Reading The Past Literature And History:

Reading the Past Tamsin Spargo, 2000 Reading History in Children's Books Catherine Butler, Hallie O'Donovan, 2012-07-17 This book offers a critical account of historical books about Britain written for children including realist novels non fiction fantasy and alternative histories It also investigates the literary ideological and philosophical challenges involved in writing about the past especially for an audience whose knowledge of history is often limited The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science and Art ,1866 The Cambridge History of English Literature ,1932
The Cambridge History of English Literature Volume Xv Alfred Rayney, Waller, Adolphus William, Ward, 1953

Literature, History, Choice Hillel Weiss, 2013-11-01 Starting with a discussion on the elements of the genre of alternative counterfactual history and on its place between the poles of historical determinism and relativism this book develops a literary theory of the historical alternativeness principle and applies it to the reading of The City with All That is Therein Ir u mloa one of the most important and less studied books of the greatest Israeli writer Nobel Prize winner S Y Agnon 1887 1970 The investigation reveals that this principle is by no means inherent solely in modernism and postmodernism but lies at the very basis of the reading process particularly at the levels of plot and character origination and historical and historiographical conceptions that underlie the author s imagination The book is intended for all who are interested in modern literature and theory The Scots Magazine, Or, General Repository of Literature, History, and Politics ,1800 Edinburgh History of Reading Rose Jonathan Rose, 2020-07-09 Reveals the experience of reading in many cultures and across the ages Covers pornography and the origins of the transgender movement Explores everyday reading in Nazi Germany Analyses prison reading Examines reading in revolutionary societies and occupied nations Subversive Readers explores the strategies used by readers to question authority challenge convention resist oppression assert their independence and imagine a better world This kind of insurgent reading may be found everywhere in revolutionary France and Nazi Germany in Eastern Europe under Communism and in Australian and Iranian prisons among eighteenth century women reading history and nineteenth century men reading erotica among postcolonial Africans the blind and pioneering transgender activists The Making of the English Literary Canon Trevor Thornton Ross, 1998 It is widely accepted among literary scholars that canon formation began in the eighteenth century when scholarly editions and critical treatments of older works designed to educate readers about the national literary heritage appeared for the first time In The Making of the English Literary Canon Trevor Ross challenges this assumption arguing that canon formation was going on well before the eighteenth century but was based on a very different set of literary and cultural values Covering a period that extends from the Middle Ages to the institutionalisation of literature in the eighteenth century Ross s comprehensive history traces the evolution of cultural attitudes toward literature in English society highlighting the diverse interests and assumptions that defined and shaped the literary canon An indigenous canon of letters Ross argues had been both the hope and aim of English

authors since the Middle Ages Early authors believed that promoting the idea of a national literature would help publicise their work and favour literary production in the vernacular Ross places these early gestures toward canon making in the context of the highly rhetorical habits of thought that dominated medieval and Renaissance culture habits that were gradually displaced by an emergent rationalist understanding of literary value He shows that beginning in the late seventeenth century canon makers became less concerned with how English literature was produced than with how it was read and received By showing that canon formation has served different functions in the past The Making of the English Literary Canon is relevant not only to current debates over the canon but also as an important corrective to prevailing views of early modern English literature and of how it was first evaluated promoted and preserved It is widely accepted among literary scholars that canon formation began in the eighteenth century when scholarly editions and critical treatments of older works designed to educate readers about the national literary heritage appeared for the first time In The Making of the English Literary Canon Trevor Ross challenges this assumption arguing that canon formation was going on well before the eighteenth century but was based on a very different set of literary and cultural values Covering a period that extends from the Middle Ages to the institutionalisation of literature in the eighteenth century Ross's comprehensive history traces the evolution of cultural attitudes toward literature in English society highlighting the diverse interests and assumptions that defined and shaped the literary canon An indigenous canon of letters Ross argues had been both the hope and aim of English authors since the Middle Ages Early authors believed that promoting the idea of a national literature would help publicise their work and favour literary production in the vernacular Ross places these early gestures toward canon making in the context of the highly rhetorical habits of thought that dominated medieval and Renaissance culture habits that were gradually displaced by an emergent rationalist understanding of literary value He shows that beginning in the late seventeenth century canon makers became less concerned with how English literature was produced than with how it was read and received By showing that canon formation has served different functions in the past The Making of the English Literary Canon is relevant not only to current debates over the canon but also as an important corrective to prevailing views of early modern English literature and of how it was first evaluated promoted and preserved

Priests of History Sarah Irving-Stonebraker, 2024-09-24 How can Christians engage meaningfully with history In an age underpinned by the idea that life is about self invention and fulfilment contemporary Western culture holds that the past has little to teach us We live in what this book terms the Ahistoric Age in which we are profoundly disconnected from history In the attempt to appear relevant the church often embraces this ahistoric worldview by jettisoning the historic ideas and practices of Christian formation But this has unintended consequences leaving Christians unmoored from history and losing the ability to grapple with its ethical complexities In Priests of History Sarah Irving Stonebraker draws upon her expertise and her experience as an atheist who has become a Christian to examine what history is and why it matters If Christians can learn how to be priests of history tending and keeping our past history can help us strengthen and revive our spiritual and intellectual formation and equip us to communicate the gospel in a confused and rootless world
