Margins A Naturalist Meets Long Island Sound:

Margins Mary Parker Buckles,1997 Twenty four million people live within one hundred miles of Long Island Sound the 110 mile long body of water that separates Long Island from Connecticut and New York's mainland Yet the land sky and intertidal areas that Mary Parker Buckles explores in Margins as well as the water itself have remained virtually uncelebrated until now While the Sound has been endangered by pollution and development it is far from dead as some picture it Buckles's inspired explorations show that in fact it teems with life and is well worth our attention With a deft touch and a naturalist's keen eye Buckles introduces herself and us to this stimulating environment Blending hard science with her own often whimsical observations she discovers the magic of shorebirds on a stopover during their semi annual migrations and comes to appreciate the temperament of owls the intricacy of barnacles the crusty horseshoe crab and the fragile osprey chick Buckles explains what the ongoing battle over wetlands is all about and elucidates the complexities of the place she describes as inherently sacred by virtue of being alive A Field Guide to Long Island Sound Patrick J. Lynch,2017-01-01 Cover Half title Title Copyright Contents Acknowledgments Preface Regional map Introduction Physical coast Weather and water Human history Shallows Depths Beaches and dunes Rocky shores Salt marshes Coastal forests Connecticut locations New York locations Bibliography Illustration Credits Index A B C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T V W Y The End of the Hamptons Corey Dolgon,2006-06 From polo players to migrant workers an inside peek at one of America's most exclusive communities Women Writing Nature Barbara J. Cook,2008-01-01 Women Writing Nature addresses the question Do women write about nature differently In the process the collection considers women's writings about the natural world in light of recent and current feminist and ecofeminist theory Cruising World,2000-01 Women, Subalterns, and Ecologies in South and Southeast Asian Women's Fiction Chitra Sankaran,2021-11-01 In recent decades East Asia has gained prominence and has become synonymous with Asia while other Asian regions such as South and Southeast Asia have been subsumed under it The resultant overgeneralization has meant that significant aspects of the global ecological crisis as they affect these two regions have been overlooked Chitra Sankaran refocuses the global lens on these two rapidly developing regions of Asia Combining South Asian and Southeast Asian philosophical views and folk perspectives with mainstream ecocritical and ecofeminist theories she generates a localized critical idiom that qualifies and subverts some established theoretical assumptions This pioneering study introducing a corpus of more than thirty ecofictions by women writers from twelve countries in South and Southeast Asia examines how recent global threats to ecosystems in both nature and culture impact subdominant groups including women This new corpus reveals how women and subalterns engage with various aspects of critical ecologies Using ecofeminist theory augmented by postcolonial and risk theories as the main theoretical framework Sankaran argues that these women writers present unique perspectives that review Asian women's relationships to human and nonhuman worlds This Fine Piece of Water Tom Andersen,2002-01-01 Long Island Sound is not only the most heavily used estuary in North America it is also one of the most beautiful waterways with picturesque seascapes and landfalls But centuries of pollution and other abuse have gradually been killing off its marine life and have pushed the Sound to the brink of disaster This fascinating book traces the history of the Sound and its use as a resource from the time of contact between the Native Americans and Dutch traders through the suburban sprawl of recent decades and tells how a group of scientists and citizens has been working to save the Sound from ruin Tom Andersen begins by describing the dramatic events of the summer of 1987 when a condition called hypoxia lack of dissolved oxygen in the water brought about by a combination of pollution and other factors killed large numbers of fish and lobsters in the Sound He discusses how scientists first documented and explained the development of hypoxia and how research and cleanup are now being carried out to restore the Sound Interweaving current events natural history and human history Andersen presents a cautionary tale of exploitation without concern for preservation

Theology that Matters Darby Kathleen Ray, What difference does theological thinking make Does Christianity have any relevance for our secular globalized environmentally threatened world Specifically formulated for undergraduate and seminary courses in theology this volume answers a resounding yes Gathering many respected and original Christian thinkers who have been inspired by the example and work of theologian Sallie McFague this book engages such topics as God Christ revelation eschatology and church in three intertwined and pressing areas 1 our religious life and language in a secularized pluralistic society 2 our newly globalized economic life and 3 our threatened environmental life

Embracing the Track of Phrase: An Psychological Symphony within Margins A Naturalist Meets Long Island Sound

In a world used by monitors and the ceaseless chatter of fast interaction, the melodic elegance and psychological symphony produced by the prepared word frequently fade into the background, eclipsed by the persistent noise and disruptions that permeate our lives. But, located within the pages of Margins A Naturalist Meets Long Island Sound a marvelous literary value filled with organic thoughts, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Crafted by a wonderful musician of language, this fascinating masterpiece conducts readers on a mental journey, well unraveling the concealed melodies and profound impact resonating within each carefully constructed phrase. Within the depths of the touching review, we will discover the book is main harmonies, analyze their enthralling writing design, and surrender ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
