This volume brings together articles based on experimental and theoretical research from teachers working in diverse teaching backgrounds with varying experience from research scholars to school teachers from college and university teachers in India to a British native teaching in China. The contributions here provide a mix of global and local teaching scenarios addressing the need for diagnostic tests, developing need-based material using the mother tongue to ensure active participation of the masses and re-examining the language policies in Asian countries. The papers collected here also explore the implementation of Task-based Language Teaching, the integration of technology in developing language skills and the use of games and activities to engage the interest of low-level learners while teaching both literature and language, further linking them with their culture and society. The book offers a reflection of the changes that have taken place in the teaching environment in the last two decades with the introduction of Communicative Language Teaching and as such will be of immense help for policy framers and educators in South Asian countries and in countries where English is a second or foreign language. Furthermore, the volume offers valuable information for researchers working in the field of English Language Teaching (ELT) which can be used for reviewing literature and exploring the directions in which the new teaching methods and approaches are leading and establishing the validity of research. Children and Parents Enjoying Reading

Peter Branston, Mark Provis, 2025-08-05. With the introduction of the Literacy Hour in 1998, the case for harnessing parental involvement in promoting children's literacy was stronger than ever. Originally published in 1999, this book offered a detailed and practical approach based on three key concepts: keeping the child in the driving seat, continuing support from the school to the parents, and daily reading at home. It is presented in an accessible manner and offers practical advice to teachers in running and evaluating a scheme. It also gives parents a chance to think about the nature of their involvement at word, sentence, and text levels, introducing them to the framework of the National Literacy Strategy. Good reading skills are essential for access to the wider curriculum, yet above all, reading is fun. This book helped teachers, parents, and children to work together to make reading at home more enjoyable. It was also to help ensure that children achieved the standards of literacy expected for their age by 2002. Today it can still be used to help children learn to read. Becoming a Teacher of Reading

Margaret Perkins, 2015-03-10. Learning to read is one of the most important life skills teachers can help a child develop. Teaching reading is a vital part of a career in the classroom, and engaging with the range of different learning styles children have is a real challenge. Trainee teachers need to learn how to address this variety of learning needs and also meet the wider demands of the curriculum. Margaret Perkins helps students meet these challenges to become a confident, reflective teacher of reading by providing an in-depth explanation of phonics teaching alongside other teaching approaches, empowering trainees to choose the right approach for each individual child. Key research findings so students can apply the latest thinking to their teaching practice. School-based activities and independent learning tasks to help apply theory to practice and develop teaching skills through self-reflection. Classroom scenarios of teacher-child interactions that
