is given to groups that use educational elements other than second language teaching alone in programs to sustain their particular cultural traditions. The focus of the book on cultural sustainability changes the nature of questions posed in multicultural education from those that address the opening of boundaries to issues of preserving boundaries in an open yet sustainable way. As forced and elective immigration trends are changing the composition of societies and the educational systems within them, bringing a rich diversity of cultural experience to the teaching learning process, diaspora indigenous and minority groups are looking more and more for ways to sustain their cultures in the context of wider socio political influences. This volume is a first opportunity to consider critically multicultural efforts in dialogue with educational options that are culturally particularistic but at the same time tolerant. Academics will find this an excellent reference book. Practitioners will draw inspiration in learning of others efforts to sustain cultures and will engage in critical reflection on their own work vis à vis that of others. Teachers will realize they do not stand alone in their educational efforts and will uncover new strategies and methodologies through which to approach their work.

The chapters draw on a range of critical theoretical perspectives including CRT, LatCrit, Indigenous epistemologies and bilingual education; they also address significant methodological questions that arise when undertaking critical ethnographic work including the key issues of positionality and critical reflexivity.
