Robert Frost, a Backward Look Louis Untermeyer, 1964 Lost and Found in Translation Martha J. Cutter, 2006-05-18 Starting with Salman Rushdie's assertion that even though something is always lost in translation something can always be gained Martha Cutter examines the trope of translation in twenty English language novels and autobiographies by contemporary ethnic American writers She argues that these works advocate a politics of language diversity a literary and social agenda that validates the multiplicity of ethnic cultures and tongues in the United States Cutter studies works by Asian American Native American African American and Mexican American authors She argues that translation between cultures languages and dialects creates a new language that in its diversity constitutes the true heritage of the United States Through the metaphor of translation Cutter demonstrates writers such as Maxine Hong Kingston Sherman Alexie Toni Morrison and Richard Rodriguez establish a place within American society for the many languages spoken by multiethnic and multicultural individuals Cutter concludes with an analysis of contemporary debates over language policy such as English only legislation the recognition of Ebonics and the growing acceptance of bilingualism The focus on translation by so many multiethnic writers she contends offers hope in our postmodern culture for a new condition in which creatively fused languages renovate the communications of the dominant society and create new kinds of identity for multicultural individuals Translating the Perception of Text Clive Scott, 2017-07-05 Translation often proceeds as if languages already existed as if the task of the translator were to make an appropriate selection from available resources Clive Scott challenges this tacit assumption If the translator is to do justice to himself herself as a reader if the translator is to become the creative writer of his/her reading then the language of translation must be equal to the translator's perceptual experience of and bodily responses to source texts Each renewal of perceptual and physiological contact with a text involves a renewal of the ways we think language and use our expressive faculties listening speaking writing Phenomenology and particularly the phenomenology of Merleau-Ponty underpins this new approach to translation The task of the translator is tirelessly to develop new translational languages ever to move beyond the bilingual into the multilingual and always to remember that language is as much an active instrument of perception as an object of perception Clive Scott is Professor Emeritus of European Literature at the University of East Anglia and a Fellow of the British Academy A Companion to Catullus Marilyn B. Skinner, 2010-12-23 In this companion international scholars provide a comprehensive overview that reflects the most recent trends in Catullan studies Explores the work of Catullus one of the best Roman lyric poets Provides discussions about production genre style and reception as well as interpretive essays on key poems and groups of poems

Grounds Catullus in the socio historical world around him Chapters challenge received wisdom present original readings and suggest new interpretations of biographical evidence The Sense of Reality Isaiah Berlin, 2019-02-05 First published by Chatto Windus 1996 Reading Poetry Tom Furniss, Michael Bath, 2022-04-06 Reading Poetry offers a comprehensive and accessible guide to the art of reading poetry Discussing more than 200 poems by more than 100 writers ranging from ancient Greece and China to the twenty first century the book introduces readers to the skills and the critical and theoretical awareness that enable them to read poetry with enjoyment and insight This third edition has been significantly updated in response to current developments in poetry and poetic criticism and includes many new examples and exercises new chapters on world poetry and eco poetry and a greater emphasis throughout on American poetry including the impact traditional Chinese poetry has had on modern American poetry The seventeen carefully staged chapters constitute a complete apprenticeship in reading poetry leading readers from specific features of form and figurative language to larger concerns with genre intertextuality Caribbean poetry world poetry and the role poetry can play in response to the ecological crisis The workshop exercises at the end of each chapter together with an extensive glossary of poetic and critical terms and the number and range of poems analysed and discussed 122 of which are quoted in full make Reading Poetry suitable for individual study or as a comprehensive self contained textbook for university and college classes Milton Across Borders and Media Islam Issa, Angelica Duran, 2024-02-27 This edited volume explores the combination of cultural phenomena that have established and canonized the work of John Milton in a global context from interlingual translations to representations of Milton's work in verbal media painting stained glass dance opera and symphony What Is World Literature? David Damrosch, 2018-06-05 World literature was long defined in North America as an established canon of European masterpieces but an emerging global perspective has challenged both this European focus and the very category of the masterpiece The first book to look broadly at the contemporary scope and purposes of world literature What Is World Literature probes the uses and abuses of world literature in a rapidly changing world In case studies ranging from the Sumerians to the Aztecs and from medieval mysticism to postmodern metafiction David Damrosch looks at the ways works change as they move from national to global contexts Presenting world literature not as a canon of texts but as a mode of circulation and of reading Damrosch argues that world literature is work that gains in translation When it is effectively presented a work of world literature moves into an elliptical space created between the source and receiving cultures shaped by both but circumscribed by neither alone Established classics and new discoveries alike participate in this mode of circulation but they can be seriously mishandled in the process From the rediscovered Epic of Gilgamesh in the nineteenth century to Rigoberta Menchú's writing today foreign works have often been distorted by the immediate needs of their own editors and translators Eloquently written argued largely by example and replete with insightful close readings this book is both an essay in definition and a series of cautionary tales Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications United States. Superintendent of Documents, 1964 Thinking about Science Ferric C. debate on the language of poetry and on questions of method and approach in comparative literature No Medium Craig Dworkin, 2015-01-30 Close readings of ostensibly blank works from unprinted pages to silent music that point to a new understanding of media In No Medium Craig Dworkin looks at works that are blank erased clear or silent writing critically and substantively about works for which there would seem to be not only nothing to see but nothing to say Examined closely these ostensibly contentless works of art literature and music point to a new understanding of media and the limits of the artistic object Dworkin considers works predicated on blank sheets of paper from a fictional collection of poems in Jean Cocteau's Orphée to the actual publication of a ream of typing paper as a book of poetry he compares Robert Rauschenberg's Erased De Kooning Drawing to the artist Nick Thurston's erased copy of Maurice Blanchot's The Space of Literature in which only Thurston's marginalia were visible and he scrutinizes the sexual politics of photographic representation and the implications of obscured or obliterated subjects of photographs Reexamining the famous case of John Cage's 4'33" Dworkin links Cage's composition to Rauschenberg's White Paintings Ken Friedman's Zen for Record and Nam June Paik's Zen for Film and other works offering also a guide to further listening that surveys more than 100 scores and recordings of silent music Dworkin argues that we should understand media not as blank base things but as social events and that there is no medium understood in isolation but only and always a plurality of media interpretive activities taking place in socially inscribed space Huck Finn in Italian, Pinocchio in English Iain Halliday, 2009 This book represents an investigation into one of the basic issues in the study of translation how do we reconcile theory and practice The main focus in the form of close readings and think aloud protocols in Chapters 2 and 3 is on translations of two classic texts Mark Twain's The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn and Carlo Collodi's Le avventure di Pinocchio The first and last chapters respectively seek to show what translation theory is and what translation practice is Indeed Chapter 1 Theory and Hubris provides a synthesis of the development of the interdiscipline of Translation Studies with some consideration also given to the hermeneutical questions that inevitably arise when dealing with the interpretation of language
