Making Hate A Crime From Social Movement To Law Enforcement:

Making Hate A Crime Valerie Jenness, Ryken Grattet, 2004-04-22 Violence motivated by racism anti-Semitism misogyny and homophobia weaves a tragic pattern throughout American history Fueled by recent high profile cases hate crimes have achieved an unprecedented visibility Only in the past twenty years however has this kind of violence itself as old as humankind been specifically categorized and labeled as hate crime Making Hate a Crime is the first book to trace the emergence and development of hate crime as a concept illustrating how it has become institutionalized as a social fact and analyzing its policy implications In Making Hate a Crime Valerie Jenness and Ryken Grattet show how the concept of hate crime emerged and evolved over time as it traversed the arenas of American politics legislatures courts and law enforcement In the process violence against people of color immigrants Jews gays and lesbians women and persons with disabilities has come to be understood as hate crime while violence against other vulnerable victims octogenarians union members the elderly and police officers for example has not The authors reveal the crucial role social movements played in the early formulation of hate crime policy as well as the way state and federal politicians defined the content of hate crime statutes how judges determined the constitutional validity of those statutes and how law enforcement has begun to distinguish between hate crime and other crime Hate crime took on different meanings as it moved from social movement concept to law enforcement practice As a result it not only acquired a deeper jurisprudential foundation but its scope of application has been restricted in some ways and broadened in others Making Hate a Crime reveals how our current understanding of hate crime is a mix of political and legal interpretations at work in the American policymaking process Jenness and Grattet provide an insightful examination of the birth of a new category in criminal justice hate crime Their findings have implications for emerging social problems such as school violence television induced violence elder abuse as well as older ones like drunk driving stalking and sexual harassment Making Hate a Crime presents a fresh perspective on how social problems and the policies devised in response develop over time A Volume in the American Sociological Association's Rose Series in Sociology

Social Movements and the Transformation of American Health Care Jane C. Banaszak-Holl, Sandra R. Levitsky, Mayer N. Zald, 2010-06-24 Few contemporary social problems in the U S affect more people daily than those within the American health care system Social Movements and the Transformation of American Health Care is the first collection of essays to examine dynamics of change in health care institutions through the lens of contemporary theory and research on collective action Gathering scholars from medicine health policy history sociology and political science the book considers health related social movements from four distinct levels concentrating on movements seeking changes in the regulation financing and distribution of health resources changes in institutions in public health bio ethics and other fields interactions between social movements and professions and the cultural dominance of the medical model and the difficulties for framing and legitimizing new issues in health care it poses At a time when American health care is long overdue for major changes this book takes an essential look at movements policies and institutions to identify the common constraints and opportunities for reform within the health care system

From Slave Abuse to Hate Crime Ely Aaronson, 2014-10-06 This book explores the complex ways in which political debates and legal reforms regarding the criminalization of racial violence have shaped the development of American racial history Spanning previous campaigns for criminalizing slave abuse lynching and Klan violence and contemporary debates about the legal response to hate crimes this book reveals both continuity and change in terms of the political forces underpinning the enactment of new laws regarding racial violence in different periods and of the social and institutional problems that hinder the effective enforcement of these laws A thought provoking analysis of how criminal law reflects and constructs social norms this book offers a new historical and theoretical perspective for analyzing the limits of current attempts to use criminal legislation as a weapon against racism

Policing Hate Crime Gail Mason, Jane Maree Maher, Jude McCulloch, Sharon Pickering, Rebecca Wickes, Carolyn McKay, 2017-03-16 In a contemporary setting of increasing social division and marginalisation Policing Hate Crime interrogates the complexities of prejudice motivated crime and effective policing practices Hate crime has become a barometer for contemporary police relations with vulnerable and marginalised communities But how do police effectively lead conversations with such communities about problems arising from prejudice Contemporary police are expected to be active agents in the pursuit of social justice and human rights by stamping out prejudice and group based animosity At the same time police have been criticised in over policing targeted communities as potential perpetrators as well as under policing these same communities as victims of crime Despite this history the demand for impartial law enforcement requires police to change their engagement with targeted communities and kindle trust as priorities in strengthening their response to hate crime Drawing upon a research partnership between police and academics this book entwines current law enforcement responses with key debates on the meaning of hate crime to explore the potential for misunderstandings of hate crime between police and communities and illuminates ways to overcome communication difficulties This book will be important reading for students taking courses in hate crime as well as victimology policing and crime and community

Thinking About Social Problems Donileen Loseke, 2017-07-05 The new second edition of this distinctive and widely adopted textbook brings into the classroom an overview of how images of social problems can shape not only public policy and social services but also the ways in which we make sense of ourselves and others It introduces two primary changes First some attention is devoted to the new social movements that emphasize social change through identity transformation rather than through structural change Second the text now also looks more closely at the importance of emotions in constructing public consciousness of social problems When the first edition was published Teaching Sociology noted Loseke does a superb job explaining the relationship between sociology and social problems in a text that is very well researched and engaging yet with tremendous attention to detail and accuracy Would provide a solid base for any social problems class Contemporary Sociology wrote that the book is engagingly well written in a personal unpretentious style and well informed by the author's knowledge of the professional literature

Queer Histories and the Politics of Policing Emma K. Russell, 2019-08-13 Despite ongoing challenges to the criminalisation and surveillance of queer lives police leaders are now promoted as allies and defenders of LGBT rights However in this book Emma K Russell argues that the surface inclusion of select LGBT identities in the protective aspirations of the law is deeply tenuous and conditional and that police recognition is both premised upon and reproductive of an imaginary of good queer citizens those who are respectable responsible and just like their heterosexual counterparts Based on original empirical research Russell presents a detailed analysis of the political complexities compromises and investments that underpin LGBT efforts to achieve sexual rights and protections With a historical trajectory that spans the so called decriminalisation era to the present day she shows how LGBT activists have both resisted and embraced police incursions into queer space and how with LGBT support police leaders have re-crafted histories of violence as stories of institutional progress Queer Histories and the Politics of Policing advances broader understandings of the nature of police power and the shifting terrain of sexual citizenship It will be of interest to students and researchers of criminology sociology and law engaged in studies of policing social justice and gender and sexuality

The Future of Policing Jennifer Brown, 2013-10-08 The police service in England and Wales is facing major challenges in its financing political oversight and reorganisation of its structures Current economic conditions have created a wholly new environment whereby cost saving is permitting hitherto unthinkable changes in the style and means of delivery of policing services In the context of these proposed changes Lord Stevens formerly Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police Service was asked to chair an Independent Commission looking into the future of policing The Commission has a wide ranging remit and the papers in this book offer up to date analysis of contemporary problems from the novel perspective of developing a reform agenda to assist the Commission Bringing together contributions from both key academic thinkers and police professionals this book discusses new policing paradigms lays out a case for an evidence based practice approach and draws attention to developing areas such as terrorism public order and hate crime Policing is too important to be left to politicians as the health of a democracy may be judged by the relationship between the police and the public The aim of this book is to question and present analyses of problems offer new ideas and propose realistically achievable solutions without being so timid as to preserve the status quo It will be of interest to both academics and students in the fields of criminology and policing studies as well as professionals in the policing service NGOs and local authority organisations
