Fiction and Imagination in Early Cinema Mario Slugan, 2019-11-28 Shortlisted for the BAFTSS Best Monograph Award 2021 When watching the latest instalment of Batman it is perfectly normal to say that we see Batman fighting Bane or that we see Bruce Wayne making love to Miranda Tate We would not say that we see Christian Bale dressed up as Batman going through the motions of punching Tom Hardy dressed up as Bane Nor do we say that we see Christian Bale pretending to be Bruce Wayne making love with Marion Cotillard who is playacting the role Miranda Tate But if we look at the history of cinema and consider contemporary reviews from the early days of the medium we see that people thought precisely in this way about early film They spoke of film as no more than documentary recordings of actors performing on set In an innovative combination of philosophical aesthetics and new cinema history Mario Slugan investigates how our default imaginative engagement with film changed over the first two decades of cinema It addresses not only the importance of imagination for the understanding of early cinema but also contributes to our understanding of what it means for a representational medium to produce fictions Specifically Slugan argues that cinema provides a better model for understanding fiction than literature

The South African Short Story in English, 1920-2010 Marta Fossati, 2024-09-05 Through detailed close readings alongside investigations into the history of print culture Marta Fossati traces the development of the South African short story in English from the late 1920s to the first decade of the twenty first century She examines a selection of short stories by important Black South African writers Rolfes and Herbert Dhlomo Peter Abrahams Can Themba Alex La Guma Mtutuzeli Matshoba Ahmed Essop and Zo Wicomb with an alertness to the dialogue between ethics and aesthetics performed by these texts This new history of Black short fiction problematises and interrogates the often polarised readings of Black literature in South Africa that can be torn between notions of literariness protest and journalism Due to material constraints short fiction in South Africa circulated first and foremost through local print media which Fossati analyses in detail to show the cross fertilisation between journalism and the short story While rooted in the South African context the short stories considered also hold a translocal dimension allowing us to explore the ethical and aesthetic practice of intertextuality These are writings that complicate the aesthetics ethics binary generic classifications and the categories of the literary and the political Theoretically eclectic in its approach although largely underpinned by a narratological analysis The South African Short Story in English 1920-2010: When Aesthetics Meets Ethics offers a fresh perspective on the South African short story in English spotlighting several hitherto marginalised figures in South African literary studies

Reciprocities in the Nonfiction Novel John Russell, 2000 Nonfiction novels have usually been associated with the new journalism writers of the 1960s such as Tom Wolfe, Norman Mailer and Truman Capote. Yet this form has long commanded a key position in the literary canon as John Russell now reveals. Russell identifies eleven major works not usually thought of as nonfiction novels such as Isak Dinesen's Out of Africa and E. E. Cummings's The Enormous Room to create a new definition of the genre. He shows that journalistic writing is characterized by a reporter's proprietary stance which undermines reciprocity with subjects while true nonfiction novels feature greater reciprocity and also employ such techniques as circular narrative and bricolage. Reciprocities in the Nonfiction Novel contributes to ongoing explorations of literary forms and offers wise commentary on how writing about real life can become art
