Margaret Ogilvy Sir James Matthew Barrie,1929      Margaret Ogilvy J. M. Barrie,2014-06-01 In Margaret Ogilvy author J M Barrie today best remembered for his enduring children s classic Peter Pan presents a loving detailed portrait of his mother As a child Margaret had been forced to become the woman of the house when she was only eight years old filling in as the household manager after her own mother s death Her difficult early life seems to have inspired Barrie s works about children who seek desperately to cling to the carefree days of youth      Margaret Ogilvy J. M. Barrie,1929 Margaret Ogilvy is a book which it is almost sacrilegious to criticise It takes us into a region where there is no longer any relation but the common tie of humanity between author and reader Yet just because it is so inaccessible to ordinary comment it is easy to place the volume It stands unmatched in literature as an idyll of the divinest of human feelings a mother s love It pictures one of those rare lives at once so transparent and so deep that they may endure any scrutiny It lifts the veil from a family interior where faith purity and tenderness are native to the daily life and as it is in the highest range of emotions that the depth and feeling of the soul are best realised this is Mr Barrie s nest and noblest book      Margaret Ogilvy James M. Margaret Ogilvy James Matthew Barrie, 2020-05-03 On the day I was born we bought six hair-bottomed chairs and in our little house it was an event, the first great victory in a woman's long campaign. How they had been laboured for, the pound note and the thirty-three penny bits they cost, what anxiety there was about the purchase, the show they made in possession of the west room, my father's unnatural coolness when he brought them in, but his face was white. I so often heard the tale afterwards and shared as boy and man in so many similar triumphs that the coming of the chairs seems to be something I remember as if I had jumped out of bed on that first day and run down to see how they looked. I am sure my mother's feet were trembling to be seen long before they could be trusted and that the moment after she was left alone with me she was discovered barefooted in the west room, doctoring a scar which she had been the first to detect on one of the chairs, or sitting on them regally, or withdrawing and re-opening the door suddenly to take the six by surprise. And then I think a shawl was flung over her, it is strange to me to think it was not I who ran after her with the shawl and she was escorted sternly back to bed and reminded that she had promised not to budge to which her reply was probably that she had been gone but an instant and the implication that therefore she had not been gone at all. Thus was one little bit of her revealed to me at once. I wonder if I took note of it. Neighbours came in to see the boy and the chairs. I wonder if she deceived me when she affected to think that there were others like us, or whether I saw through her from the first she was so easily seen through. When she seemed to agree with them that it would be impossible to give me a college education, was I so easily taken in, or did I know already what ambitions burned behind that dear face when they spoke of the chairs as the goal quickly reached, was I such a newcomer that her timid lips must say, 'They are but a beginning' before I heard the words. And when we were left together did I laugh at the great things that were in her mind, or had she to whisper them to me first and then did I put my arm round her and tell her that I would help. Thus it was for such a long time it is strange to me to feel that it was not so from the beginning.
