Helms, 2013-08-26 In ancient Mediterranean cultures diamonds were thought to endow their owners with invincibility In contemporary United States culture a foreign made luxury car is believed to give its owner status and prestige Where do these beliefs come from In this study of craft production and long distance trade in traditional nonindustrial societies Mary W Helms explores the power attributed to objects that either are produced by skilled artisans and or come from afar She argues that fine artisanship and long distance trade both of which are more available to powerful elites than to ordinary people are means of creating or acquiring tangible objects that embody intangible powers and energies from the cosmological realms of gods ancestors or heroes Through the objects these qualities become available to human society and confer honor and power on their possessors Helms novel approach equates trade with artistry and emphasizes acquisition rather than distribution She rejects the classic Western separation between economics and aesthetics and offers a new paradigm for understanding traditional societies that will be of interest to all anthropologists and archaeologists Harvesting Development Karl Benediktsson, 2002 This work addresses the global local tension evident in much work on development issues through the example of fresh food markets in Papua New Guinea A key feature of the book is the author's interweaving of theoretical constructs with a detailed ethnography of marketing networks at the rural village and the urban market place as well as in the spaces in between It shows the rural community not as an isolated universe but as consisting of dynamic linkages and networks which extend way beyond the locality At the same time local actors with their own agendas and interpretations of the meta narrative of development are shown to be crucially important for shaping the outcome of the market integration process Parrots Matt Cameron,2012-09 The beautiful plumage of parrots and the ability to mimic sounds are both a blessing and a curse Plumes from Paradise Pamela Swadling,Roy Wagner,Billai Laba,2019 The natural resources of New Guinea and nearby islands have attracted outsiders for at least 5000 years spices aromatic woods and barks resins plumes sea slugs shells and pearls all brought traders from distant markets Among the most sought after was the bird of paradise Their magnificent plumes bedecked the hats of fashion conscious women in Europe and America provided regalia for the Kings of Nepal and decorated the headdresses of Janissaries of the Ottoman Empire Plumes from Paradise tells the story of this interaction and of the economic political social and cultural consequence for the island s inhabitants It traces 400 years of economic and political history culminating in the plume boom of the early part of the 20th century when an unprecedented number of outsiders flocked to the island s coasts and hinterlands The story teems with the variety of people involved New Guineans Indonesians Chinese Europeans hunters traders natural historians and their collectors officials missionaries planters miners adventurers of every kind In the wings were the conservationists whose efforts brought the slaughter of the plume boom to an end and ushered in an era of comparative isolation for the island that lasted until World War II A Handbook of Economic Anthropology, Second Edition James G. Carrier,2012-01-01 Acclaim for the first edition The volume is a remarkable contribution to economic anthropology and will no doubt be a fundamental tool for students scholars and experts in the sub discipline Mao Mollona Journal of the Royal Anthropological Institute This excellent overview would serve as an excellent text for advanced undergraduate and graduate level classroom use Because of the clarity conciseness and accessibility of the writing the chapters in this volume likely will be often cited and recommended to those who want the alternative and frequently culturally comparative perspective on economic topics that anthropology provides Highly recommended All academic levels libraries K F Rambo Choice The first edition of this unique Handbook was praised for its substantial and invaluable summary discussions of work by anthropologists on economic processes and issues on the relationship between economic and non economic areas of life and on the conceptual orientations that are important among economic anthropologists This thoroughly revised edition brings those discussions up to date and includes an important new section exploring ways that leading anthropologists have approached the current economic crisis Its scope and accessibility make it useful both to those who are interested in a particular topic and to those who want to see the breadth and fruitfulness of an anthropological study of economy This comprehensive Handbook will strongly appeal to undergraduate and post graduate students in anthropology economists interested in social and cultural dimensions of economic life and alternative approaches to economic life political economists political scientists and historians The Protohistoric Pueblo World, A.D. 1275-1600 E. Charles Adams,Andrew I. Duff,2016-04 In the centuries before the arrival of Europeans the Pueblo world underwent nearly continuous reorganization Populations moved from Chaco Canyon and the great centers of the Mesa Verde region to areas along the Rio Grande the Little Colorado River and the Mogollon Rim where they began constructing larger and differently organized villages many with more than 500 rooms Villages also tended to occur in clusters that have been interpreted in a number of different ways This book describes and interprets this period of southwestern history immediately before and after initial European contact A D 1275 1600 a span of time during which Pueblo peoples and culture were dramatically transformed It summarizes one hundred years of research and archaeological data for the Pueblo IV period as it explores the nature of the organization of village clusters and what they meant in behavioral and political terms Twelve of the chapters individually examine the northern and eastern portions of the Southwest and the groups who settled there during the protohistoric period The authors develop histories for settlement clusters that offer insights into their unique development and the variety of ways that villages formed these clusters These analyses show the extent to which spatial clusters of large settlements may have formed regionally organized alliances and in some cases they reveal a connection between protohistoric villages and indigenous or migratory groups from the preceding period This volume is distinct from other recent syntheses of Pueblo IV research in that it treats the settlement cluster as the analytic unit By analyzing how members of clusters of villages interacted with one another it offers a clearer understanding of the value of this level of analysis and suggests possibilities for future research In addition to offering new insights on the Pueblo IV world the volume serves as a compendium of information on more than 400 known villages larger than 50 rooms It will be of lasting interest not only to archaeologists but also to geographers land managers and general readers interested in Pueblo culture

