Ehlers,Ph.L. Gibbard,S.

Kozarski, J. Rose, 2020-08-26 Until now no overview of the Quaternary deposits of northeastern Europe has been available. This book fills the gap. It presents the state of research on Quaternary stratigraphy and geology with emphasis on glacial deposits, discusses the general scientific ideas and gives an overview of the methods of investigation, some of which have rarely been applied elsewhere. It has become apparent that the region covered has many environmental problems and a proper understanding of the Quaternary deposits is a basic requirement for dealing with them. The same is true for civil engineering. In the formerly glaciated areas almost all construction sites for roads and houses will encounter glacial deposits. This volume provides an authoritative and fascinating overview for anyone planning to venture into this field. In its 53 regional chapters the book covers Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Russia, Ukraine, Belarus, Poland, the Czech Republic and eastern Germany. From the text it becomes clear that not all the stratigraphical schemes are yet fully compatible or comprehensible. There can be no doubt, however, that the east was subjected to very extensive ice advances during the earlier Pleistocene. Also in contrast to western Europe there was a significant Early Weichselian ice advance, although not as extensive as the last Late Weichselian event. The book is illustrated by 421 figures and 74 colour plates, mostly photographs. There are 23 tables, a detailed index and a list of over 1000 references, providing a unique collection of northeastern European geoscience literature, much of which has so far escaped the attention of western scientists. The volume, composed of contributions by 60 scientists, completes the trilogy on glacial deposits of northern Europe. Together with its two companion volumes, Glacial deposits in North West Europe and Glacial Deposits in Great Britain and Ireland, it represents an invaluable source of information for the geoscientist, the advanced student or the amateur.

Image Analysis and Recognition Mohamed Kamel, Aurélio Campilho, 2005-10-10 ICIAR 2005, the International Conference on Image Analysis and Recognition, was the second ICIAR conference and was held in Toronto, Canada. ICIAR is organized annually and alternates between Europe and North America. ICIAR 2004 was held in Porto, Portugal. The idea of offering these conferences came as a result of discussion between researchers in Portugal and Canada to encourage collaboration and exchange, mainly between these two countries but also with the open participation of other countries, addressing recent advances in theory, methodology and applications. The response to the call for papers for ICIAR 2005 was encouraging. From 295 full papers submitted, 153 were accepted, 80 oral presentations and 73 posters. The review process was carried out by the Program Committee members and other reviewers, all experts in various image analysis and recognition areas. Each paper was reviewed by at least two reviewers and also checked by the conference co-chairs. The high quality of the papers in these proceedings is attributed first to the authors and second to the quality of the reviews provided by the experts. We would like to thank the authors for responding to our call and we wholeheartedly thank the reviewers for their excellent work and for their timely response. It is this collective effort that resulted in the strong conference program and high quality proceedings in your hands.
