Making Aids For Disabled Living:

Programs for the Handicapped ,1981 Journal of Rehabilitation Research and Development ,1983 The Health and Social Needs of Young Adults with Physical Disabilities Andrew Thomas,Martin Bax,Diane Smyth,1989 This book addresses a topic that has received surprisingly little attention to date the health and social needs of young adults with physical disabilities Following an extensive review of the contemporary literature on the subject the authors report an in depth study on a large sample of physically disabled 18 to 25 year olds living in two survey areas one urban and one semirural The study which included pediatric examinations and interviews by a social psychologist found that a large proportion of subjects face social and medical problems for instance They have serious health needs that are not being met by the statutory services they left school with less than adequate skills to enable them to lead an independent adult life they are without a daytime occupation or attend day centers that are described as unstimulating places they do not receive all the financial benefits to which they are entitled they are isolated from their peers and lack the social skills to interact with others in a positive and successful way Parents and guardians were also found to receive little physical or emotional support These findings underline the need for a better system of providing and coordinating services for this client group and the authors call for the formation within each local health authority area of an Adult Disability Service that would have a clinical and planning role in terms of health care and that would act as a linchpin in the coordination of health educational social and voluntary services Although this work relates specifically to service provision in the United Kingdom it is felt that the conclusions and recommendations are also broadly applicable to the situation in other countries The Difference that Disability Makes Rod Michalko,2002 Rod Michalko launches into this book asking why disabled people are still feared still regarded as useless or unfit to live not yet welcome in society Michalko challenges us to come to grips with the social meanings attached to disability and the body that is not normal Michalko s analysis draws from his own understanding of blindness and narratives by other disabled people Connecting lived experience with social theory he shows the consistent exclusion of disabled people from the common understandings of humanity and what constitutes the good life He offers new insight into what suffering a disability means to individuals as well as to the polity as a whole He shows how disability can teach society about itself about its determination of what is normal and who belongs Guiding us to a new understanding of how disability difference and suffering are related this book enables us to choose disability as a social identity and a collective political issue The difference that disability makes can be valuable and worthwhile but only if we choose to make it so Author note Rod Michalko is Associate Professor of Sociology at St Francis Xavier University He is the author of The Mystery of the Eye and the Shadow of Blindness 1998 and The Two in One Walking with Smokie Walking with Blindness Temple 1999 Disability Studies and the Inclusive Classroom Susan Baglieri,2012-05-04 This book s mission is to integrate knowledge and practice from the fields of disability studies and special education Parts I II focus on the broad foundational fail to take sufficient account of the impact of social practical and environmental factors such as housing and access to public transport on disabled people's ability to participate in society and the additional costs they therefore incur The Committee believes that the Government should listen to the views of disabled people and their representative organisations and conduct a further trial before the criteria are adopted and the new assessment is introduced Once the initial assessments for PIP have been completed in the first geographical area the Government should look again at the value of face to face assessments for PIP claims where claimants conditions are severe and unlikely to change It is also important that DWP gets the contracting process with the private suppliers right

Assessing Physically Disabled People At Home Kathleen Maczka, 2013-12-20 In the current era of cost awareness and the pressure to free hospital beds as rapidly as possible coupled with the move towards community care there is increasing emphasis on returning and main taining disabled people in the community Often many health and welfare workers are involved in this process Occupational therapists however have a particular role to play Their training is such that they are able to assess and treat the physical psychological and social aspects of a disabling condition This enables them to help disabled people to achieve their maximum ability in the environment in which they live Whether the occupational therapist is hospital or community based employed by the health or social service depart ment her caseload is often vast The occupational therapist may specialize in a particular age group or disability but it is more likely that she will have to work with a wide age range from the very young to the very old Assessment of needs and the subsequent provision of equipment and adaptations is the greater part of the OT's job Other aspects include counselling the disabled person and his family and planning future intervention must often however reluctantly be given a low priority In spite of staff shortages occupa tional therapists are frequently called on to provide the client and other groups of workers with advice and information on all aspects of living with any disability