Engaging with Capitalism Fiona McCormack, Kate Barclay, 2013-05-14 The volume addresses how capitalism has been very effective in generating wealth and technological innovation but has also been associated with social inequity and environmental damage Its inherent flaws have been highlighted by the escalation of ecological problems arising from growth oriented capitalism and various economic crises

Filiation And Affiliation Harold W Scheffler, 2018-02-23 Announcements in the 1970s and 1980s of the death of kinship and descent as subjects of anthropological study were highly premature These subjects continue routinely to be encountered in the course of empirical ethnographic research and to be reported upon in ethnographies or they are ignored at the peril of ethnographers pathetically unprepared to deal with them Moreover considerable evidence has accumulated that systems of social relations built on relations of genealogical connection exhibit a remarkable degree of orderliness about which it is possible already to make a number of substantial empirical generalizations especially about the qualities of social relations within and between groups As the masters of the subject always stressed kinship and political and jural organization are closely interdependent structures In this wide ranging theoretical and comparative ethnographic study Harold Scheffler demonstrates that there is a simple reason why detection of this order has been too long delayed and has given rise to more destructive than to constructive debate in social anthropology

argument for the importance of circulation in the study of museum collections past and present It brings together an impressive array of international scholars and curators from a wide variety of disciplines including the history of science museum anthropology and postcolonial history to consider the mobility of collections The book combines historical perspectives on the circulation of museum objects in the past with contemporary accounts of their re mobilisation notably in the context of Indigenous community engagement Contributors seek to explore processes of circulation historically in order to re examine inform and unsettle common assumptions about the way museum collections have evolved over time and through space By foregrounding questions of circulation the chapters in Mobile Museums collectively represent a fundamental shift in the understanding of the history and future uses of museum collections The book addresses a variety of different types of collection including the botanical the ethnographic the economic and the archaeological Its perspective is truly global with case studies drawn from South America West Africa Oceania Australia the United States Europe and the UK Mobile Museums helps us to understand why the mobility of museum collections was a fundamental aspect of their history and why it continues to matter today Praise for Mobile Museums This book advances a paradigm shift in studies of museums and collections A distinguished group of contributors reveal that collections are not dead assemblages The nineteenth and twentieth centuries were marked by vigorous international traffic in ethnography and natural history specimens that tell us much about colonialism travel and the history of knowledge and have implications for the remobilisation of museums in the future Nicholas Thomas University of Cambridge The first major work to examine the implications and consequences of the migration of materials from one scientific or cultural milieu to another it highlights the need for a more nuanced understanding of collections and offers insights into their potential for future re mobilisation Arthur MacGregor

Archaeology Barry W. Cunliffe, Wendy Davies, Colin Renfrew, 2002 Twenty six leading scholars from around the world have come together to celebrate the strengths the energies and the sheer intellectual excitement of their discipline They unashamedly proclaim that over the last hundred years archaeology has transformed itself from a genteel antiquarian pursuit deeply rooted in the classical tradition to a rigorous and demanding discipline spanning the humanities and the sciences yet at the same time one widely accessible to the public at large The contributors show how our understanding of the past has changed reveal the exciting ideas under current debate and offer their visions of the future The result is a remarkable overview of world archaeology focusing on new and unexpected themes at the cutting edge of the discipline
