered in friendship as a rewarding social practice, a rich literary topic, a way to negotiate literati identity and a path toward self-understanding. Shields traces the evolution of the performance of friendship through a wide range of genres, including letters, prefaces, exchange poetry and funerary texts, and interweaves elegant translations with close readings of these texts. For mid Tang literati, writing about friendship became a powerful way to write about oneself and to reflect upon a shared culture. Their texts reveal the ways that friendship intersected the public and private realms of experience and, in the process, reshaped both.

Articulated Ladies Paul Rouzer, 2020-10-26. This volume analyzes the representation of gender and desire in elite male authored literary texts in China dating from roughly 200 B C until 1000 A D Above all it discusses the intimate relationship between the representation of gender and the political and social self representations of elite men and shows where gender and social hierarchies cross paths Paul Rouzer argues that when male authors articulated themselves as women the resulting articulation was inevitably influenced by this act of identification Articulated women are always located within a non existent liminal space between ostensible object and ostensible subject a focus of textual desire both through possession and through identification Nor in male authored texts is this articulation ever fully resolved the potential of multiple interpretations is continually present

Poetry's Touch William Waters, 2018-05-31 To whom does a poem speak Do poems really communicate with those they address Is reading poems like overhearing Like intimate conversation Like performing a script William Waters pursues these questions by closely reading a selection of poems that say you to a human being to the reader to the beloved or to the dead In any account of reading lyric poetry Waters argues there will be places where the participant roles of speaker intended hearer and bystander melt together or away these are moments of wonder Looking both at poetry s you and at how readers encounter it Waters asserts that poetic address shows literature pressing for a close relation with those into whose hands it may fall What is at stake for us as readers and critics is our ability to acknowledge the claims made on us by the works of art with which we engage In second person poems in a poem s touch we may come to see why poetry matters to us and how we in turn come to feel answerable to it Poetry s Touch takes as a central thread the poetry of Rainer Maria Rilke a writer whose work is unusually self conscious about poetic address The book also draws examples from a gamut of European and American poems ranging from archaic Greek inscriptions to Keats Dickinson and Ashbery
